WIDOW CALLS FOR COP, FOR IT'S COP SHE WANTS

Mrs. Anna Luby, 1403 East 72d place, a widow, telephoned to the Grand Crossing police station last night requesting to see a policeman. Patrolman Paul Thimm, who has been married four times, but who now is single, and Patrolman John Budridge responded.

"I have no complaint to make," Mrs. Luby said when the policemen arrived, "but I want your help. My husband died two years ago, leaving me $4,000, of which I have $300 left. Now what I want is to meet a nice, young policeman or fireman. Those brave men make tender husbands, I am told."

The policemen returned to their station. An entry made in the station complaint book by the desk sergeant had to be answered.

"I will give this complaint my personal attention," Policeman Thimm wrote in the book.

METEOR DISPLAY MAY GREET EARLY RISER TOMORROW

Early risers tomorrow morning may, if they rise an hour or two before daylight, be rewarded by a brilliant display of celestial fire balls—the Leonid meteors, which will be visible until Wednesday.

These meteors made a historic display in 1866. They recur in about 33 year periods, but in 1899, their last appearance, they proved a disappointment. That Nov. 14 and the succeeding four days, they showed only in fitful flashes.

Astronomers are not predicting the intensity of this year's display, but a sample of how they have looked in past years is being shown to audiences at the Adler Planetarium in the November lectures. Yesterday's lectures were given by Miss Maude Bennot.

England Plans Drive to Buy British Goods

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Officially termed the biggest peace time push in Britain's history, a drive by [illegible] men, manufacturers, shippers, clothiers, builders, and everybody else having something of British origin to sell will begin Monday night with the active help of the government and royalty.

The idea is to keep all British money inside the country by buying home products first. The dominions are next in line, if the domestic market cannot supply the needed article, according to the purpose of the campaign. The prince of Wales, one of the best salesmen of British products, will open the drive with an appeal Monday night and will be followed by J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions.

4,000,000 Posters Go Up.

"Not only is the question of the balance of trade involved," Mr. Thomas said today, "but the spending of money with foreigners seriously affects our financial position. No legislation can be so effective as the determination of the people to ask for British goods."

Mr. Thomas pleaded with the press to help the campaign and today became a temporary editor in chief for the drive, suggesting to London papers articles they might print to help the drive.

The push will be supported by 4,000,000 posters, stickers and signs. The country will look like the United States during the wartime sale of Liberty bonds. Appeals "to buy at home" will even be posted on the undersides of all aircraft.

Jobless to Distribute Posters.

Unemployment exchanges, women's clubs, Boy Scouts and automobile clubs will distribute posters. Theaters will print "buy British" advertisements on their programs, and the cinemas will run two-minute talkies. One minute will be given to Prime Minister MacDonald and one minute to George Lansbury, leader of the Labor opposition.

The dominions will also be brought in. Thomas will open the Australian exhibit Monday with an address broadcast throughout Australia. His speech will be followed by one by Prime Minister Scullin of Australia. Most of the work is voluntary, so the drive is costing the governmental empire marketing board practically nothing.

SHOTGUN FIRED BY HUNTING DOG; MASTER IS SLAIN

With a hunting dog and two friends, Herman Havenga, 26 years old, a farmer living three miles north of Des Plaines, started out on a hunt for rabbits yesterday.

Near dam No. 2 Havenga came upon a new rabbit hole. He laid his shotgun, hammer cocked, on the ground and stooped over the hole. Eager for the hunt, the dog bounded toward his master. A forepaw scraped the trigger.

There was an explosion as the shotgun was discharged. Havenga fell to the ground, both legs torn by the shot. His companions, John Bolt of Berwyn and Albert Van Der Molen, rushed him to the Des Plaines Northwestern hospital. Havenga died there early this morning.

Theater employes and the policeman were unable to learn what caused the breaking of the glass eye.

REPORTED GONE FROM ASSETS OF BAIN CONCERN

Find More Papers of 'Brown Package.'

The Cook county grand jury and the state's attorney's office yesterday took leading parts in the investigation of the conditions which caused the Bain chain of twelve banks to close with deposits of $12,000,000.

IRWIN T. GILRUTH.

After several witnesses had testified before the grand jury it was disclosed that the state's attorney has for some time been examining the books of the Bain institutions and is specifically trying to find out what became of $885,000. A discrepancy of that amount, it was said, existed in the accounts, of the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, of which John Bain was president.

Detail Missing Funds.

As the reports outlined this investigation, $175,000 of the total was missing from trust funds or had been misapplied; $160,000 is suspected of having been obtained under false pretenses and $550,000 is believed to have been represented by false assets.

The grand jury proceeded slowly with its questioning of witnesses. One of those called was Fred E. Edgerton, chief bank examiner for State Auditor Oscar Nelson in Cook county. It is understood that he was asked in general about the appointment of receivers and attorneys of closed banks, about his methods and those of his subordinates in bank examinations and about means which might have been used to deceive them in periodic investigations.

Receiver Before Jurors.

Irwin T. Gilruth, general receiver for all the Bain banks, also was questioned in the grand jury room. It is reported he was asked to comment on the manner in which these banks were operated and whether there were any misapplication and misuse of depositors' funds and borrowers' securities.

Indications were given that Mr. Gilruth may be recalled on Monday. Another witness called was Charles H. Meecham, formerly secretary of John Bain, Inc., but now employed by Mr. Gilruth.

Find More of "Brown Package."

Some of the contents of the mysterious "brown package" which figured in the inquiry under way before Judge Michael Feinberg were discovered yesterday in a steel cabinet found last Tuesday by the sheriff. The value of these securities is to be disclosed when Judge Feinberg reopens his quiz on Tuesday.

The cabinet was found in the offices of the South Side Agency and Loan company at 7841 South Ashland avenue, where John Bain and his sons, John H. and Robert Bain, are now carried on the rolls as assistant managers. It was said several days would be required to itemize the contents for their presentation to Judge Feinberg, who has been trying to find assets to recoup some of the losses of the depositors.

Find Some in Safe.

Robert Bain told Judge Feinberg on Thursday that all the contents of the package which disappeared last June 24 with his father would be found in a safe in the loan office. An investigation revealed that only a few bonds which could be converted into cash were in the safe. The remaining securities consisted mostly of Bain bank stocks which are now worthless.

A number of securities which had been in the package had disappeared, it was discovered, when the safe was examined. The search then turned to the steel cabinet, which yielded a mass of securities the value of which is not yet known.

Uncover $151,000.

Judge Feinberg yesterday revealed that his work in another bank case, that of the West Central State bank had uncovered $151,000 in cash and securities for the depositors. This will be augmented next Tuesday, he said, when Terry Druggan, gangster who was one of the bank's debtors, has promised to pay $2,500 and Abe Krecum, "professional bankrupt," has agreed to pay another $2,500.

In referring to the Bain bank inquiry, Judge Feinberg said that the Massillon, O., angle of the hearing

45,000 Watch Cornhusking World Series

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grundy Center, Ia., Nov. 13.—Friday the thirteenth was a lucky day for Orville Welch, stalwart farm lad of Platt county, Illinois, who won the national corn husking contest over fifteen other contestants from seven other cornbelt states here this afternoon before the largest crowd of farmers ever assembled in Iowa.

Over 45,000 persons swarmed the Clyde Wilhelm farm, blocking highways in every direction for as much as ten miles, in an effort to see the "Cornbelt Derby," where sixteen bronze faced, steel muscled state champions were in action for the 80 minute period.

31.37 Bushels Wins.

Welch husked 31.37 bushels to win over his closest competitor, Theodore Balko of Redwood county, Minnesota, who surprised the corn growing Iowans by nosing out their favorite, Lee Carey of Marshall county, Iowa, champion. Balko not only husked a big load of corn, but was docked very little on his score because his husking had been so thorough. His net load was 30.5 bushels. Carey husked 30.1 bushels to retain third place. Carl Seiter of Knox county, Illinois, was fourth, with 29.65 bushels, and Omer Little of Kansas was fifth with 28.9 bushels.

Welch's record here today, while the best in several years of the national eliminations, fell considerably short of the world's record still held by Elmer Williams, "praying corn shucker" of Mercer county, Illinois. Williams in 1925 husked 35.8 bushels.

Welch is 26 years old and lives at Monticello, Ill. He finished fifth in the 1930 contest.

Spectators from Far Points.

Before daybreak this morning auto loads of enthusiastic Iowans began to trek toward Grundy Center from all parts of the state, while cars with licenses of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Ohio, Missouri, and Arkansas were in evidence.

The field of corn, soaked by two days of rain earlier in the week, today had been laid out in six row plots eighty rods in length. Nearly every contestant finished this plot containing some 2,300 hills of corn that was yielding 65 bushels to the acre.

At high noon the wagons, pulled by prancing Percheron teams, the pride of the countryside, lined up at the starting line. A few words from Gov. Dan Turner that "this crowd plainly tells the world Iowa has the courage and determination to pull through these times," were followed by the report of a gun.

Crack! Bang! A volley of solid golden ears began battering the sides of sixteen wagons as the contest was opened. Crowds roared, the band played a lively march and the sixteen huskers bent and twisted their way through the rows of yellow cornstalks.

Gala Day for Crowd.

The field was wet underfoot, and the ears did not break loose as easily as they would in dry, frosty weather. But the crowd was making the best of a great event on an ideal November day. Each husker was followed by a horde of admirers. Overhead the radio was telling listeners of 44 stations as well as the assembled multitude the progress of each man.

Another unusual feature of the farm Derby this year was the parade, which started within a stone's throw of the little white schoolhouse where Herbert Quick, the novelist, once pored over his primer. Marion Syndergaard, the nation's healthiest farm girl, led the procession, a unique sight with sixteen beautiful two horse teams drawing bright green and yellow wheeled wagons.

In each wagon rode the heroes of the day, the warriors on their way to battle—the cornhuskers. They were followed by the mounted judges, and each wagon was followed by two lads in fresh denim overalls, whose sacks were thrown over their shoulders in which to gather up any nubbins or ears that the huskers missed or threw over the wagon. These, together with the husks which are not cleaned from the ears, discount the total amount each entrant garners in that tortuous hour and twenty minutes.

Legionnaires directed the traffic and made a vain effort to keep in bounds a ponderous, milling crowd. Women in a dozen big tents dispensed doughnuts and coffe eto a multitude.

Attended by "Seconds."

At last the huskers, done with the battle for which they have been priming for months, straighten and relax their back and leg muscles. Another grand march takes them from the cornfield to a grassy knoll, where their corn is weighed, and on a great blackboard the crowd cheers each record as it is posted.

Present at today's contest, the largest event of its kind in the ten years of cornhusking competitions, was H. A. Wallace, farm editor who first started this classic of the corn belt.

As he turned to view the sixty acres of pasture filled solid with autos, he wondered, as did thousands present, if farm life was as bad as politicians have been painting it.

GET OUT IN 11 DAYS! JAPANESE ORDER TO CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 14.—(Saturday.)—Japanese army headquarters in Manchuria today handed an ultimatum to Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese commander, demanding that he withdraw his troops from Tsitsihar and Anganchi by Nov. 25 or Japan "will take effective measures." Should the Chinese obey, the ultimatum said, Japan will withdraw her troops south towards Taonan and Chenchiatun.

BULLETIN.

NANKING, Nov. 14.—(Saturday.)—(AP)—The Central Daily News, Nationalist government organ, said this morning that the Japanese troops have occupied Anganchi. The paper quoted Gen. Ma Chan-san as saying that the Japanese were approaching Tsitsihar, which he would defend "at all costs."

HARBIN, Manchuria, Nov. 13.—A battle which may decide the fate of all northern Manchuria, long considered under soviet control, is raging today along the Nonni river. Dispatches from Gen. Ma Chan-shan, commander of the Chinese forces, said the Chinese lines were holding. Other reports, not confirmed here, said a portion of the Japanese army had been driven back by the Chinese.

The battle began early this morning when Japanese forces holding the Taonan-Anganchi railway at the Nonni river bridge launched a furious bombardment on the Chinese positions a few miles south of Anganchi. The attack followed the expiration at midnight of a Japanese ultimatum demanding Gen. Ma's resignation as provisional governor of Heilungkiang province, the withdrawal of Chinese troops from Tsitsihar, and permission for Japanese guards to patrol the Taonan-Anganchi railway to Anganchi station, which is within the soviet controlled Chinese Eastern railway zone.

Gen Ma. Spurns Ultimatum.

Gen. Ma refused to comply with the ultimatum and told the Japanese to direct their request to the Nanking government or to refer it to the league of nations. According to a telephone message from Gen. Ma this morning, the Japanese artillery bombardment of the Chinese position began immediately at midnight. The Japanese, Gen. Ma said, also used cavalry and tried to outflank the Chinese positions, but he claimed the Chinese lines were holding out.

Gen. Ma's report said the Japanese apparently completed repairs on the bridge across the Nonni river, moved up two companies of heavy artillery and immediately started attacks on the Chinese troops. The Chinese general's telegram concluded with an appeal to "inform the league of nations at Geneva."

The telegram was addressed to Chung Yu, Harbin commissioner of foreign affairs, who immediately transmitted it to the American, British, French and German consuls with instructions to release it to the press.

Believe Soviets Not Involved.

The American consul, George C. Hanson, and other foreign consuls here are convinced that Gen. Ma is not receiving Russian assistance, as Japanese reports allege, and that his only ammunition supply is from a small Chinese arsenal located at Tsitsihar, which is turning out 10,000 cartridges and 100 shells of 7½ and 15 centimeters daily. One foreign consul said the Japanese consul at Tsitsihar had admitted that Gen. Ma is not receiving Russian assistance, but the Japanese consul at Manchuli, on the Siberian border, alleged that trans-Siberian cars carrying kerosene also contained concealed munitions.

While the Japanese claim that Gen. Ma has 20,000 trops in the Tsitsihar district, foreign military observers here state the number is only 7,000. Included in this number are many raw recruits.

Rumors that Gen. Ma is receiving assistance from trained communist Chinese and Corean forces which crossed into Manchuria from Siberia at Blagovestschensk are denied by the Chinese.

Think Chinese Face Defeat.

The opinion in foreign consular circles is that Gen. Ma will be unable to hold out against the Japanese force, which is now reinforced and practically equals the Chinese. The Japanese force includes superior military equipment, plus a number of air bombers, and observers here believe the Japanese are likely to occupy Tsitsihar.

This would place the Japanese astride the Chinese Eastern railway, a position from where they would be able to dominate Harbin, since the Japanese are already in control of most of Kirin province, to the south. There would thus be pressure on Harbin from two sides.

While American and British newspaper correspondents talked with Chinese telegraph directors here this morning to arrange for press facilities, two Japanese called and represented themselves as emissaries of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in chief in Manchuria. They warned the Chinese against accepting messages likely to be considered detrimental to Japanese interests.

Fear for U. S. Missionaries.

The American consul general here today expressed anxiety for four American missionaries, members of the Reformed Presbyterian church, who are stationed at Tsitsihar. Their names and addresses follow:

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Vos, 52 Marcer street, Princeton, N. J. [Mrs. Vos is a daughter of W. G. Milligan, Olathe, Kas.]; Miss Lillian L. McCracken, Beaver county, Pa., and Miss Rose Huston, Blanchard, Ia.

When the Sino-Japanese fighting first developed in the Nonni river district, Vice Consul T. Leonard Lillie-strom here advised the missionaries to come to Harbin, but when the situation improved later, they decided to remain. Their present status is unknown, the consul said.

Charge Aid by Russia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Nov. 13.—The official spokesman at the Japanese army headquarters here today appeared convinced that aid is being given Gen. Ma by soviet Russia.

"The Chinese forces now at Anganchi," he declared, "include 500 Chinese and Corean communist partisans, 300 of whom crossed the Sino-soviet border at Blagovestchensk and Tahelho, and 200 from the upper Amur river region. These recruits from soviet Russia are dressed in Chinese army uniforms."

The spokesman also said twelve carloads of arms and ammunition for the Chinese arrived at Anganchi "from the west" on Nov. 6 and another five carloads were unloaded there since that time.

It is reported here that the rebel forces of Chang Hai-peng, Chinese independence leader, who is supported by Japan, have moved north of the Nonni river and, heavily armed with a number of field pieces, are preparing to engage the left flank of Gen. Ma's defense line.

Report Boy King Off to Manchuria.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

TIENTSIN, CHINA, Nov. 13.—Henry Pu-Yi, China's former boy emperor, was represented by Chinese sources today to be on his way to Manchuria with the former empress to be installed by the Japanese as the ruler of the independent government which they set up several days ago after deposing Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang.

A Japanese official termed the report "premature" but intimated that plans were under foot to elevate the youth to a Manchurian throne sooner or later.

The story persisted, however, that he and his party had been hustled out of the Japanese concession, in which he has lived since 1924, late last night and placed aboard a steamer for Dairen. He was escorted to the waterfront by Japanese soldiers, it was said, and embarked on a launch, from which he was later transferred.

Chinese Troops to Quit Tientsin

PEIPING, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, capitulated tonight to a demand by Japanese authorities that Chinese troops in Tientsin withdraw to a point six miles from the city.

This was said to be in accordance with the terms of the Boxer Protocol of 1900, which laid down protective measures for the foreign concessions. Marshal Chang insisted, however, that the native police in Tientsin be allowed to increase their numbers.

Japanese Reinforcements Sail.

TOKIO, Nov. 14.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—A mixed brigade of the Eighth division started for Manchuria from Aomori amidst the cheers of a large crowd. Special trains went out in quick succession and were greeted by crowds at stations all along the route.

Russia Scents A Plot.

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Moscow newspapers today published dispatches from Peiping saying a White guardist named Ushakov had been arrested on his arrival from Harbin and documents in his possession were proof that provocative action against Russia was being prepared by Japanese military authorities. White Russians are cooperating with the Japanese in these purported preparations, the dispatches said.

Ushakov was declared to have had a letter from a Japanese military agent in Manchuria named Weddo. The White Russian, the dispatches said, described himself as a member of the "Kharbine active group of Amur Cossacks" controlled by White guardists named Kriukanov and Belkov.

Members of this group have been sent to Tsitsihar and Hailar, the dispatches stated, to communicate with bandit elements in preparation for an insurrection. The uprising reportedly was to be handled as an "emancipation movement."

Inventor Visits Chicago, Praises City Car Lines

Frank J. Sprague, engineer and inventor, who arrived in Chicago yesterday, said that Chicago has the greatest street car and elevated system in the world. Mr. Sprague, who is 74 years old, and known as "the father of electric transportation," was the guest of Guy A. Richardson, traction official. Among Mr. Sprague's accomplishments in the field of transportation is the invention of the multiple control system, which permits the operation of several cars under the control of one man. He is now working on a device whereby more than one elevator can be operated in one shaft, he said.

DAWES IN PARIS TO HELP LEAGUE HUNT FOR PEACE

Insists U. S. Reserves Its Independence of Action.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 13.—On the eve of one of the most crucial international conferences since the peace conference, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, upon his arrival in Paris tonight for the meeting of the league of nations council Monday on the Manchurian dispute, gave formal assurance that the United States intends to preserve all its liberty of action.

CHARLES G. DAWES

The ambassador declared the special seat reserved for America at the council table would have to remain vacant. In fact, Gen. Dawes does not even expect to attend the council sessions or place any other American observer there.

This is a marked change from the previous American attitude of supporting the league so closely in its actions on the Manchurian dispute as to abandon all trace of an independent policy.

Dawes Issues Statement.

The American position could not be stated more plainly than in the terse, clear cut statement Gen. Dawes handed to newspaper men at the Gare du Nord as he stepped off the train.

"The United States is not a member of the league and the methods which have been followed on occasions when matters of mutual concern to the league and ourselves were under consideration have varied.

"On this occasion there is no anticipation on the part of the government or of myself that it will be found necessary for me to attend the meetings of the council.

"I am here to confer with the council members individually with regard to problems which are of common concern and involve mutual treaty interests. I hope to make every contact which is essential to the exercise of any influence we may have in properly supporting the league's effort to avert war and to make effective the Kellogg pact.

Kellogg Pact Affected.

"The council, in considering the Manchurian situation, is dealing with matters which presumably affect not only the treaty rights and general interests of the United States under the nine power pact, but relate to the Kellogg pact as well."

Gen. Dawes' arrival was not marked by an official reception. He was merely met at the station by Williamson S. Howell Jr., American chargé d'affaires, and a representative of Aristide Briand, president of the league council. After exchanging a few words with newspaper men he drove off to the Ritz, which will be his headquarters for a week or so. He is expected to see Briand and possibly Kenkichi Yoshizawa, chief Japanese league delegate, tomorrow.

Japan Stands Pat.

TOKIO, Nov. 13.—(AP)—As the date of the league of nations council meeting drew nearer the various departments of the Japanese government appeared today to be joining hands in support of the general staff's plans and the foreign office's firm stand toward China.

It was recognized at the outbreak of the trouble in Manchuria that considerable difference of opinion existed between the foreign office and the war department, and between the war department and the general staff, as to how far Japan should go in her occupation measures.

Officials now are engaged in a campaign to convince member nations of the league that the Japanese incursion into nontreaty zones was a matter of "life and death" and that Japan's existence is unavoidably interwoven with its economic power in Manchuria.

BANDIT SHOOTS PURSUER AFTER HE IS CAUGHT

Roy Chauncey Tuttle, 31 years old, of 1144 South Canal street, faced Bernard Dick, 21, of 411 S. Monroe street, cashier in the lunchroom at 725 West Madison street, last night. In one hand Tuttle held an old revolver. The other he thrust into the cash drawer, snatched its contents and scurried out of the door.

As Tuttle passed the window outside Dick hurled a typewriter at him. The machine crashed through the plate glass window, missed its fleeting mark, and landed, broken, on the sidewalk.

Then Dick gave chase. A block away he caught the robber. Tuttle broke away and fired, the bullet piercing Dick's right wrist. Policemen Ray Grace and James O'Shea saw the fight, and seized the bandit. They took him back to the restaurant and made an inventory of the damage: One broken plate glass window, $75; one broken typewriter, $25, and one shattered wrist.

Tuttle was searched. His loot amounted to $6.

NEW CHINESE OFFICIAL HERE ON WAY TO POST

Dr. Hawkling Yen, new chargé d'affaires of the Chinese legation at Washington, passed through Chicago yesterday to take over his new duties. He expressed hope over the Chinese-Japanese crisis, and asserted that China for the most part is opposed to the communistic form of government or any aid from the soviet forces in the struggle.

A current misconception in America, according to Dr. Yen, is that of the actual status of Manchuria. "The Manchurian government is a part and parcel of the Chinese government," said Dr. Yen. "Its governor, Marshal Chang Hseuh-liang, is Chinese and affiliated with the Nanking government."

Among those who greeted Dr. Yen at the Union station were Dr. Koliang Yih, Chinese consul general in Chicago; Tsinlan Ouang, vice consul, and Tom Chaan, leader of the Chinese National party in the central United States. Dr. Yen received his doctor's degree from Columbia university in 1911. Accompanying him on his trip to Washington was his son, Chuang Hsu Yen.

EX-CONGRESSMAN ARRIVES HOME FROM U. S. PRISON

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Harry E. Rowbottom, former First district congressman, arrived home this afternoon via the Louisville and Nashville railroad from St. Louis, having been paroled from Leavenworth prison after serving eight months of his "year and a day" term, given him for selling postoffice department jobs.

He was met at the station by Mrs. Rowbottom and his son, Emmerson, with a group of friends. He is to enter the insurance business here with former Mayor Herbert Males.

Under the conditions of his parole Rowbottom may not talk to newspaper men.

LIQUOR REVENUE ENABLES QUEBEC TO SHOW SURPLUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13.—Liquor revenues again enabled the province of Quebec to show a surplus of income over all expenditures during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931.

Figures made public today reveal that the provincial treasury received from the Quebec liquor commission the sum of $8,700,721, although only $7,700,721 was counted in the ordinary revenue, as $1,000,000 was turned over to a trust fund, the Quebec charities act.

The province's surplus for the year was $775,775. Ordinary receipts totaled $41,620,620, while ordinary disbursements were $40,853,844.

DIES AT HER SWITCHBOARD.

Miss Pauline L. Tolman, 50 years old, 1257 Loyola avenue, died from cerebral hemorrhage yesterday as she sat at the switchboard of Stein, Alstrin & Co., brokerage house at 209 La Salle street, where she had been employed for many years.

U. S. HOME LOAN BANKS SYSTEM, PLAN OF HOOVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—President Hoover today announced that he would recommend to congress the creation of a federal system of home loan banks, with capital of from $60,000,000 to $360,000,000, furnished in part by the government and designed to assist and by rediscount extend the credit facilities of building and loan associations, banks, and other institutions making loans on home property.

According to Mr. Hoover's announcement, the proposed federal home loan system would be intended to relieve the financial strain upon institutions holding small mortgages on home property, both urban and rural. It would, said the President, tend to relieve pressure upon home and farm owners; would enable new credit to be extended for home construction and to aid the building industry, and would promote home ownership.

Points to Lack of Credit.

The President said, in making his announcement:

"The immediate credit situation has, for the time being, in many parts of the country, restricted severely the activities of building and loan associations, deposit banks including country banks, and savings departments, savings banks and farm loan companies in such a fashion that they are not only not able to extend credit through new mortgages to home and farm owners, but are only too often unable to renew mortgages or give consideration to those in difficulty with resultant great hardships to borrowers and a definite depreciation of real estate values in the areas where such pressures exist.

Sees Employment Increase.

"A considerable part of our unemployment is due to stagnation in residential construction. It is true there has been some overbuilding in certain localities in the boom years. But even in these localities the inevitable need is obscured by the tendency of the population to huddle temporarily due to unemployment. The real need steadily accumulates with increasing population and will become evident and insistent as we come out of the depression.

"The high importance of residential construction as a matter of employment is indicated by the fact that more than 200,000 individual homes are erected annually in normal times, which, with initial furnishings, contribute more than two billions to our construction and other industries. This construction has greatly diminished. Its revival would provide for employment in the most vital way."

Capitalization Not Set.

While the President set no definite figure for the total capitalization of the system, he declared that if the initial capital should aggregate 150 million dollars it would be possible for the twelve banks to finance approximately 1 billion 800 millions of advances to the borrowing institutions.

The proposal is on the line of the federal reserve, federal land, and intermediate credit systems. Home loan discount banks would be set up in twelve districts with capital of from five to thirty millions each, as the requirements of the district dictate.

The banks would make no initial loans, but make loans upon the obligations of the primary loaning institutions.

The system, said the President, would be created to help the small borrower, since under his plan mortgage loans eligible as collateral would be limited to $15,000, and the mortgaged property would have to be used for home purposes.

The maximum amount advanced against any mortgage would not exceed 50 per cent in the case of unamortized short term and 60 per cent of the unpaid balance in the case of amortized long term mortgages, and no advance would be made on mortgages in default.

Banks Would Subscribe.

The President's plan proposes raising the initial capital through subscriptions from institutions which would participate in the banks' services, the government to make up any sum by which the subscriptions fall short of the capitalization.

"The above details of the proposal are put forward as suggestions in order to give clarity to the central idea rather than as inflexible conclusions," the President said. "The whole plan would necessarily be subject to the action of congress and many parts of it will no doubt need development.

"There is no element of inflation in the plan but simply a better organization of credit for these purposes."

DAWES REPORTED BY LONDON TO CARRY A SCHEME FOR PEACE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—There is a well defined feeling in diplomatic circles in London that the United States and Japan have reached an understanding concerning a Manchurian formula whereby the Japanese may be satisfied without any impairment of their dignity or prestige of the league of nations council.

It is further understood that Sir John Simon, the British foreign minister, has accepted the same formula, which was fully discussed by him and Ambassador Dawes.

Gen. Dawes will probably submit the proposed terms of settlement to Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, tomorrow, and one possibility is that M. Briand will offer the formula as his own to the league council when it convenes Monday.

EDWIN PRENTICE OBTAINS SECOND LICENSE TO WED

A marriage license was issued here yesterday to Edwin Prentice, 49 years old, of Del Monte, Cal., and Miss Elisabeth Chandler, 31 years old, of 7934 Ingleside avenue. A week ago the couple had made application for a marriage license in San Francisco. Mr. Prentice was divorced in San Francisco on Aug. 30, according to information filed with the county clerk when the license was obtained here.

Press dispatches at the time the couple applied for a license in California reported that they announced the following day that they would be married Nov. 18 in San Mateo county, Cal., and would take a honeymoon trip to Europe. Miss Chandler was described as the daughter of D. H. Chandler, retired oil man.

Mr. Prentice figured in the disputed will case of the late Princess Hatzfeldt in London in 1929. The princess left $5,000,000 to 60 English beneficiaries.

Traffic Fines Trebled in Padden's New Court

Since the installation of the Traffic court under Judge Frank M. Padden the amount of fines for traffic violations has trebled. Previously fines averaged between $200 and $250 a day, but in the new court motorists have paid in between $600 and $800. Last Monday, a record day, showed collections of $831. Since his campaign against motorists who drive with faulty lights or none accident cases in his court have decreased one-third, Judge Padden said.

FRIENDS ASSERT SUPPOSED LIME VICTIM IS ALIVE

Tell Police Woman Is Unharmed.

Identification of the body of a woman found in a quicklime grave near Crystal Lake last Wednesday as that of Mrs. Mary Stelmachowski, 24 years old, of 1311 North Lawndale avenue, was refuted last night when friends asserted she was alive and living in seclusion.

The identification, based on the victim's clothing, was made by Mrs. Stelmachowski's husband, Stanley, a former Texas ranger, and his sister, Mrs. Harriet Engling.

Mrs. Stelmachowski is now living with friends in the vicinity of Hazel and Sunnyside avenues, declared a woman last night who said she was authorized to speak for her. She refused to reveal the exact adress of where Mrs. Stelmachowski is staying.

Leaves After a Quarrel.

The supposed victim left her husband Oct. 8 following a quarrel. This story is confirmed by her father, John Tomczyk, 1518 Holt street, a wagonmaker. The husband, after pronouncing certain garments of the grave victim as belonging to his missing wife, suggested a motive for her murder. His wife, he said, had been frequenting a Grand avenue speakeasy, and when he threatened the owners with police action they countered with threats to kill her and himself, he said.

Mrs. Stelmachowski's story, as related by friends to police last night, was that she left her husband after he had beaten her. Seeking employment that day, she suddenly decided to leave him. Finding no work, she appealed for aid to her husband's half brother, William Stelmachowski, a garage mechanic at 27th street and Indiana avenue, and he found a job for her as a nursemaid in a private home. She made no previous announcement that she was alive because her husband might try to force her to return. She denied having frequented the Grand avenue speakeasy.

No New Clew to Mystery.

The reported appearance of Mrs. Stelmachowski left McHenry county and Chicago investigators no nearer solution of the grave mystery than before. Except through the faded clothing found in the grave and a portiere, identification is impossible.

CHIEFS TO EET UNIONS WAGE PARLEY

mittee Headed by Daniel Willard.

York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—invitation by the leaders of organized railway labor, the presidents of the country's leading railroads appointed today a committee, representing all regions, which plans soon to confer with the labor executives "on subjects of mutual interest."

One of the subjects is understood to be a reduction in labor costs of possibly 10 per cent, not necessarily by horizontal reduction of wages by this amount, but in part by modification of working action was taken by the presidents after they had met as members executive committee of the Association of Railway Executives. At the meeting of the association, to which heads approved a carefully complete form of proposed to the interstate commerce commission's plan for a revision on pool.

Willard Heads Committee.

committee formed to confer with heads of the "Big Four" railroads is headed by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio road. Mr. Willard will also be a member of the committee representative of the eastern roads. The committee membership is as follows:

Daniel Willard, Baltimore and Ohio; Charles Denney, Erie; J. J. Pelley, New Haven and Hartford.

C. A. Wickersham, Atlanta Coast Line; H. D. Pollard, Central of Georgia; A. C. Needles, Northern and Western.

S. W. Baldwin, Missouri Pacific; L. A. Downs, Illinois Central; Lucius Tuttle, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific.

Unions Meeting Next Week.

No date for the meeting between the presidents' committee and the railroad leaders was not announced, it was believed it would be held within a week.

Many railroads early this year asked the interstate commerce commission for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates. They made it clear that they believed their working forces already had suffered substantial reductions in compensation through enforced partial unemployment. It was on behalf of the managements that asking the rate increase would include the necessity of a wage adjustment.

Attention of the change in viewpoint forced upon the managements by through the continued decline in traffic and partly through their failure to obtain the 15 per cent rate which was afforded two weeks ago when the New York Central sought to get union employes on its lines voluntarily accept a 10 per cent wage reduction. This attempt was dropped at the time being this week. Non-union labor on the New York Central, Delaware and Ohio, and other roads has had 10 per cent wage cuts.

Say Adjustment Temporary.

Any reduction in wage rates would be for about a year. Present contracts would basically remain undisturbed and the entire adjustment would be limited or an expedient to meet abnormal conditions.

Labor heads have asked for a six hour working day to provide more employment. The managements would be willing to consider this point in the negotiations on wages.

The railway executives in drawing up their amendments to the I. C. C. appeal for rate relief hold out for the principle that any advances made would result from the pooled revenues of all the carriers should be made as loans, and not as gifts, as proposed by the commission in its order to the petition for a 15 per cent increase. The commission proposed the increases on certain products, certain commodities excepted, suffered. It is estimated, to yield the railroads from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000. The commission directed that these increases be pooled for the benefit of weaker roads.

Roads Ask Changes.

Other points of the managements proposed amendment would change the administration of the pool by the railroad organization. The proposals would be used to enable weak roads to meet interest charges on their bonds, but not to pay off maturing issues. Interest would be figured at the current rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve bank, which now stands at 4½ per cent.

Extension of bond maturities from the benefits of the pool may serve to solve a plan discussed at Washington for the creation of a revolving fund to meet maturities of the railroads.

Western Lines in Rate Plea.

Washington, D. C.—Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Western trunk line railroads today petitioned the interstate commerce commission to reopen the western trunk line rate case. More than a year ago the commission made a decision reducing long-haul charges in most cases but increasing various short-haul rates.

The railroads are now asking a rehearing in order to show cause why the long-haul rates should not be restored. They urge that the commission's order should be modified. They point out that earnings for the first seven months of this year produced a return of only 2.13 per cent.

ELGIN PROCEEDS ON JOB DESPITE THREAT OF UNION

Elgin city officials yesterday ordered work to proceed on their municipal unemployment relief project, and instructed their police department to be ready in case trouble threatened by J. R. Waldt, Maywood labor union agent, develops.

The project is clearing of land for an addition to the city cemetery. The city council appropriated $5,000 for the work, and arranged with Walter Geister, contractor who is doing the work, to give employment to jobless men in the city.

Waldt, who is business agent for the Teamsters and Chauffeurs' union in Cook county suburbs, appeared on the job last Monday and demanded that the Elgin relief fund be used to employ union men from Cook county. The cemetery is in Cook county.

He was to have held a conference with Geister and city officials yesterday, but sent word that he could not attend. Mayor Myron M. Lehman then ordered Geister to resume the work today which was suspended pending the conference with Waldt, and made arrangements for a hurried appearance of police squads if there is any disorder at the cemetery.

WOMAN'S FLYING EXCEEDS RECORD BUT LOSES TITLE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Maud Irving Taft late today bettered the airplane speed record of any other woman, but failed to win the woman's speed championship.

She was denied the championship because of an aeronautical rule which precludes one from wresting a title without bettering the championship mark by five miles an hour.

Miss Taft averaged 211.82 miles per hour on a three kilometer course at the Wayne county airport in four flights today. The record is held by Miss Ruth Nichols, who set a mark of 216.6 miles per hour. Miss Taft's fastest speed today was 212.21 miles per hour.

MRS. CARAWAY IS APPOINTED TO SEAT IN SENATE

Will Be First Woman to Serve.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Hattie Caraway was appointed by Gov. Harvey Parnell today as the temporary successor of her husband, the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, who died here last week, and by virtue of that she will become the second woman in history to sit as a member of the senate.

She will occupy the seat until a successor for the unexpired term is chosen at a special election Jan. 12. The governor said he also would seek her election for the remainder of the term, which ends March, 1933.

Informed of her appointment at her home at Jonesboro, Mrs. Caraway, who is 54 years of age, said she would make a statement later.

Takes Seat Dec. 7.

She will take her seat when congress convenes Dec. 7 and thus, even if she is not elected for the remainder of the term, she will serve more than a month. Her colleague is the senate Democratic leader, Senator Joe T. Robinson.

Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton of Georgia was the first woman senator, but her appointment was solely complimentary. She merely took the oath and retired in favor of Senator Walter F. George. Therefore, Mrs. Caraway will be the first woman to actually serve in the senate.

Mrs. Caraway's appointment again created a tie between Democrats and Republicans at 47 each, and restored Democratic hopes for organizing the senate.

Long Wife of Lawmaker.

As the wife of a congressman for eight years and of a senator for ten years, Mrs. Caraway has acquired a wide knowledge of the workings of national politics and government, although she always kept herself in the background.

She was the close adviser of Senator Caraway on all important questions. Her friends say she possesses the same sharpness of tongue and caustic wit as her husband.

On her visits to her home in Jonesboro, she was in great demand as a speaker before women's clubs on political questions.

In 1929 when her husband first ran for the senate, Mrs. Caraway was an active worker in his headquarters and her friends gave her much of the credit for the large political following which he had in Arkansas.

She Has Three Sons.

She has three sons, Lieutenants Paul and Forrest Caraway, 26 and 23, respectively, who are West Point graduates, and Robert, 18, a student in Washington. She and Senator Caraway lived in an old colonial mansion in Maryland, near Washington, which they bought several years ago.

Born at Bakersville, Tenn., on Feb. 1, 1878, she attended Dickson college, Dickson, Tenn., where she first met Senator Caraway. They were married in 1902 and thereafter made their home in northeast Arkansas.

The state Democratic central committee will meet Dec. 1, to nominate a candidate to succeed Senator Caraway for the unexpired term. The nomination is equivalent to election.

Returns from Convention to Find Family Dead

Sea Cliff, N. Y., Nov. 13.—(AP)—William Caine returned to his home from a decorators' convention at Lafayette, Ind., today, opened the door, smelled gas and found the bodies of his wife and three daughters. Gas jets in the kitchen were open and his family apparently had been dead since last Saturday when he departed to attend the convention. He was unable to explain any motive for his wife's act. The daughters were Mary, 9; Dorothy, 7, and Ruth, 2.

Hunt Pal of Young Auto Thief Shot by Police

The Deering street police last night were seeking a youth who fled Thursday night when he and Joseph Zienda, 16 years old, 3245 Fox street, were fired upon by policemen as the two were stripping a stolen motor truck in the rear of the latter's home. Zienda, who was wounded in the abdomen, is in a serious condition in the Bridewell hospital.

CLAIMS MEDICAL ADVANCE IS DUE TO VIVISECTION

Scientist Opposes Bill to Halt Experiment.

After more than two hours of table pounding by anti-vivisectionists yesterday before the judicial committee of the city council, Prof. Anton J. Carlson of the University of Chicago arose and in calm terms discussed the history of medicine, advancing reasons why the medical profession should be permitted to use animals for experimentation.

Prof. Carlson's opponents urged the committee, headed by Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14], to recommend passage of a bill which, physicians say, will keep the medical schools and research institutions of Chicago from getting animals from the city pound for experiments.

Source of All Developments.

"All the developments of medical science," said the scientist, "which inform us of the mechanical structure of the body have been due to vivisection. I am proud to say that I have shared in this great work. From the time Harvey showed circulation of the blood all great developments have had their beginning in vivisection."

"Among medical discoveries which can be credited to vivisection are the developments of anesthesia, both local and general, delicate brain operations, and our present knowledge of the digestive tract.

"As to charges of cruelty, which seem to be the main attack against our universities, I can be brief. No sane person can accuse the universities of not being humane. Since the beginning the universities have taken the broad stand that domestic animals must serve man. Of course, there is some suffering, both in animals and man, but practical expediency is the step we must follow."

Some Would Charge for Dogs.

Some speakers favoring restrictive legislation in regard to dogs in the city pound made two proposals. One was the installation of a graduate veterinarian as head of the pound and the other, a charge of $3.50 per animal taken by universities and clinics.

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Lake Forest spoke in opposition to supplying impounded dogs to universities, whether they are paid for or not.

Other speakers who favored the restrictive measures were Assistant State's Attorney O. S. Fusig, appearing as counsel representing the Chicago Anti-Cruelty society; Dr. E. L. Quitman, former dean of the Chicago Veterinary college; James Heron, poet; Ray Lane, attorney for the Taxpayers and Voters' league; Francis W. Marshall, attorney for the Chicago Humane Education society; and G. D. Patterson, representing the anti-vivisectionists.

George A. H. Scott, representing the Illinois Humane society, agreed with much that Dr. Carlson said. He favored vivisection, he said, if humanely conducted, but he thought the dogs should be purchased.

"I will say as a matter of record," he said, "that in a great many trips to the universities in Chicago, many unannounced, I have never seen vivisection conducted except in the most humane manner."

The committee adjourned until 2 p. m. next Tuesday for consideration of the pending legislation. Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], himself a physician, in a speech at the end of the hearing indicated the committee would be averse to any legislation which would serve as a hindrance to the advancement of medical science. He expressed little sympathy with the demand for a veterinarian as head of the pound.

ALLMAN URGES 8,000 MORE MEN FOR POLICE FORCE

An increase of more than 2,000 men in Chicago's police force was asked last night by Police Commissioner James P. Allman in a radio address. This would mean a force of 14,700 officers and men, which would bring the Chicago department to a "point where really superior protection can be afforded," Commissioner Allman said.

"Our police force in its growth has not kept pace with the growth of the city," asserted the commissioner. "Many millions of dollars have been spent in beautifying the city, whereas but a few dollars have been spent in providing the police department with its needs."

Commissioner Allman centered his remarks on the recommendations of Bruce Smith, who directed a survey of the police department. A reorganization of the department will be effected in the near future, according to the commissioner.

HAD A LITTLE DRINK, BUT CHAUFFEUR DROVE CAR, NOVARRO SAYS

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Ramon Novarro, film star, admitted on the stand today that he "had a little drink" prior to an automobile accident Sept. 13, 1930, but added that since he wasn't driving his car, and his chauffeur was, he didn't see what his little drink had to do with it.

Novarro and his secretary-chauffeur, Frank Hansen, are being sued by Harold B. Wilson, Southern Pacific railroad collector, for asserted damages and injuries growing out of the collision. The trial will be resumed Monday. Novarro testified he could not recall the name of a woman sitting in the front seat with Hansen, or the names of two men companions who were riding with him.

Victor Higdon, a bus driver, testified Novarro's car was traveling 40 or 50 miles an hour. Novarro testified his chauffeur and co-defendant is a teetotaler.

EX-CONVICT GETS 2 YEARS UNDER NEW GUN LAW

Guilty of Defacing Serial Numbers on Pistol.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Nelson, murder, sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary; Jack Kral, carrying concealed weapons, sentenced to 2 years in the Bridewell, by Judge Rudolph Desort.

James Moss and William Chancellor, assault to commit robbery, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Allen Turner and Harrison Jeffrey, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell, by Judge Walter Stanton.

Frank Abernathy and Leroy McKnight, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary, by Judge John Prystalski.

Jack Kral, ex-convict and a reputed member of a Cicero beer running gang, was sentenced to two years in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Criminal court on charges of carrying concealed weapons and possessing a revolver on which serial numbers had been defaced.

JUDGE DESORT.

He was found guilty last week before Judge Desort. His conviction was the first under the new law against the defacement of identification numbers on weapons. Judge Desort imposed the maximum sentences, a year on each count, and provided that they should run consecutively.

Assistant State's Attorney Abe Marowitz, the prosecutor, congratulated Policemen Hugh English and Earl Jensen of the Oak Park department on their testimony in the case. They arrested Kral Sept. 4, and found a weapon on him.

At the trial they testified that their reason for making the arrest, at an early morning hour, was their suspicion that Kral intended to rob a nearby carbarn. In many cases of the arrest of Chicago gunmen, the prosecutor pointed out, police fail to testify that they arrested the prisoner as a suspect in any crime, and thus fail to lay grounds for a legal search and discovery of the weapon. Such cases are then dismissed on the grounds of illegal search.

Prosecutor Lauds Policeman.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne, one of the aces of Prosecutor Swanson's staff, was asked yesterday by Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker to take charge of the prosecution of Louis Scaramuzzo, the man who makes a business of keeping gangsters' guns in good shooting order. When Scaramuzzo's gunsmith shop at 804 Blue Island avenue was raided on Nov. 2 the police found 64 guns, 10 of which had the numbers filed off.

GIRL STEALS $10,000 TO PAY HER FIANCE'S GAMBLING LOSSES

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Fannie Rodney, 20, a Greenwich village bookkeeper and stenographer, was arrested today and charged with embezzling $10,000 in the last three years from her employers, the real estate firm of Nathan Glassheim.

It was stated that she confessed the theft, adding that she gave the money to her fiancé, Herman R. Pollrer, 27, a draftsman for the board of transportation, so he could pay his gambling debts. Her fiancé, however, didn't know it was stolen money, she insisted. She told him she earned it doing extra typing.

"Ten thousand dollars is a lot to earn by doing extra typing, isn't it?" the assistant district attorney asked. "Did he believe that?"

"Sure he did. I told him," the girl replied.

She denied that the funds of the real estate firm were short by $25,000, as it was charged by her employer.

PRATT IMPLIES U. S. SHIP PARITY WAS LONDON FOG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Disclosure that the maximum tonnage limits fixed for the United States by the London naval treaty is simply a mirage so far as the American fleet is concerned was made today by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations and ranking technical naval adviser to the American delegation which framed the pact.

The navy's ranking naval officer amazed newspaper men today by stating in an interview that the United States at no time has contemplated building the United States fleet up to the treaty tonnage limits prior to the expiration of the agreement in December, 1936. The policy today, he added, is for the fleet to be built up gradually in an orderly manner toward the "standardized fleet" which eventually will be fixed, he believes, by future limitation treaties.

The admiral strongly indicated that the strength of the future American fleet was not fixed by the London treaty. He pointedly referred to future conferences, and the inference was clear that the navy he visions is one that will meet the limitations to be fixed by a future conference—whether, as he put it, "that conference is held in Geneva, in Tokio, London, or any other place."

Hepburn to Go to Geneva.

That the Hoover administration feels the same way about future naval reductions as does Admiral Pratt, was indicated today when the state department gave out the personnel of the technical staff which will accompany the American delegation to the approaching league conference at Geneva. The naval section of this group is headed by Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, who with Admiral Pratt supported the London treaty at a time when the navy general board and a majority of its ranking admirals fought it.

Admiral Pratt and Rear Admiral Hepburn sided with the President in his row with the general board over the question of surrendering American superiority in eight inch gun cruiser construction. Both naval officers supported the treaty when it was before the senate for ratification.

Battleships to Shrink.

The impression in naval circles is that battleships will be reduced from fifteen possibly to twelve at either the Geneva or the 1935 conference at London. Reduction of battleship sizes is also expected although the navy general board is opposed to such a step. A strong effort to effect adoption of a budgetary system of limitation for navies which would limit the amount spent on ships is certain to come at Geneva.

The disclosure that this country never had contemplated building up to the treaty limits fixed for the United States and Great Britain, so that American parity would be attained, came as a shock to "adequate navy" congressmen and official Washington. While failure of the Hoover administration and congress to provide new warship authorizations during the last congress has made it virtually impossible for this country to build to treaty limits by 1937. The opinion generally held was that the original intention had been for this country to attain parity with Great Britain during the life of the pact.

Pratt Explains.

"We never intended," Admiral Pratt said, "that the navy would be built up to treaty strength during the life of the London treaty. I am certain no right thinking man in the navy would want such a thing. We are now suffering as a result of having rushed construction all at one time so that our ships become over age all at about the same time. What I want is to find the eventual strength at which the navy will be fixed and then build steadily up to that strength, replacing, annually, a few vessels, so that in the end we will have in service the right number of modern ships of all types.

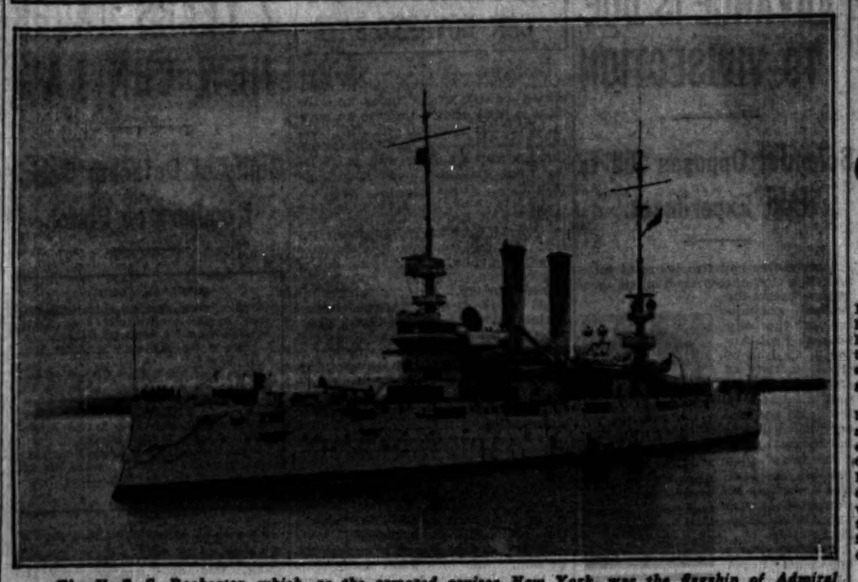

"We want a building program based on our needs under whatever treaty is in effect, with due regard to orderly construction."

In his statement Admiral Pratt praised the new ship operating plan which is to be used as one of the vehicles for bringing about the $59,000,000 naval cut ordered for the 1933 fiscal year by President Hoover. Under this program from 15 to 25 per cent of the fleet will be kept in reserve commission, with 25 per cent crews all the time. Several millions can be saved annually by this plan, Admiral Pratt said.

"Under the reserve commission plan," Admiral Pratt said, "enough ships will be kept in commission to keep a trained personnel and carry out gunnery and tactical exercises."

The "rotation plan" gradually will be placed into effect in all classes of ships in the fleet. Ships in reserve will be manned by 25 per cent of a "commissioned" ship's crew, and will be specially selected "key men." Likewise, officer personnel of a ship will consist of a reduced number of "key" officers.

HISTORIC CRUISER DECOMMISSIONED

The U. S. S. Rochester, which, as the armored cruiser New York, was the flagship of Admiral Sampson during the Spanish-American war. With one aircraft tender, six destroyers and nine submarines it was decommissioned Nov. 11 as the first move to the reduction of the combatant units of the navy. The order affects about 1,000 enlisted men and 100 commissioned officers. [Associated Press Photo.]

COURT DEMANDS TRUST FUND DATA IN SUIT ON TAXES

Seek State Records on Personalty.

Photostatic copies of records of the state auditor's office on trust funds and moneys held in escrow by banks were ordered prepared for court yesterday in a taxpayers' suit to test the validity of the 1928 and 1929 assessments before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. The taxpayers contend the assessments are illegal on the ground the assessors neglected to assess a large portion of the personal property in the county, which has resulted in a disproportionate burden on real estate.

County Attorney Hayden Bell appeared in court to protest against a subpoena duces tecum issued Thursday by the judge ordering State Auditor Nelson to produce the records. Attorney Bell contended the records are immaterial to the suit, holding that the assessors could not be held to have wilfully omitted the personal property from the assessment rolls, as it was not in their power to investigate the auditor's records.

Bank Attorneys Protest.

Attorneys for nine bank and trust companies also appeared to enter protest. Those represented were the F Union Trust and Savings bank, Peoples Trust and Savings bank, Central R public Bank and Trust company, Northern Trust company, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, Straus National bank, Chicago Title and Trust company, Chicago Bank of Commerce and the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

Judge Jarecki said that if information in the auditor's office is available to all residents of the county, it is certainly available to the board of assessors. He said he intended to find out who is to blame for the omission of vast amounts of personal property not on the assessment rolls.

Hits Unfair Realty Burden.

"I am going a step farther," the judge said. "Obviously, it is unfair for real estate to carry 85 per cent of the tax burden."

Assistant Attorney General Arthur Clausen, representing the state auditor, said he would produce the records on the suit for Nov. 23.

REALTY FORFEITURES ON 1929 TAXES SET AN ALL TIME RECORD

More Cook county real estate went into forfeiture for delinquency in the payment of 1929 tax bills than for any other year in the history of the county. An aggregate of $9,726,853 worth of property was forfeited to the state after being put up for sale. Professional tax buyers purchased liens on only $939,292 worth of property.

The totals were disclosed yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough at the completion of the tax sale. The 1929 forfeitures, he added, constitute 60 per cent of the total forfeitures accruing over a forty-year period. That total's $16,736,532.

SEEKS U. S. HALT ON E. B. M'LEAN'S LATVIA DIVORCE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Charging that her husband had fled the United States in order "to evade the penalties prescribed for transportation in interstate commerce of a woman for immoral purposes," Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, wife of Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, today asked the District of Columbia Supreme court to enjoin her husband from securing a divorce in Riga, Latvia. The woman referred to, Mrs. McLean's suit alleges, is Rose Douras Van Cleve. Recently he joined her at Riga, Mrs. McLean asserts.

The publisher owes $109,000 back maintenance, Mrs. McLean claims. She asks that he be compelled to pay this. Recently a New York shop filed suit against McLean for a long overdue bill covering women's clothing. Mrs. McLean denied, when the suit was filed, that her husband had purchased the articles for her.

Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat took Mrs. McLean's petition under advisement. A decision is expected tomorrow.

H. G. Wells Goes Home, with Gloomy View of U. S.

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—H. G. Wells sailed at midnight on the Cosulich liner Vulcania for France after a month's visit here. His pessimism on the economic condition had not been lessened, he said, by his visit here. He left with the conviction that New York in no way resembled the model city of the future; that Miss Helen Keller was the "most wonderful being in America," and that Henry Ford, whom he had visited in Detroit, was the "most interesting man I have talked to in a long time."

BANK IS ROBBED OF $81,000; BOY IS DRAFTED AS AID

Bandits Get Pay Roll and Escape.

Rahway, N. J., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Five armed men who raided the Citizen's National bank here this morning made off with $81,000 in pay roll cash without firing a shot.

Fleeing from the scene of one of the biggest bank robberies in the recent history of New Jersey they drafted into their service a 17 year old youth who was drowsing at the wheel of a parked car near Linden and paid him $100 for driving them to Newark.

The young man, August Holderreid of Elizabeth, told police he never had seen any of the men before, and after he was taken into custody for questioning, he appeared willing and anxious to aid in the capture of the robbers, pointing out to detectives the section in Newark where he had left them and visiting police headquarters there in an effort to identify the men from rogues' gallery photographs.

Says He Was Hunting.

According to Holderreid, he was a member of a rabbit hunting party. He spent most of yesterday tramping through the fields and he was so weary, he said, that he decided to remain in the car for a snooze while his father and an uncle stalked game.

While he was drowsing, he told detectives two men awakened him and told him they needed his car to transport a wounded friend to a hospital. He agreed to help, he said, and the two strangers got into the car, one of them taking the wheel. A short distance down the road, Holderreid said, they stopped and picked up three more men. They drove him to Newark. One of the men gave Holderreid $100, he said, and he then, somewhat mystified, started for home.

Police Are Noncommittal.

When he arrived there, Holderreid found detectives awaiting him. Police declined to say whether they believed the young man's story, but they said there was no doubt that it was his car that was used by the bandits after they abandoned a sedan in which they fled from the bank in such haste that they almost ran over former Judge Fayette N. Talley.

The robbers showed more than a casual knowledge of the customs of the bank, the local police, and the Gibbs and Hill company whose payroll was taken as it was being made up in a cashier's cage.

IGOE IS HOSTILE TO REVENUE PLAN UP IN ASSEMBLY

Changes Stand on Tax System Reform.

BY PARKE BROWN.

State Representative Michael L. Igoe, minority leader of the Illinois house of representatives, indicated hostility yesterday toward several of the big measures now before the general assembly with the backing of the governor's revenue conference.

His attitude is considered important because the pending bills will require a two-third vote in each house to take effect upon their passage. Unless the Cook county delegation is united behind them it is believed they will be denied downstate support that otherwise would come to them because of the plea that the local governments in the metropolitan county are in dire distress.

Igoe to Meet Opposition.

Among politicians there is a belief that Igoe's attitude is affected to some extent by the fact that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor and developments up to this point have all tended to show that the county organization, including Mayor Cermak and most of the Democratic county officials, will be against him in the April primary.

Until recently Igoe favored the proposal to replace the present elective boards of assessment and review with a single assessor and two reviewers appointed by the president of the county board with the approval of the entire board. He says that he is opposed to that plan now.

"The argument in favor of it," he said, "is that responsibility now is split up among the eight members of the two boards. But as I see it the proposed plan would divide the responsibility among the fifteen county commissioners, making the situation worse instead of better."

Believes Income Tax Doomed.

The minority leader also predicted that the income tax bill will not pass the legislature in its present form: and he questioned the fairness of the tobacco tax to the man of small means. He also said that his first impression of the proposed increase in license fees for heavy duty motor trucks, trailers and buses in that the fees recommended are excessive. Going even a step further he questioned whether there has been definite proof that any of the new taxes are necessary.

"Investigation may show," said Igoe, "that we don't need any new taxes if all the people assessed pay the taxes they owe. I think the legislature should ascertain the facts with reference to the assessment and payment of taxes. Inquiry into the payment of 1928 taxes showed that, as a class, the poor people paid more promptly than the rich. Probably a committee of the legislature should come here to establish the facts.

Finds Poor Hit Hardest.

"We have had no opportunity yet to examine the bills introduced yesterday but my first impression is that they will hit the poor people the hardest. I question whether the assembly will pass the income tax law proposed. It exempts corporations while it goes so low in taxing the poor man as to hit a $1,000 income. The corporation owning a large building—and there are many of them—will not be required to pay an income tax, but income from a building owned by an individual will be taxed.

"As for the tobacco tax, it is apparent the wealthy man will buy his cigars by the box in some other state, paying, for example, $5 for a box of 50 cigars. The poor man buying the same cigars over the counter in Illinois will pay $6 for them."

TEACHERS' GROUPS DECLINE TO APPROVE SCHOOL RELIEF BILLS

The school board's hope for united support of its legislative program by teachers' organizations seemed definitely lost last night. Following executive sessions, only one of the major teachers' organizations expressed its approval of the two proposed bond issues, one of $50,000,000 for the building fund and one of $75,000,000 for a working cash fund.

Several of the larger groups of teachers refused to be committed to the board's program. The Chicago Teachers' Federation unofficially expressed its disapproval. Representatives of all of the organizations are to report to the board of education at a special meeting today.

The Elementary Teachers' union voted to defer indorsement of all school legislation. Similar action was taken by the Federation of Women High School teachers and the Playground Teachers' union. Regarding the proposed $50,000,000 building bond issue, Miss Margaret Haley, business agent of the Chicago Teachers' federation, said its passage would undoubtedly presage "an orgy of silly spending."

The Men Teachers' union at a meeting in the City club unanimously approved both the revenue commission's legislative relief program for Cook county and the board of education program.

"We feel that the two programs are in the main good and that the board's suggested legislation is a necessary supplement to the revenue commission's," said James A. Meade, president of the union.

PROTEST PLAN TO CUT OFF 119 CITY EMPLOYES

A protest against a reported recommendation of J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer, to eliminate 119 employes from the bureau of water pay rolls by installing 15 billing and tabulating machines was sent yesterday to members of the city council. The protest was contained in an anonymous letter purporting to come from employes of the bureau.

"Mr. Jacobs is going to eliminate 119 men and women employes of this bureau," the letter read in part, "throw out the present system, junk $60,000 worth of equipment and material, and install his favorite machines in their places.

"Under the regime of the late Mayor Dever, Col. A. A. Sprague, then as now commissioner of public works, tested the effectiveness of the present system, cumbersome perhaps, but found that it answered exceptionally well the need of security and safety of funds."

Another recommendation of Jacobs, according to reports in the city hall, is to eliminate 50 of the 91 employes in the city collector's office. All of Jacobs' recommendations are to be ready for the council finance committee before Dec. 1.

Porter Inducts Drys Into Club; Jail Terms Follow

Arthur Hampe, 45 years old, president of the Waverly Athletic and Social club, 3655 Southport avenue, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $50+ by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday for violation of the prohibition law. Two prohibition agents testified that they were accepted as members by a porter, the only person present at the time, and obtained a "few drinks." The porter, Fred Van Vradenburg, 62 years old, was sentenced to two months subject to probation if it is found that he has not violated the prohibition law in the past.

JAIL WARDEN TO MAKE PLEA FOR FRANK BELL

Warden David Moneypenny of the Cook county jail will go to Springfield Monday to appeal to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson on behalf of Frank Bell, sentenced to die in the electric chair on Nov. 27.

Referring Bell's fate to the state board of pardons and paroles, Gov. Emmerson has previously announced that he will abide by the ruling of the board, which reviewed the case and decided the death penalty should stand. The intercessions for Bell by public officials are due to his exposure of a jail break plot.

After being saved at the last minute by an insanity petition on the night of Oct. 14, when his one-time pal, Richard Sullivan, died in the chair, Bell was found sane by a jury on Oct. 29. He and Sullivan killed Chris Patras, a north side restaurant proprietor, in a holdup.

GUN TOTER GETS A YEAR.

Harry Monroe, 39 years old, a former convict, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $235 yesterday by Municipal Judge Leon Edelman on charges of carrying concealed weapons and assault with a deadly weapon.

EXILED CYPRIOTE CHURCH LEADERS REACH GIBRALTAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 12.—Three Cypriotes—Bishop Myrianthous of Kyrenia, Bishop Mylonas of Kition, and Chief Priest Kykkotis of Monastery—recently deported from the island of Cyprus by British authorities as a result of disorders there, arrived at Gibraltar today aboard a British steamer and are now staying at a hotel.

The trio said they were surprised to learn from the newspapers that they were deported for life. They declared neither they nor the natives used firearms, but merely demanded freedom for the islanders. The bishop of Kyrenia complained he had received rough treatment at the hands of British troops while being taken to prison in Nicosia.

The bishops were locked in their cabins while the ship was coaling at Malta, but enjoyed liberty during the rest or their voyage. They have handed passports here for Paris. They have applied for permits to travel via Spain and France, but are allowed their liberty on the rock, but are closely watched by detectives.

LOWDEN FOR GOVERNOR IS FARM FRIEND

...n of George A. Barr Is Also Mentioned.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

...for ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden and George A. Barr of Joliet for the Republican nomination for governor made their appearance yesterday in Chicago political circles. The Lowden movement was broached by Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson of Bunker Hill, chairman of the Illinois judicial advisory council. It followed informal conferences among some of the Republican lawmakers on the matter of party prospects in 1932 and the need of ... candidate at the head of ... ticket in the face of the Democratic ...

The Republican who could carry ... for governor is Frank O. Lowden, ... Senator Cuthbertson. "He is ... national entanglements. The ... are crazy about him, and he'd ... in a house afire in the cities. ... Illinois there is a growing ... that it would be a great ... for the state to have Lowden ... in the executive chair.

The Farm Situation.

"Downstate folks are saying that ... Kansas City national convention ... adopted the agricultural ... opposed by Lowden and ... has enacted legislation carrying ... out, farm relief would not be ... present muddle. I was making ... speech a couple of nights ago and ... mentioned Lowden's name, ... audience got up and shouted ... and stamped its approval."

In 1928, Senator Cuthbertson urged ... Lowden to run again for governor ... but that year Mr. Lowden was ... candidate for the presidential nomination, withdrawing his name at ... City after the convention had ... the midwest agricultural ... out of the window.

"The friends of the former governor have been saying for weeks that ... see little possibility of getting ... to solve. He is just turned 70, ... he thinks any four more years ... work at Springfield does not appeal ... him. Col. Lowden has been making ... advocating reconstruction of ... and township government in ... Illinois and reduction of ... rate.

Senator Cuthbertson in recent ... has lauded the idea of cutting ... of state officials, beginning ... with a cut in the $2,500 which legislators are paid for a term. The idea ... before the special session in resolutions introduced by Senator Harold ... of Aurora.

The talk placing George A. Barr of ... among the Republican possibilities popped up in business as well ... political circles. He is a native of ... county, 54 years of age, an ... of the University of Illinois, ... which he is a trustee. He was re-elected trustee a year ago, one of the ... workers of the Democratic landslide. He is a brother of Senator ... J. Barr of Joliet, who is the "big floor" of the state senate. ... was state's attorney of Will ... one term and for a short time ... director of trade and commerce, ... the early days of the Small regime, ... job which he resigned.

In Metropolitan Area.

Barr's friends are putting forth an argument that if a good available Cook county man cannot be located by the searchers for a new leadership, Mr. Barr might perhaps appeal to them as a near Cook county candidate, Will county being in the metropolitan area.

Democrats also did a little boom boosting. Friends of Ross A. Woodhull, sanitary district trustee, talked of him tentatively as a Cook county candidate for the Democratic governorship nomination to race against Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman and house minority leader at Springfield. Some Republican state senators from downstate, among them Mr. Cuthbertson, reported that Mr. Igoe seems to be running pretty strong in central Illinois.

JUDGE REFUSES TO HEAR POLICE ASSAULT CASE

Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday sent the case of Thomas Bartunek and Joseph Pilot, former Berwyn police officers charged with assault with deadly weapons, back to Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court.

"There have come to my attention rumors that this case has been fixed," Judge Desort said. "Under those circumstances, I don't want anything to do with it."

Bartunek, former chief of police in Berwyn, and Pilot, who was a sergeant under him, were charged with beating M. M. Brooks, 3227 Clarence avenue, Berwyn, a business man whom they had arrested for a trivial traffic violation. They were suspended from the police force as a result of the charges against them.

Judge Fisher said that he would try the case himself.

Bandit, 62, Confesses in Murder; Gets 25 Years

Frank Nelson, 62 year old bandit, pleaded guilty to a charge of murder and was sentenced to serve 25 years in the Joliet penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort in the Criminal court yesterday. During a holdup on the night of Feb. 5, Nelson shot and fatally wounded Dr. George M. Laing in his offices at 2232 South 50th avenue, Cicero. The widow of his victim asked leniency for Nelson because of his age.

LORD LANSDOWNE SELLS FAMOUS HOME IN LONDON

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Lansdowne house, on the south side of Berkeley square, for 165 years one of the greatest social and political centers in London, has been sold by the marquess of Lansdowne for $3,750,000.

The mansion, built in 1766 for Lord Bute, will be preserved and occupied by the Burton club. It is intended to build over the fore court, and a new street connecting Berkeley square with Curzon street, at the end of Lansdowne passage, is to be constructed through the site, the area of which is 96,000 square feet.

Lord Shelbourne, who became the marquess of Lansdowne, bought the house in an unfinished state from Lord Bute for $110,000. Soon it became the treasure house of paintings, manuscripts and statuary, including famous marbles. In 1774, while librarian there, Joseph Priestley discovered oxygen. The third marquess assembled its magnificent gallery of paintings early in the last century. In recent years the house has been rented to Gordon Selfridge, former Chicago merchant.

Hunt Motive for Bomb at Ex-Union Official's Home

The Englewood police yesterday were at a loss to determine a motive for the bombing of the home of Dave Evans, former secretary and treasurer of the International Union of Operating Engineers, at 7305 Lafayette avenue, late Thursday night. The bomb, which did little damage, was hurled from a passing automobile. Evans told the police he knew of no reason for the attack.

BAIN JURY QUIZ SEEKS TO TRACE $885,000 DEALS

Report Funds Missing from One Bank.

will be pursued further. Attorney H. W. Lippincott, representing the Bains, was partially identified Thursday as one of three men who made a trip to the Ohio city last June 23. The lawyer was able to prove that he was in the Presbyterian hospital at the time.

Proof to Be Presented.

However, proof remains that some one representing the Bain family made the trip, the judge said, and this proof will be presented at the next hearing. The records of the Pullman company show that some one named Bain made a reservation for a drawing room on a Pennsylvania railroad train for the trip. Investigators of the Bain bank situation have asserted that this trip was made for the purpose of depositing securities which should be included in assets of the closed banks.

Scores of depositors in the Bain banks appeared before Judge William J. Lindsay yesterday asking that they be given preferred claims against assets when such assets are found. A typical example of the methods employed by the Bain banks was revealed when Mrs. Anna Nolan, 7237 Ellis avenue, made her plea.

"Last June, I was awarded $2,500 on an accident insurance policy when my husband was disabled by an accident," said Mrs. Nolan. "On June 8, one day before the Bain banks closed, I went to the Stony Island State bank with the money. I talked to Robert Bain [younger son of John Bain], who was cashier there.

Told Banks Were Safe.

"I told him I had heard rumors that the banks were not steady and asked for his advice. He said that there wasn't a chance in the world for me losing my money and that I could have it any time I wanted. So I put the only money I had in the world in there and the bank closed next morning."

Testimony at the hearing in Judge Feinberg's court has shown that John Bain withdrew $2,500 in cash from the Stony Island bank, the same amount as deposited by Mrs. Nolan, on the day before the banks closed.

Judge Lindsay ordered Robert Bain to appear in court next Nov. 28 and explain why he accepted such a deposit when he must have known that the bank was insolvent.

"Apparently everyone in the neighborhood knew that the banks were going to close except the Bains, according to this evidence, remarked the judge.

Peter J. Immel, former cashier of the Peoples and Merchants State bank of Park Ridge, was reported named in a true bill voted by the grand jury yesterday charging larceny and embezzlement. The charge grew out of a loss of $8,055 to the bank. Immel, it was said, tried to cover the loss by signing notes. The bank has since been taken over by another bank.

Factor Asks Dismissal of Receivership Suit

Counsel for John [Jake the Barber] Factor yesterday asked Federal Judge Wilkerson to dismiss the suit for the appointment of a receiver for the $2,000,000 trust fund established by Factor in Chicago for his wife and son, on the ground that the claims of the plaintiffs are dissimilar. The action is being brought by Arthur Travers Faber a clergyman, and some 600 other English citizens who claim that Factor swindled them out of approximately $7,000,000 in fraudulent stock deals. Extradition proceedings instituted by Great Britain for Factor's removal to England for trial are now under advisement before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

No explanation was made by the home office or the ministry of labor.

Two pilots were seriously injured yesterday when the seaplane in which they were flying fell into a spin from a right bank and went into the lake a mile and one-half off the campus of Northwestern university in Evanston.

They are B. F. Daily, 28 years old, 622 South Evergreen street, Kankakee, employed as an oil company representative in Venezuela, and C. H. Taylor, 35, of Waterloo, Ia., a transport pilot. Both are in St. Francis hospital in Evanston, Taylor with a fractured knee and Daily a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

Take Off from Harbor.

Last Sunday the two flew in the plane from Detroit and were forced down out of gas eight miles northeast of Wilmette harbor. They were rescued by coast guardsmen. The plane, an Eastman Sea Rover, powered by a Challenger motor, was towed to Wilmette harbor, where it remained until they took off yesterday for Kankakee.

The plane was pulled from its moorings in the harbor, Taylor told reporters, and the right wing was damaged. It was repaired and seemed airworthy. When they took off yesterday Taylor executed a left bank, and then a right bank, he said. He could not pull the plane out of the right bank, and it went into a spin, which he could not fly out of. He was thrown clear of the plane but swam back, and pulled Daily, who was unconscious, out of the other cockpit.

Youths to Rescue in Boat.

Taylor held Daily's head out of the water until two youths, John and Wilbur Naylor, 19 and 15 years of age, reached the wreck in a rowboat. They are sons of Mrs. Anna Boles Naylor, cook at the Phi Gamma Delta house at the university. The brothers had been fishing nearby. Last night the coast guard raised the plane and towed it to the university campus beach.

Daily owned the plane, which he bought second hand, and he and Taylor planned to fly it to New Orleans, where he intended to ship it to Venezuela. He held a private pilot's license. The plane had been licensed.

2 DOCTORS KILLED BY TRAIN.

Pratt, Kas., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Two Pratt physicians, Dr. P. K. Garlon, 58, and Dr. M. C. Jenkins, 45, were killed when their automobile was struck by a passenger train west of here during a hard rain today.

AVIATION NOTES

Flying at an average speed of 157.5 miles an hour, a tri-motored transport plane of United Air Lines yesterday came from Omaha to Chicago in 3 hours 45 minutes, a new speed record for that type ship. The plane carried eight passengers and mail. It was piloted by Jack Munson and John Briggs. The air distance is 433 miles. Fast flying was also reported on the division from Chicago to New York.

The Edgewater Flying club, 357 North La Salle street, has announced that both flight and ground instruction are available now for non-members.

All the air lines operating out of Chicago airport except Century Air Lines have contracted with the Yellow Cab company to tranport their passengers from the Consolidated Ticket office in the Palmer house, other loop hotels, or their individual offices, for a flat fee of 75 cents. Century operates its own fleet of limousines.

Century Air Lines have arranged to land at Ford airport in Dearborn, Mich., on their Chicago-Detroit-Cleveland line, to pick up and discharge passengers and freight.

LAND GRAFTING BARED IN MEXICO; SHAKE UP OFFICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—Mexico's agrarian department will be shaken up, Arturo M. Elias, new minister of agriculture, announced tonight. He stater that he will personally direct the house cleaning. An investigation among officials has revealed that many have been trafficking in agrarian lands and have been moving small farmers about at their own will as if they were checkers on a board.

Minister Elias met several delegations of peasants this morning and assured them they would be given every facility to buy land and that land grafting would be stopped. Three thousand small farmers from the federal district presented evidence of graft in the agrarian department yesterday.

Their leaders requested that the community land system be scrapped and that the peasants be permitted to acquire small farms by paying for them. Two prominent members of the agrarian commission have presented their resignations as the result of the investigation.

HOLD SLAYER OF SISTER'S LOVER FOR GRAND JURY

Victim's Chum Tells of Fatal Quarrel.

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Edward H. B. Allen, 23, steeplechase rider, who confessed killing Francis Donaldson, his sister's socially prominent sweetheart, with a shotgun Monday night, was held without bail for the grand jury, after an inquest today lasting a little over an hour.

The father's statement Wednesday night introduced the fact that Donaldson had betrayed his daughter in August. To this charge, the father of the slain man replied that the killing was a "brutal, premeditated murder" which "cannot be exculpated by the futile attempts of a badly advised father to save his son by hiding him behind the skirts of his daughter, whose character the father himself destroys."

Allen's sister, Miss Rose E. W. Allen, a debutante of last year, was not present at the inquest.

Albert Gallatin H. Lucas, Donaldson's chum and the only eye-witness of the actual slaying, was the principal witness.

He told of accompanying Donaldson and the girl to the girl's home after she had been ejected from home by her brother. They were ordered from the house by the brother, the witness said, and when they tried to argue he became profane and abusive.

"He made a lunge toward Donaldson and they went into a clinch and fell to the floor.

Lucas told of an attempt to conciliate the girl's father which was unsuccessful. The two then started to leave.

"As we stepped from the apartment foyer into the corridor leading to the elevator Eddie came along another hall and he had a gun," Lucas continued.

"We both had on our hats and were about to step out. He slowly raised the muzzle of the gun and the next thing I heard was the shot.

"Donaldson sort of spun spiral-like and landed on his right side on the floor."

State Reveals Evidence Against Crowe and Aids.

count of the indictment and is to give his decision on the remaining counts before the start of the trial on Dec. 1. In the bill of particulars Prosecutor Northup frequently uses the phrase that he will be able to present the evidence if various counts of the indictment are not quashed. It is evident from the bill of particulars that the state will be limited in the proof if Judge Fisher should later decide to quash certain of the counts.

Shows Increased Activity.

The outline of evidence starts by showing the increase of the district activities during 1927-1928 as compared with 1926. The following table for the three years shows this increase:

Total pay rolls—	$5,777,446	$6,316,246	$10,228,276
Law dept. pay rolls—	835,729	1,146,003	2,678,520
Assist. attorney pay rolls—	32,061	65,919	196,146
Police pay rolls—	165,793	364,243	468,780
Highway maintenance—	13,000	107,000	220,000
Maint. and oper'n of plants—	Not avail.	1,854,244	3,323,993
Total number employes—	1,000	2,700	4,700

The prosecutor charges that these increases were not due to legitimate expansion of the district and offers to prove that $2,000,000 was paid out of the district treasury to pay rollers who gave nothing in return in the way of labor or benefit to the district. The same charge is made as to the legal pay roll. Many of the persons on all pay rolls, and particularly those carried on the legal and police rolls, did nothing but perform political services, it is charged.

Attacks Upkeep Costs.

The next charge taken up is the cost of the maintenance of the North Shore channel road, for which $523,419 was paid. This represents an excessive amount by 2,500 per cent, it is charged. Another excessive charge of $500,000 is charged up against the sum of $3,323,993 paid during 1928 for the maintenance and operation of the works and plants of the district.

The next charge concerns the pay roll of the investigators for the Illinois valley claims division. It is charged that $120,000 was paid out in this department without services being performed and that expense accounts of $100 a week cost the district another $150,000. It is charged that fully one-third of the district employes did nothing but political work.

The trustees are charged with excessive payments of $200,000 in the real estate appraisal department for so-called appraisers, while, says Northup, "the truth is that the Chicago Real Estate board did all the legitimate appraising for $3,375."

$1,100,000 Bridle Path.

Prosecutor Northup next takes up the $1,100,000 cinder bridle path adjoining the North Shore channel road. He says he will prove that the fair cost for this project was $300,000. In this same connection he will prove, he says, that the district shipped its own cinders for use on the bridle path and then bought them back from favored contractors at a price above what any one else would have had to pay for cinders in the same district.

The state also promises to prove that the $727,000 paid for the ornamental lighting system on the road was excessive.

It is charged that the large part of the money was paid out through the huge contract work given out by the district during this free spending period. George L. Chamberlain, who is now under indictment for income tax dodging, and his U. S. A. electrical company formed the medium through which this money exchanged hands, it is charged.

Lists Construction Projects.

The bill of particulars then lists six different construction projects which were let to various concerns, who in turn sublet the work to the U. S. A. company. These deals are shown in the following table:

Contract	Price bid and award.	Price to sub-contr.	Profit to gen. contr.
Div. N.....	$1,835,000	$1,410,000	$425,000
Div. C.....	518,000	443,945	60,145
Div. DJ.....	825,000	730,000	95,000
Div. Q.....	352,000	249,000	103,000
Div. U.....	183,700	196,000	*12,300
Div. X.....	425,000	350,000	75,000

*Increase.

"In connection with the facts disclosed in the foregoing table," says the prosecutor, "the state will offer to prove that it was known to the defendants here that the price at which electrical work specified in the six contracts was bid for and awarded to the T. J. Forschner Construction company, Dowdle brothers, John Griffiths and Sons company, and Nash Brothers was so excessively and exorbitantly high that the concerns were able to sublet them and thereby receive excessive and unwarranted profits with but slight and no appreciable risk."

The bill then contains a tabulation of the work, showing the actual cost to the U. S. A. company and also the amount of profit to the concern over 40 per cent. The table follows:

Con-tract—	Bid price.	Act. cost.	Profit.	Plus 40% profit.	Over 40%.
Div. N.	$1,835,000	$900,000	$1,410,000	$1,260,000	285%
Div. C.	518,000	180,000	443,945	252,000	186%
Div. DJ	825,000	214,100	730,781	299,740	285%
Div. Q.	352,000	82,700	118,000	115,800	325%
Div. U.	183,700	41,216	58,692	57,702	328%
Div. X.	425,000	170,340	236,476	238,476	149%

Charges $2,231,620 Graft.

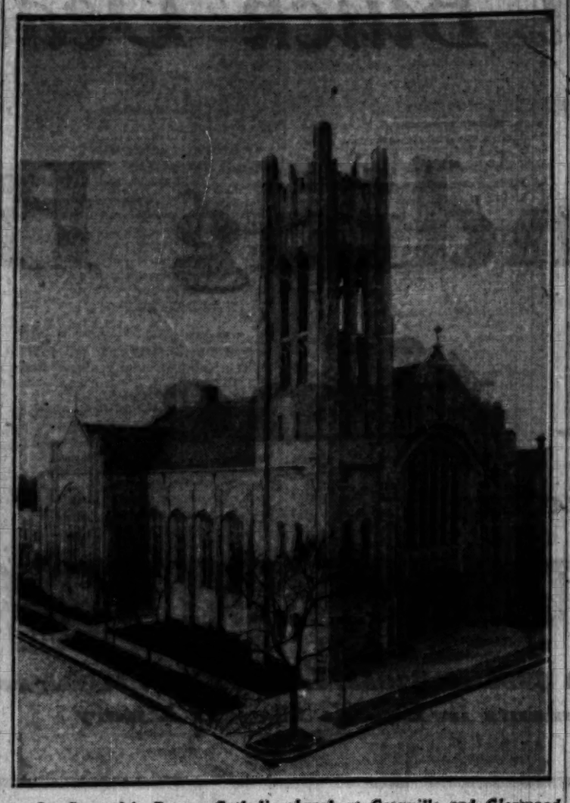

In regard to the tables covering the contracts the state says it can show that the taxpayers were cheated out of $2,231,620.

In regard to the division N contract the state will show that the contract was awarded to Dowdle brothers, who in turn sublet the electrical work to the U. S. A. company. This latter company submitted a bid on the same work, but it was higher than that submitted by Dowdles, even though the U. S. A. company is an electrical concern and the other is not. The Dowdle concern then turned the work over to the U. S. A. company, which did the work for the Dowdles for $425,000 less than it had offered in its bid to do the job for the district direct.

Prosecutor Northup says he is prepared to show that Chamberlain drew out huge sums, amounting to as much as $95,000 and charged them up as expenses against the various sanitary district company projects.

"The state will also offer to prove in this connection," says Northup, "that Chamberlain charged to the miscellaneous account in the several contracts above noted the prices of hundreds of presents which he lavished upon a great number of people connected with his organization and that of the sanitary district, among them various officials of the district; that the cash which passed through the accounts of the U. S. A. company in this manner, together with the sums expended for presents, constituted a vast corruption fund of over a million dollars."

CANADA TO ROUND UP 4,000 REDS FOR DEPORTATION

Eight Leaders Sentenced to Prison.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Thousands of Canadian communists faced arrest as eight of their leaders were sentenced to prison today and authorization was issued for the confiscation of all the party's property in Canada.

Seven of the defendants were given five year and two year sentences, to run concurrently. The court recommended they be deported after the expiration of their terms. The eighth defendant was given a one year and a two year sentence, also to run concurrently.

The trial and conviction of the eight for belonging to an unlawful organization and for conspiring against the government, followed one of the longest and most intensive investigations ever conducted by the Canadian Royal Mounted police.

"Mountie" Gets His Men.

One of the investigators, Sergt. John Leopold, put aside his scarlet uniform, donned shabby clothing, changed his name, joined the communist ranks and sat for seven years at the party's council table while he sought to "get his men."

When the jury ruled the defendants were members of an unauthorized organization, it paved the way for the arrest of the 4,000 or 5,000 communists whose names appear on party rolls confiscated by Sergt. Leopold during his inside investigation.

The attorney general of Ontario said he would turn over these lists and other evidence collected by the mounted police to attorney generals of other provinces so they could round up the entire membership.

Red Leader Defies Drive.

In Calgary, Alta., Phil Luck, communist leader and candidate for mayor in an approaching election, said the communists would carry their fight to be called a legal organization to the privy council if necessary. He said he doubted whether the government legally could deport any more persons than already have been sent out of the country.

At the department of justice, however, it was said the naturalization act provides for the cancellation of naturalization papers in case of conviction for a criminal offense.

Justice Wright, who imposed the sentences, said the communist party itself had been on trial as much as the individual leaders, and with the conviction of the defendants, the party had been convicted of being an illegal organization.

MIDWEST BOOZE SYNDICATE TRIAL SET FOR NOV. 30

57 Capone Henchmen in Vast Ring.

The trial of fifty-six members of the middle west alcohol syndicate, an interlocking branch of Al Capon's metropolitan organization, will begin on Nov. 30, Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley announced yesterday. With the exception of Anthony Romano, who pleaded guilty to operating a still, the defendants entered pleas of not guilty.

JUDGE LINDLEY.

After the trial date was set the seventeen attorneys for the defense were notified to present their preliminary motions on Nov. 17.

Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson revealed that it took government agents a year to uncover all the ramifications of the gigantic alcohol ring. The fight against the ring, which is a step in Uncle Sam's drive on hoodlums by use of income tax and prohibition prosecutions and deportations, culminated in a blanket conspiracy indictment on June 26.

One Defendant a Woman.

Only one of the defendants in the conspiracy charges is a woman. She is Mrs. Harriet Fritz, reputed proprietor of a speakeasy in Aurora.

Linking the middle west organization with Capone's stills in Chicago and the suburbs, according to Prosecutor Anderson, were the brothers, Paul, Gabriel and Anthony Cinquina; and Anthony and John Carsello, also brothers. Some of the alcohol distributed, it is charged, came from Mike Meyers, a re-cooker, in Aurora. Anderson said that Meyers alone distributed 2,000,000 gallons of alcohol from 1927 through 1930.

Michael Blumberg of Clinton, Ia., was the western representative of the syndicate, it is alleged. Blumberg was reputed to have said: "All the roads from Chicago to Clinton are greased with money for the coppers."

Besides reaping large profits from the sale of his alcohol, Capone is reputed to have exacted tribute from the middle western ring.

Alleged Gamblers in Court.

While the affairs of Capone's associates to the west were being dealt with, Jimmy Mondi, Capone henchman, and fifteen other alleged handbook operators appeared before Judge Donald S. McKinlay in the South State street court.

Peter Rossi, arrested with Raymond Richard and John Fontana in a cigar store at 639 North State street in the raids on Thursday, was found guilty by the court of being the keeper of a gambling house and fined $110. Mondi and the rest then asked for jury trials. Mondi was arrested in his cigar store at 62 West Madison street on Thursday.

TITLED ITALIAN DOCTOR FINED; LACKED LICENSE

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Dr. Pietro Corrado, whose business card credits him with the title of marquis di Montecorviano, was fined $500 in the Court of Special Sessions today for practicing medicine in New York state without a license. He was paroled in the custody of his attorney in order that he might get the money.

Dr. Corrado was graduated from the University of Naples in 1921 and obtained a license to practice medicine in his native country. In 1926 he came to America and began an eighteen months' service as interne in the Italian hospital in this city. Soon after leaving the hospital he opened offices at West Fourth street, Manhattan, and at West New Brighton, Staten Island.

One afternoon last February Police woman Rae Nicolatti called on the doctor at his New York address and asked for an examination. He charged her $3 for his advice. His arrest for practicing without a license from the New York state board of regents followed.

SLAYS FELLOW PRISONER.

Burning Question in Grain Belt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Whether the government financed Farmers' National Grain corporation of Chicago is a blessing or a curse to agriculture is a question on which the grain growing region is split wide open.

GEORGE S. MILNOR.

On the one side are the farmers who testify that they have obtained better prices for their grain marketed through this national coöperative set up by the farm board and who believe that the concern has already demonstrated the success of coöperative marketing on a national scale. On the other are those farmers who complain that their dealings with the Farmers' National have left them out of pocket and who predict the collapse of the venture, like the Townley socialistic schemes in North Dakota and other exploitations of the tillers of the soil by professional organizers.

The Pickings Are Princely.

Such pickings there never have been before for the professional organizers who have been described as "the men who farm not the soil, but farm the farmers." Coöperative association dues of [illegible] are chicken feed, the North Dakota state treasury a shopgirl's purse compared with the 500 million dollar federal revolving fund now being poured out to finance their activities.

The wheat belt resounds with the stories of the use of the revolving fund by the Farmers' National for the purchase of elevators and other facilities at prices greatly exceeding fair valuations and of other wasteful expenditures.

Criticism is heard of the salaries paid, such as $50,000 to George S. Milnor, vice president and general manager, and $32,000 to his chief assistant, J. M. Chilton. There is criticism touching the acquisition of marketing companies like the Updike Company of Omaha and the Hall-Baker Company of Kansas City for the latter of which $2,800,000 was paid, $800,000 of this amount going for good will.

Something Wrong in Kansas.

Many of the coöperatives to which the farmers' national has reloaned farm board money are said to be insolvent today and unable to pay their borrowings. In a suit he brought for a receivership of the Kansas Coöperative Wheat Marketing association, a member stockholder of the Farmers' National, Ralph W. Gardiner of Ashland, Kas., asserted that the Kansas concern was insolvent, with liabilities $500,000 in excess of assets.

Mr. Gardiner, who is an elevator owner, alleged in his petition that he had delivered 47,000 bushels of wheat to the pool, which still owed him [illegible]. He alleged also that 75 per cent of the members of the pool had withdrawn.

Mr. Gardiner asserted he had received less from the pool for his wheat than if he had marketed it through old line channels. A similar contention was made by W. J. Wickham, a Dighton, Kas., farmer who also filed a suit to recover $1,503 from the Kansas coöperative. He demanded that his membership contract be rescinded and that the association's books be audited and a receiver appointed.

He alleged that the solicitor who signed him up in the pool made false and fraudulent representations concerning the association. He charged that the coöperative had been organized for the benefit of certain promoters, "in order that said promoters could draw large salaries and expense accounts."

Benjamin F. Hegler, Wichita, Kas., attorney, denied the truth of all of these allegations with respect to the Kansas association.

A third receivership petition was filed against the Kansas coöperative by four Thomas county farmers, who alleged they received from five to eight cents a bushel less for their wheat marketed through the pool than they otherwise would have received.

Nebraska Farmers Complain.

Nebraska farmers are loud in their complaints of losses sustained from marketing their wheat through the Farmers' West Central Grain company of Omaha, member stockholder of the farmers' national. The Central City [Neb.] Republican has been publishing some of the letters as full page advertisements. August J. Wagner, Central City, said, "they got me in and then billed me" for carrying charges that wiped him out.

"The minute a farmer stored his grain with a subsidiary of the federal farm board," said Mr. Wagner, "his grain became subject to charges sufficient to pay a horde of employés and officials as well as the inevitable cost of warehousing and keeping the product in condition. This, in the face of a down market, rather than the promised rise in price, has wiped many a farmer from the picture where he had been a real federal farm board speculator."

Wagner delivered 4,200 bushels of wheat to the West Central, receiving an advance of $1,390, all he ever received. In a parallel column is set forth the experience of Carl Whitmore, Central City, who sold 4,200 bushels of wheat at the same time to the board of trade elevator for $2,688.

SUES PROFESSOR

Mrs. Barbara Black Merrill.

Mrs. Barbara B. Merrill, 24 years old, 1250 Asbury avenue, Evanston, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court against Francis E. Merrill, a history professor at the University of Kansas. Mrs. Merrill is the daughter of Dr. Arthur D. Black, dean of the Northwestern university dental school. She and Prof. Merrill were prominent in Chicago society after their marriage on June 29, 1929. The wife charged desertion, saying that her husband left her on Oct. 7, 1930. She asked permission to resume her maiden name.

CRIMES UNDER NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

Three gangsters were sentenced Thursday by Judge John P. Barnes in the federal District court to four and a half years in Leavenworth prison. The evidence showed that they had called on the proprietor of the Sunnyside inn on the Waukegan road with a half case of whisky. They represented themselves as being with the "syndicate," which has meant Capone, and said that the half case was the tavernkeeper's allotment on that trip. He was going into business as a retail outlet for the gang and they'd return for a settlement.

The proprietor said he did not sell liquor and was told that he was going to sell it and like it. When they called to collect they were seized by a government agent and a policeman after a payment had been made them. They were prosecuted on charges of possession and transportation of liquor and conspiracy, but the actual crime was extortion of a character calculated to make the average citizen boil. It has been generally known of the gangs that they terrorized the speakeasy trade and murdered in their competition for outlets. The evidence in the case in Judge Barnes' court indicated that a man who did not want an illegal business was to be forced into it at the risk of his life.

The crime itself was peculiar to prohibition. In its nature it required the Volstead act. No other law is of such a nature that it would develop a scheme of compulsory criminality forced at the gun point as a trade system, nor has any other law produced bands of criminals competent to terrorize communities and corrupt their officials.

Although the gangsters were tried in the federal court for liquor law violation Judge Barnes recognized that this was not an ordinary Jones and Volstead act case but one of criminality transcending anything implied in the possession and transportation of liquor or conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. His exemplary disposal of the three hoodlums who had gone to trial before him without a jury punished criminals whose act had been less tolerable to the state than to the federal government. The gravity of their crime was against the security of the state. It was a federal law which furnished the elements they could convert into a crime of such a nature and in this case it was a federal judge who paid off the score for the state.

It is the peculiar evil of national prohibition that it produces murderous enemies of the peace of the state which cannot, apparently, reach them to punish them. When they are brought to justice in the federal court it can seldom be for complete accounting. A gangster whose record is one of murder is tried for not paying his income taxes. One who has been a terrorist and killer stands trial for possession and transportation. Trial under the law which develops the criminality seldom gets to the actual seriousness of the crimes from which the state and not the federal government suffers, but which the national law brings down upon the state.

The sentences Judge Barnes imposed on the three gangsters just about squared, for once in the federal court, a case the state had against them.

TAXICABS AND GASOLINE TAXES.

The federal government's voluntary committee on petroleum economics has reported to the secretary of the interior that the consumption of gasoline this year was larger than it was a year ago, although the number of automobiles in operation was somewhat smaller. The discrepancy was attributed to a number of causes, an important one being an increase in the number of taxicabs. A taxi, the committee discovered, consumes from 10 to 15 times as much gasoline in a year as the average privately owned car.

This is a fact the significance of which should not be lost on Chicago motorists and taxpayers, for it emphasizes the gross injustice in the present distribution of the gasoline tax revenues. Two-thirds of the tax remains in the state treasury and is spent at the discretion of the state government. In practice, only a small part of the state's fund has been spent in Cook county. It is doubtful if as little as 10 per cent of the state's road building has been done in Cook county, although in this county more than 40 per cent of all the automobiles owned in Illinois are to be found.

The other third of the gas tax is redistributed to the counties in proportion to the number of automobiles registered in each. Cook county, therefore, receives about 40 per cent of this third. The method of distribution assumes that the consumption of gasoline per car in one section of the state is substantially equal to the consumption per car in every other part of the state.

The report to Mr. Wilbur serves to confirm a suspicion that here, too, Chicago and Cook county have been cheated of a fair share of the tax receipts. Chicago and its suburbs support the great majority of taxicabs in service in the state. In Chicago alone there are approximately 5,000 taxicabs in use. If the committee's average is correct, those 5,000 cabs are, in point of gasoline consumption, the equivalent of from 50,000 to 75,000 ordinary cars, an addition of more than 10 per cent to Chicago's total. For all practical purposes the cabs operate exclusively on the pavements of the city of Chicago, upon which not one cent of the state's portion of the gasoline tax has been spent and almost nothing of the county's portion.

The present distribution of the gasoline tax funds is wholly unfair. A more equitable arrangement would return to the counties their third, reduce the state's share to a third, and give the cities a third. The redistribution of the money should not be on the basis merely of the number of licensed cars, but, if an accurate calculation is possible, upon the taxes actually paid in the various jurisdictions. In that way road funds would be made available where density of traffic proves the need for them.

MR. JUSTICE BRANDEIS.

Mr. Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme court has reached the age of 75. To the majority of his fellow countrymen the news must have come as a surprise. The vigor of Mr. Brandeis' mind as reflected in his opinions has not been impeded by the years. His acuteness has not been blunted. His delicacy of perception is, if anything, more marked today than at any moment in his career.

Of recent years Mr. Brandeis has come to enjoy a triumph which few men have shared. During much of his career as a Supreme court justice he was in the minority. Many of his great opinions were dissenting opinions. Latterly the tide has turned in his direction. Mr. Brandeis' legal and political philosophy has grown through the years, but it has not altered much in its essentials. His faith in constitutional liberty has not changed, but the court has swung around to support him.

This shift is to be explained only in part by the fact that the personnel of the court has undergone change. Equally important is the intellectual power of the dissenting views which Mr. Brandeis put forward. His mind and his voice have made their impress over the years. Today if the court enjoys a renewed confidence among lawyers and the public it is to no small extent because of the influence which Mr. Justice Brandeis exerted on the thinking of judges and lawyers in his generation.

Few men at any period of their lives have enjoyed so dramatic a vindication as has come to Mr. Brandeis in recent decisions of the court, and he has won this victory at an age when the vast majority of men are content to recall the struggles and successes of their early manhood. At 75 Mr. Brandeis finds himself on the threshold of what may well be the period of his greatest usefulness to his country. From being the leader of a minority he has come to be a leader of the majority. The voice which long spoke dissent is now establishing precedents for the future. His fellow countrymen, no less than Mr. Brandeis, are to be congratulated.

A TANK THAT SWIMS.

The British have developed a tank which can swim rivers. It makes six knots as a boat, and after it climbs out on land it moves along at 42 miles an hour. It mounts a machine gun in a turret, which can be brought to bear in any direction, and it is armored heavily enough to stop a rifle bullet at any range and an armor piercing bullet at 150 meters.

This machine may effect great changes in the art of warfare. Hitherto armies have been able to take refuge behind river lines and the forcing of rivers has constituted one of the bloodiest of offensive operations. That, of course, was why the allies, in drawing up the terms of the armistice, required the Germans to cede the bridgeheads on the eastern side of the Rhine. With allied troops across the river, Germany's strongest defensive line was broken.

The invention of the new tank is another evidence of the extraordinary flowering of mechanical skill which has occurred in Britain since the war. The British have suffered a loss of prestige in economics and world politics, but they are laying a solid foundation for recovery in their workshops. Britain has produced the fastest airplane, the fastest boat, the fastest automobile, and the motors to drive them. It is the pioneer in the mechanization of warfare and in this field is so far ahead of all other nations that they can hardly be said to be in the race at all.

Americans are supposed to be more addicted to mechanical speed than the people of any other land, but the evidence does not seem to bear out the theory.

Editorial of the Day

THE "AL SMITH TYPE."

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago has thrown down the gauntlet to eastern Democratic leaders with the statement that their party must find for 1932 a presidential candidate of the "Al Smith type." Cermak's dictum is interesting because he strikes at a vitally important question in party politics, and a point often neglected—the personality of a candidate which will "take" with the voting public. But Cermak's suggestion has a vagueness which makes it next to useless.

Just what is the "Al Smith type"? Smith often speaks the east side dialect of the King's English, but surely the qualities for presidential timber do not depend on his diction and grammar. Smith is a "dripping wet." This, perhaps, helps clarify the problem, but there are so many "dripping wets" that we are still in the dark. Smith is an extraordinarily capable executive, but that quality scarcely increases the vote pulling power of a candidate.

Smith is a colorful and vivid figure, and his thought is keyed to the pulse of America's millions of average citizens. These, perhaps, are the qualities that define the "Al Smith type." In which case we still are hard pressed to find another candidate who fits the Cermak-ordered pattern.

Roosevelt speaks superior English. Baker is a scholar. "Ham" Lewis is an orator. Owen Young thinks for but not with the masses. Robinson isn't a "dripping wet." Alfalfa Bill Murray has the color but not the ability. None of the contenders fits the specifications.

In short, there is no one of the "Al Smith type." Al Smith is unique, and if Mayor Cermak must have a man of his type, then he will have to take Al Smith. On the other hand, there remains the question whether the democracy actually does need a candidate of the "Al Smith type."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M.

QUICK, CONGRESS! Another constitutional amendment, and make it snappy. We must protect the home, protect the people, protect the kiddies! We must save our citizens, even though, doggone 'em, they may not want to be saved. Save 'em anyhow. And it's more fun saving 'em if they don't want to be saved than it is if they do. Let us grab 'em by the scruff of the neck and the slack of the pants and drag 'em in, no matter how much they holler, and save 'em. This is the 14th day of November. Tonight at midnight begins the falling of the Leonid meteors. Scientists have calculated that in the United States one person is liable to be hit by a meteor every 9,300 years. It may be tonight. One of our citizens, walking peaceably home from a speakeasy, may be conked in the back of the neck by a meteor. Think of this poor man! Don't say it's none of your business! Don't say, as did Cain, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Yes siree, you are your brother's keeper, and your brother-in-law's keeper, too, for that matter.

You betcha, if your fellow man has been knocked out by a meteor you are to blame if you did nothing to prevent it. Think of his wife, think of his children, think of his wife's sister, think of his wife's sister's aunt. Once in every 9,300 years this is liable to happen. Let congress immediately pass another amendment to the constitution of these more or less United States forbidding Leonid comets or any brand from falling within the confines of our great country. Let proper officers be appointed with full power to promptly arrest any comet or meteor that falls on the United States. Let us protect our people. Comets and meteors must not think they have a right to come slumping around our country and hit our people in the neck, not even once in 9,300 years. No, nor once in a million years, or even five million years. We can stop it at once by a constitutional amendment. Write to your congressman today!

SHORT STORY.

She smiled serenely, knowing all the time
her sweet behavior only pantomime.

He watched her face and straightway fell in love, and never heard the beating wings above,

never saw the shadows on her breast
for thinking how he'd put her heart at rest, for dreaming how her hands would smooth his brow,

and how he'd never, never break his vow.

Kiss her lips, my man, and keep your faith.
It should be easy when you love a wraith.

Photogs Are Different There—It's the Climate.

R. H. L.: Your observations about the customs of newspaper photogs in posing pictures are quite to the point, but we think you are somewhat in error about what goes on in the said photogs' homes when you drop in on 'em. Some time ago, when we were managing editor, news editor, city editor, sports editor, society editor, makeup man, copyreader, and reportorial staff of the Santa Monica, Cal., Outlook (circulation 850), a camera hound on one of the Los Onglaze sheets borrowed $5 of us and invited us to take pot luck at his charming little bungalow in Ocean Park. ("Little" bungalow is right; there is a state law in southern California against building bungalows larger than a one-car garage.) When the two of us opened the front door Mrs. Photog was right there waiting, and she said: "Oho! Late again! I suppose you've been out boozing and gambling away the rent money with some more of your drunken bum friends, eh? And now you'll fly into another tantrum because supper isn't ready. Well, you can just waltz down to the end of the municipal pier and jump off into the water. There isn't a thing in the cupboard but codfish and crackers, because you haven't paid the grocer for three months, and there isn't anything to sit on, because the furniture people were here this afternoon and hauled everything back to the store. You've got a fine lot of crust hanging around barrooms all afternoon and showing up this late with a seedy looking tramp you expect me to feed——" At this point we mumbled something about having forgotten to cover an earthquake story up at the Japanese fishing village by Inceville and departed hurriedly through the dripping fog, leaving Mr. and Mrs. Photog shattering the California climate with their opinions of each other. At no time, Mr. Little, was anything said about sitting on a piano. Even though the furniture had been replevined, still it was not suggested that we sit on a piano. In fact, we saw nothing of a piano about the place. Had there been a piano, we are certain the lady would have busted it over the gentleman's head rather than ask us to sit on it. While we have always respected your powers of deduction, we feel that your hypothesis about sitting on pianos in newspaper photographers' houses is invalid, and we trust you will give this correction the same prominence in your publication that you gave the original erroneous statement.

DANGERS OF THE BATHROOM.

If there were any statistics on the subject, they would show the bathroom to be the most dangerous part of the house, not even excepting the room in which the booze is being made. The newspapers tell us of an occasional fatality in a parlor or bedroom, but it is largely in bathrooms that accidents happen.

There are many electrical accidents. Low voltage currents of electricity may cause fatal accidents if the conditions of conduction are just right. A man is in the bathtub. He reaches up with his wet hand and turns on the electric light. The current jumps to his wet hand and he gets a fatal shock from a current that would ordinarily not have done any great harm. Or, in some other way, the electric current is short circuited to the water in which a man is bathing. Or, with his body wet, and standing on a wet floor, he touches some place to which a current can jump in wet, warm air or along a wet surface.

Electric wires and fixtures in bathrooms need to be extra well insulated and unusually inaccessible to wet air and wet fingers.

Bathrooms are generally kept too hot and too moist. Some people faint because of this. Fainting, they fall in the tub, the head submerges, and they drown.

Many bathrooms need, for comfort, some form of temporary, auxiliary heater. For this purpose some are equipped with electric heaters, thus adding somewhat to the danger of electrical accidents. Some are equipped with small gas burners that consume gas and manufacture carbonic acid and carbon monoxide, for the removal of which there is no piping. There is some danger of gas poisoning, since bathroom ventilation is poor except where the law takes care of the matter.

The accident rate in bathrooms, as the result of falls, is exceptionaly high. This includes falls due to slipping in the tub and on the floor. However, these accidents generally result in nothing more serious than broken ribs. Rubber mats on the floor and in the tub and handles on the tub are calculated to obviate this danger. That from gas burners can be obviated by using other means of heating, or by using burners with piping, or by better ventilation of the bathroom.

ACUTE CORYZA.

Mrs. J. M. M. writes: For no apparent reason, and at any period of the year, I am subject to attacks which induce a condition similar to that produced by coryza. This has continued for several years. The attack manifests itself by a tickling sensation at the root of the nose, followed by sneezing and stuffiness. The latter condition, which is very distressing and which prevents free respiration, will last from ten minutes to several hours, during which time there is an abundant flow of watery mucus. These repeated attacks eventually developed into pleurisy some years ago.

I have been sawed, hacked, burned and injected. I have sprayed many liquid compounds, applied numerous ointments, and taken cod liver oil, but the attacks continue intermittently and unexpectedly, irrespective of treatment.

Exposure to drafts, dust, pollen, and other irritants have been suggested as the probable cause, but my nose becomes blocked up under the most favorable conditions. The baffling part is that I will go through all the misery which accompanies a bad cold, whether it be for ten minutes or ten hours when, without the slightest warning or indication the condition clears up suddenly. That is to say, the something that was blocking my nose suddenly releases the pressure, the flow of mucus dries up, and I breathe normally again.

REPLY.

I have printed your long letter because it is such a good description of acute coryza. I wish I could be equally proficient in giving you a preventive. You must await a specific vaccine, and that seems far away. Meanwhile, the use of one of the common vaccines for colds will help you somewhat.

CHAPPED HANDS.

E. M. H. writes: If people who suffer from chapped hands and face will be sure to wipe soap off they will not be troubled.

REPLY.

This method will prevent some cases and cure others, but it will fail often.

WATERMELON.

B. C. F. writes:

1. Is watermelon fattening?
2. What is the caloric value of a half pound of watermelon meat?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. A person with good digestion should be able to get about 135 calories from a pound. Watermelon is principally composed of water. The few calories available come from the sugar. We eat fruits for minerals and vitamins and not for calories.

USUALLY SIX WEEKS.

Northbrook, Ill., Nov. 7.—Friend of the People.]—Please tell me how long it takes after one sends in application for first papers. On Oct. 2, 1931, I mailed my application, my landing card, two pictures, and postal money order for $5, but have not heard anything about it.

If the applicant mailed to this office the papers referred to, he received a receipt and the number appearing in the upper right hand corner of the receipt is the number of his case in this office. If the papers were sent Oct. 2, 1931, he will probably hear in regard thereto in a short time. It takes about six weeks from the time an application is sent in to the date of filing of a naturalization paper.

SURVIVOR TAKES PROPERTY.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If two sisters own property jointly and one marries and dies without making a will, does the husband have the legal right to claim her share of the property? A. E. P.

No. To create a joint tenancy in real estate the conveyance should expressly declare that title is to pass not in tenancy in common but in joint tenancy. [Ill. Revised Statutes, chap. 76, sec. 1.] If title is already in one of the parties it should be deeded to a third person, who should then deed back to the two, using a joint tenancy form, which can be secured from a stationer. To create a joint tenancy in personal property the "will or other instrument in writing" should express "an intention to create a joint tenancy . . . with the right of survivorship" [sec. 21. Under the statute we consider it advisable not to rely on the wording of a stock certificate nor on the fact that the parties have joint access to a safety box. The intention should be expressed in a writing by the owner or owners. On the death of a joint tenant the property passes to the survivor without necessity for probate and to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first. The one-half that thus passes by survivorship is subject to inheritance tax.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 14, 1915.

ROME.—The Italian government issued the following statement regarding the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona: "The Ancona did not attempt to escape, but stopped within a short distance after the firing of the first shell. The liner was torpedoed while boats were being lowered and 100 passengers were still on board. The submarine being German, Germany has opened hostilities against Italy without a declaration of war." An American, Pasquale Laurino, is highly praised for his courage in mounting the deck railing of the Ancona and waving a large American flag, in a desperate effort to save the ship by showing that there were Americans on board.

WAR NEWS.—On the eastern battle front the Russians have gained further ground in their offensive in the Riga region. Petrograd reports the Germans are being driven farther west of Riga, with heavy losses. In the Balkans the plan of the Bulgarians to sweep from the south and, with the aid of the Germans in the north, crush the Serbians seems to have been quelled by the Anglo-French forces, which, according to reports, have swept King Ferdinand's troops back. The Germans fighting their way step by step in the north are gradually eating into the ground over which lies the Serbian line of retreat.

CHICAGO.—George Burkitt, for six years assistant postmaster at Winnetka, and under federal civil service, has been discharged from his job and from the government service, on the ground of "disloyalty to the President." He is alleged to have made the remark that President Wilson should have waited longer after the death of his wife before becoming engaged to Mrs. Galt. He made public a series of letters relating to his discharge, which, he says, the government has been making efforts to get possession of. The papers show that he appealed to First Assistant Postmaster General Daniel C. Roper in vain.

CHICAGO.—A plot to kill Patrolman Francesco S. Capparelli, a truant officer of the board of education, was foiled by the arrest and confession of a group of child conspirators who dwell in the Ghetto. The plot was formed in the hope that as a result the boys might not be compelled to attend public school and so have full time for robbing homes. Nine boys were in the plot and, according to their confessions, they were instigated by the Fagin of their school, James Kolis, 31 years old. He was locked up. Capparelli owes his safety to a warning given him by a six year old girl.

LONDON.—Helen Vanderbilt-Wackerman, rich New York girl, whose character was assailed by Herbert Von Herkomer, the artist, to whom she sat for a portrait, has become insane as a result of his accusations. The American ambassador, the bishop of London and all the leading artists took sides with Miss Wackerman and demanded that Von Herkomer apologize. The artists from whom Herkomer declared he received his information asserted the charges were monstrously untrue. It was Miss Wackerman who sat for "God's Masterpiece," by Sir Edward Poynter.

NEW YORK.—With the incorporation in Trenton, N. J., of a $400,000,000 security holding company, the famous Northern Pacific fight has come to an end. Hereafter one harmonious power will administer the wealth of three former independent companies, whose combined capital stock is over $500,000,000. The combination at present is confined to the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington systems.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

CINCINNATI.—The Rev. Z. M. Humphrey, D. D., professor of church history in Lane Theological seminary here, is dead. He was a son of the Rev. Herman Humphrey, once president of Amherst college. For several years he was pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Chicago.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Edwin Booth, wife of the eminent actor, died here, at the home of her father, J. H. McVicker. Since her return from England last summer her mental malady had taken such shape that her husband was compelled to keep out of her presence as much as possible.

WASHINGTON.—There was a remarkable scene in the district jail today when Guiteau, the murderer of President Garfield, met his sister, Mrs. George Scoville, wife of his attorney, and his brother, John W. Guiteau of Boston. The warden respected the feelings of the innocent relatives and left them with the assassin alone. They were there an hour and a half and the meeting was most affecting. Guiteau has prepared an elaborate speech which he will undertake to deliver in court when his trial begins tomorrow, but of course he will be refused permission to speak at this time. The plea is remarkable for its crafty composition. He says he removed Garfield because of his "unwise use of patronage" and declares that he was chosen by the Lord to do it because of his nerve and courage. He is sane enough to insist that it was the surgeons who killed the President.

ABOUT PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Mount Morris, Ill., Nov. 9.—Your recent editorials on the waste and extravagance in our tax paid educational program are to be commended. There is no question but what the purpose of our school system at first was to banish illiteracy. Originally it embraced what now corresponds to the grades, and private academies took care largely of what is now given in our tax supported high schools, which serve basically as preparatory schools for the colleges and universities.

Then our educational hierarchy added the high school which killed the private academies and later added the junior college as another unit to the tax supported system, and the junior college, unless its spread is checked, will in turn drive out the private small college.

Our educational pyramid is standing on its apex instead of its base. The high school has been made the basic unit instead of the grades. "Education" has been made a fetish, and with a complex characteristic of the American people, "to give our children something better than our fathers had," we have erected magnificent high school temples, which afford material luxuries far beyond the hope of the child either to enjoy now or to attain in later life.

The center of any educational system is the teacher. The grade schools should have the best teachers obtainable, and the curriculum should be such that the child, after completing the required number of years of the course, will be prepared reasonably to meet life's requirements. This is the minimum, and I doubt if our fathers ever went beyond this in their ideas of tax supported schools. No doubt we should have something beyond the grades, but the present high school courses of four years and the grade course of eight years could easily be made in one unit of ten years.

At present our high schools are filled with students who are there because of the compulsory educational law, and not because of any desire to learn. This group is generally passed by the faculty because they don't want them to hang around another year. In smaller cities they are passed because the high school faculty does not want any row with their parents. Annually the high schools send up to the universities thousands of students of whom from ten to fifty per cent are "flunked" or "conditioned" at the end of their freshman year.

These facts are well known to leading educators and are causing considerable concern because of the enormous waste to the higher institutions of learning, as well as to the boy and girl, sometimes permanently wrecking the life hope of the latter.

The professional and technical fields should be a matter of private selection and paid for by those who wish to take the courses. Not over 5 per cent of our high school graduates go to higher institutions, so why maintain our high schools as preparatory schools for this small number?

So far as the public, tax-supported junior college is concerned, you are exactly right in advancing the idea that this field should be supported by the few who enjoy its advantages. A thing worth having is worth paying for. The taxpayers certainly do their duty when they see the boy and girl through high school. If we want to get sentimental about our boys and girls, let us give them a square deal in the formative years of their lives—the years of their grade education—giving them the best teachers and methods possible to obtain. At present the grade school is but the tail of the high school kite, and the high school in turn is the tail to the university kite—and the taxpayer foots the bill for whatever our educational hierachy sees fit to fasten upon the system.

APPLESAUCE AND NONSENSE.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—On Oct. 8 there appeared a short article on the editorial page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE bearing the title "Twenty-one Days to Mussolini." The puerile remarks expressed throughout this article combined with the malevolent [illegible] demands a reply.

Nine years have elapsed since the beginning of the unopposed Fascist rule. At any time during those years personal imperial ambitions if possessed by Mussolini could have been gratified easily satisfied without the slightest trouble or effort. At no time, however, has there been the faintest suggestion or the minutest indication. Nor has there been any nobility decree accepted by the Anti-Fascist propaganda on the destruction of the dictatorship until very recently of imperialistic designs in an attempt to bring dissension between the crown and Fascism, but you can see how miserably it failed its intended purpose.

Devoted loyalty to the [illegible] standard records the accomplishments past and present of Mussolini and Fascism. Can any dismiss with the expression "[illegible] sauce" [which is not even good Italian usage] the utterances of the great figure in history to arise from the world war? Is it fair to insinuate such nuendoes without basis of fact?

Realizing from several personal experiences the peculiar antagonistic attitude of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE toward Italy and knowing the history of the UNM correspondents in Italy during the last ten years, especially the one episode for distorting facts, I doubt veracity and the accuracy of the one gun salute story. I would like to know who was present and for what the salute was given. An official report would be more appropriate than a newspaper reporter's figures where the mathematical summation might be influenced by a prejudiced and [illegible] mind.

COLLOQUY IN A TRAVEL.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—I was sitting in the restroom of a loop theater the other day enjoying a quiet cigaret when one of those busy club women who love nothing else to do but mind other people's business stepped up and demanded, "Why do you smoke?" in such a tone of voice that it embarrassed me. So she went on to tell me of the great evils of smoking. When she had finished, I rather when she paused for breath, told her simply, "I smoke because it gives me pleasure, because this is [illegible] a free country and I am white, free, and over 21. If you don't approve of smoking, those [illegible] don't, but please allow others to do the same way."

"But," she persisted, "I want to save you from an early grave and a bad reputation."

"I neither want your advice nor your impertinence. No one is harmed by myself and if I meet my death through these innocent little white cubes [that's what you call them, I'm sure] then you can have the pleasure of saying I told you so."

And she was actually [illegible] bravely resisted telling her to go to a warmer climate.

AN MANLY LAND GRAFT.

De Kalb, Ill., Nov. 10.—In a recent issue of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE there appeared a news item from La Crosse, Wis., stating that a deed of land had been found bearing the signature of President Zachary Taylor, issued 70 years ago. I have the signature of President James Monroe, on a grant of land issued in 1817 to a military man for services rendered during the war of 1812. It happens that the land deeded was in our own state of Illinois.

BALDWIN WARNS BERLIN MUST PAY PRIVATE DEBTS

Will Not Let Reparations Endanger Them.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Stanley Baldwin, leader of the opposition and leader of the overwhelming conservative majority in the house of commons, served warning today that payment of Germany's private debts must not be endangered by reparations demands.

Britain, having invested heavily in Germany credits over a period of ten years, cannot permit those investments to be jeopardized, he declared in the course of a speech in the house on the prospects for international action to alleviate the world's financial crisis.

"The financial advances made to Germany over the past ten years were not speculative," he said, "but were the best type of security on the market. These obligations must not be destroyed by political debts."

Hope for Amicable Settlement

"If her commercial obligations were dishonored, he said, Germany's credit would be destroyed "and once that ground there would be no future respect at all for reparations."

He expressed a hope that the governments concerned would be able to "come to an agreement on that point, adding, however, that the issue involved political prejudices and preconceptions in other great countries besides our own."

The government obtained another overwhelming majority today when a labor party amendment to the king's speech which opened parliament was defeated by 432 to 58. The amendment expressed regret that the speech from the throne made no mention of "unjust economies imposed upon the unemployed," and criticised the government for failing to formulate any policy coordinating the country's principal industries under state ownership or control.

Laval Confers with German.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Premier Laval conferred again today with Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador, regarding the procedure of opening discussion of the reparations and debts problem. The premier issued no statement afterward, and the ambassador said the negotiations were continuing and no definite conclusion had been reached.

ARREST WOMAN FOR EMBEZZLING $62,000 FROM COUNTY FUNDS

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Miss Evelyn M. Albus, deputy county clerk of Jefferson, Ky., and the daughter of a retired Louisville, Ky., business man, who disappeared from her native state on Sept. 28, was arrested today in an apartment here as a fugitive from justice, charged with taking part in the misappropriation of $62,000 in public funds.

Soon after her arrest she was brought before Magistrate Ovington Harris, a friend of her father, and a former resident of Louisville. Magistrate Harris, who said later that he knew nothing about the young woman, ordered her held in the Harlem prison in default of the $30,000 bail which was required in a warrant.

The police said she will leave for Louisville tomorrow to face indictments containing a total of 11 counts against her and William Stiglitz, the Jefferson county clerk, and Frank Hohemann Jr., chief deputy county clerk. Stiglitz went on trial in the Kentucky city today. Hohemann is still being sought.

STATE PUTS ON LAST WITNESS IN PANTAGES TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The last prosecution witness took the stand today and the state closed in the second trial against Alexander Pantages, accused of rape of Eunice Pringle when she was 17 years old. The trial was adjourned until Monday.

The last witness for the prosecution was Police Chemist Rex Welsh, who testified regarding chemical examination of clothing worn by Miss Pringle on the day of the asserted rape, in August, 1929. Welsh's testimony was declared highly important by Chief Deputy District Attorney Robert Stewart.

After Welsh concluded, Miss Pringle was called by Jerry Geisler, defense counsel, for a revival of cross examination. Geisler, in a series of prepared questions, asked if she had not gone to Pantages' office with the intention of inducing the theater magnate to book a stage act she was featured in, or, in failing in this, "to place Mr. Pantages in a compromising position."

Answers to virtually all of Geisler's questions were not given as the prosecution objected and was sustained by Superior Judge Claire Tappaan. Geisler's offer of proof in connection with the questions asked was ordered reduced to writing and turned over to Judge Tappan Monday.

He Counts His Horse's Calories for 22 Years

Pana, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Henry Jehle, retired farmer, buried his 22 year old family horse today. He had raised the animal from a colt, and through all of twenty-two years kept a record of his rations. His final total of food consumption by Dobbin was fifty-five tons of hay, twelve hundred bushels of corn, and fifteen hundred bushels of oats. At that, Jehle said, he did not begrudge his horse a mouthful, as he hand rendered splendid service.

HERE'S THE 'RADIUM HIGHBALL'; ITS KICK IS LEGAL AND HEALTHFUL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—That small quantities of radium introduced into food and drink may greatly prolong human life is the opinion of Dr. Luther S. H. Gable, head of the department of radium at Detroit Institute of Technology.

A radium "highball," consisting of fruit juice, through which a small quantity of radium gas, an emanation of radium, has been forced under pressure, is used regularly by Dr. Gable, who says it keeps him in splendid physical condition. Dr. Gable is here on a lecture tour.

Accuse 2 Who Arranged to Free Kidnap Victim

Two men who negotiated for the release of Ralph (Fuzzy) Pearce, Rockford gambler, who was kidnaped on Oct. 3, were charged with accessory to kidnaping last night by Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office. They are William (Red) Ryan and Jack Woll and will be arraigned in the Felony court Monday. Pearce was released in Chicago last Tuesday after Ryan, who was the gambler's representative, paid $1,200 for the latter's release to Woll, the alleged representative of the kidnapers. Roche charged that the negotiations prevented him from seizing the kidnapers.

King and Crown Prince of Sweden Cut Incomes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 13.—King Gustav of Sweden has requested the minister of finance to cut the royal civil list by 50,000 crowns (about $11,000). The crown prince also has requested a reduction of 15,000 crowns (about $3,300). The gestures are intended to relieve the economic situation by helping to balance next year's budget.

TURKEY SIGNS RUSSIAN PACT AIMED AT BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—When Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Turkish dictator, visited Moscow last April, a treaty directed against the British-controlled Moslem block of states was framed and has since been signed. This was learned here today, despite diplomatic denials. Provisions of the treaty are:

1. The enemy of one state is the enemy of the other.
2. The Turkish army is to be raised to a peace time strength of 250,000.
3. All material for troops is to be bought from Russia on a barter basis.

The Turkish government, it was also learned, proposes to take over as a state monopoly all imports and exports. The treaty is regarded in western circles as a direct reply to the organization by Great Britain of a solid block of Moslem states stretching from Hyderabad to the Turkish frontier.

ILLINOIS WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH IN WEST

Wellton, Ariz., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Bessie Blair Francis, 27, Peoria, Ill., was fatally injured and her husband, W. F. Francis, physicians said, probably will die as the result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near here tonight. The couple's two and one-half year old son was less seriously hurt.

Francis' car collided with a truck driven by Mrs. Mary Buckbee, in which Arthur Buckbee, her husband, was riding. Neither was injured.

Mrs. Francis died soon after reaching Wellton hotel. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

M'Adoo Writes Story of Own 'Crowded Years'

Raps British Diplomat and Late W. F. McCombs.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Crowded Years," the Reminiscences of William G. McAdoo. [Houghton-Mifflin.]

APTLY titled, indeed, is this first volume of the life history of William Gibbs McAdoo. During the war he was seven people, each one responsible for vast national or international affairs—secretary of the treasury of the United States, chief sales manager of the Liberty loans, administrator of the huge soldiers' and sailors' insurance plan, chairman of the federal reserve board, financial negotiator with the allied powers, chairman of the federal farm loan board, chairman of the War Finance corporation, and director general of two hundred and fifty thousand miles of railroads.

WILLIAM G. McADOO.

Any one of those positions might have been the cause of a volume of memoirs. Only by skillfully shuffling them into their relative places in his "crowded years" could he give a panoramic picture without over or under emphasis. Mr. McAdoo says in his preface that he had the help of his friend, W. E. Woodward, "a biographer of high reputation," in selecting the essentials that should compose the book. Whoever helped, Mr. McAdoo has done an excellent job of his reminiscences. The book has the thrill of actual history in the making. It holds the reader's interest in an iron grip. It makes forgotten days live again. It gives the reader a feeling of being in the secret instead of being told that there is a secret, or has been one, as so many autobiographies do.

"Crowded Years" begins with the early, far from prosperous days of the McAdoo family, that, like many other southern families, was impoverished by the civil war. It tells of the struggles of the young lawyer in Tennessee who thought he could give Knoxville an electric city railway. It records his early days in New York. It tells the whole story of the Hudson river tunnels. It describes the labor of his admirers to nominate Woodrow Wilson. It chronicles the inside workings of a great national party convention. But all of those highly interesting details serve rather as a curtain raiser to the actual drama of the war administration in so many phases of which Mr. McAdoo had either the principal or a leading part.

Mr. McAdoo's book has the charm of frankness. He never hesitates to say what he thinks as well as what happened. He writes of his differences with William F. McCombs, now dead, which received so much publicity at the time.

"There is hardly a vestige of truth in McCombs' story of this incident as it appears in his book," McAdoo says, and he later calls another statement of McCombs' "perfect rot!"

In refutation of a story about the appointment of Justice Louis D. Brandeis, McAdoo says: "I have taken the trouble to notice this statement because lying gossip of this kind manages somehow to get into what purports to be authentic history, just as cockroaches manage to get into the crevices of an old house." And he calls Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador in 1915, "a prize conveyor of misinformation."

"As I read over his [Sir Cecil's] two volumes of letters," McAdoo says, "I wonder what good an ambassador does, anyway. I venture to say that any newspaper reporter of moderate experience, stationed in Washington, would have been much more serviceable than the British ambassador in transmitting home an accurate picture of the American scene. The custom of handling large and complicated questions through the medium of men as poorly informed as Sir Cecil—and he was not the only one in his category—made all negotiations with the warring powers extremely difficult."

The pages are crowded—as were Mr. McAdoo's years—with events of vastest importance. I have not space to review them in detail. They are sources of history. One chapter of the volume, however, is not yet history. It is a suggestion about the very grave question of the collecting of the war debts owed to the United States by some of the greater nations of Europe. After explaining why collecting the debts in actual money is not feasible, Mr. McAdoo offers as his solution of the question the acceptance of Lord Rothmere's suggestion that England (and also France) cede us their possessions in the West Indies as a liquidation of part of their debt to us.

"The value of the commerce of the islands is not great, he says, and "I can conceive of no reason, other than sentiment, why either Great Britain or France should want to hold on to them, unless they regard them as useful for military operations in case of war against us. If that is the reason for holding them, then the reason is all the stronger why we should want them transferred to us."

The remainder of the indebtedness could be liquidated, Mr. McAdoo argues, by the acceptance by the United States of "stocks and bonds in railways, steamships, telephone and telegraph companies, in manufacturing concerns, and other enterprises in their respective countries or colonies, or in foreign countries, and also real estate in some of their large cities. . . ."

"If a settlement of this character could be effected," he says, "the United States would then have an interest in British, French, and Italian industries. The debts would cease to be debts and become investments."

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN FEATURE OF WEEK TO END NEXT SATURDAY

The thirteenth annual observance of National Book week starts tomorrow, and Chicago will join the rest of the country in paying special attention to books for young people. Bookstores, libraries, and schools will participate, and pageants, exhibits, puppet shows, and book talks will preach the gospel of good reading for the leisure hour.

The Chicago public library will observe the week by specially prepared exhibits both at the main library and in the branches, featuring children's classics, beautifully illustrated modern books, picture books, etc., offering suggestions for the selection of books for the home library.

Special story hours will be held throughout the week in branches and reading clubs, Boy Scout, and other organizations incorporating special features in their weekly programs. At the Frederick H. Hild regional branch, daily programs will mark the week, with Elmer and Berta Hader, famous illustrators of many children's books, furnishing a delightful program for the young folks on Thursday afternoon.

The Henry E. Legler regional branch will also offer a special treat to its young patrons on Tuesday afternoon in the presence of Eunice Tietjens, well known Chicago poet and author of several outstanding and popular children's books. Mrs. Tietjens has recently returned from the South Sea islands and will tell something of the sources of her latest book, "Boy of the South Seas."

Tropic Jungles' Dangers Recited by Bob Becker

"Land of the Takatu" Is Among New Books.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

(Director of children's work for branches of the Chicago public library.)

"Land of the Takatu," by Bob Becker [Reilly & Lee].

"Boy of the South Seas," by Eunice Tietjens [Coward-McCann].

"Zeke," by M. W. Ovington [Harcourt Brace].

NEXT week is National Book Week and quite in conformity with the theme, "Round the World Book Fair," the slogan adopted this year for emphasis, are a number of stories of other lands appearing on the fall lists of new juveniles.

Among them are two contributions by Chicago authors.

"Land of the Takatu," by Bob Becker, is a tale of action and adventure which very readily will make its way into the favor of all those who like thrills and hazards, for there are plenty of both in this story of the Brazilian jungle. The story is woven about the expedition of Grant Dailey, naturalist, and three Boy Scouts, who on a quest for birds for the Pan-American museum penetrate into the unknown jungle beyond the Amazon, winning thereby the enmity of the Indians who have guarded it from the white man, and barely escaping with their lives.

Adventure lovers will thrill at the first meeting of the little party with the Macashe Indians, the effectiveness of the white man's "magic," the jungle terrors which stalk unseen through the darkness. The story is based on fact, for the author himself as field naturalist for the Field museum of Chicago is well acquainted with the country he describes. Mr. Becker is also a member of the executive board of Chicago Council of Boy Scouts, president of the National Outdoor Writers' association, and for the last ten years a writer on outdoor subjects for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"Boy of the South Seas" is by Eunice Tietjens, a Chicago author who needs no introduction to those who are familiar with outstanding offerings in the juvenile field in the last few years. This, too, is a story based on fact, for Mrs. Tietjens has but recently returned from a trip to the South Seas and gives us a picture of life among the islanders that reflects a sympathetic understanding of them.

Teiki, the young Polynesian lad, is a real character with whom the reader sorrows in his loneliness and rejoices in his good luck. Eager to assist those who had befriended him and misled by the shortsightedness and impetuosity of youth, he comes close to the brink of disaster, but fate saves him and the experience teaches him a lesson he never forgets. His relationship with the old hermit carver and his emergence into a new future by way of his own love of beauty as expressed in his carvings is a beautiful episode of the story which leaves one happy in the consciousness that the loyalty and idealism of youth know neither color nor race.

The third book on our list today is a story of the American Negro youth and his struggle for advancement, a story marked by excellent character delineation not only so far as the hero himself is concerned, but also as regards other outstanding characters in the book and by a sincerity and dignity of the portrayal of a people which merits attention.

It is a well written and realistic account of young Ezekiel Lee of Alabama and his life as a student at Tolliver institute, a school modeled on Tuskegee from which one imagines the author drew many of her facts. Zeke is a timid country boy who at first finds himself quite disheartened and lonely amid the chaffing pranks of his school fellows, but who because of his ambition perseveres and finds himself "in step" as the school director said at the end of his first term.

Macadam Trail Tells New Story of Trek Across This Continent

Bus riders, motorists in general and even the Pullman and day coach traveler will revel in "The Macadam Trail," by Mary Day Winn [Knopf], a gay and buoyantly written 10,000 mile gasoline Odyssey which covered the United States of America from coast to coast. This delightful travel volume has the added charm of really lovely illustrations by E. H. Suydam, who accompanied the author most of the way.

Miss Winn ambled along the high ways—so far as anyone can amble in a fast moving bus—making many stops and picking up worthwhile information about people and their history; and then, like the good newspaperwoman that she is, retelling it so charmingly and with so much gusto, humor and human interest that the reader learns more than he probably ever would making the trip alone.

Miss Winn's route was from St. Louis to St. Louis in a magnificent sweep to the Pacific coast, through the southwest, New Orleans, the Mississippi Gulf coast to Florida; up the Atlantic seaboard to the tip of Cape Cod—Provincetown; then back to the Missouri metropolis. Ten thousand miles by bus! Two-fifths of the world's circumference! A. C.

To the Man Who Knows Its Origin Every Word Presents a Picture

TAXICAB

Taxicab, of course, is an abbreviation of taximeter-cabriolet—a vehicle carrying an instrument for automatically registering the fare. Before the days of the automobile, a cabriolet was a light, two-wheeled, horse-drawn carriage. The name cabriolet is the diminutive of the French cabriole meaning "a leap" like that of a goat, and was applied to this type of carriage because of its light, bounding motion. Cabriole came from the Italian capriola meaning "a somersault," from Latin caper "a he-goat," capra "a she-goat."

PUPILS' DISTRESS SIGNALS BRING PLEA FOR HELP

Gallistel School Has Its Hungry Children.

Contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 3000 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

If there is any distress signal in the human category quite as potent as the cry of a miserable child, the world in general hasn't experienced it. Just such an S O S was answered a couple of days ago by one of the teachers in the Gallistel school, 104th street and Ewing avenue, in the South Chicago steel mills area. She found a little fellow about 5 years old, hunched up in a corner, sobbing hopelessly. He was hungry, he said between sobs.

In no time at all he was taken into the teachers' lunchroom, where a sandwich and a bottle of milk were provided for him. The child was ravenous. He bit off great chunks of the food. His rescuer snatched the sandwich back and cut it into small pieces. A straw was put into the bottle of milk and he hardly stopped to draw a breath until he had drained it.

Girl Faints in School.

In the same school, Eleanor, a girl of 11, became dizzy with hunger and fainted during class one day early this week. She is one of a family of six whose father has only three days work a week. Another student of this school is Matthew, 15, a pale, weak boy whose fondness for and aptitude for music seems destined never to lead to the talents he might develop unless he can rid himself of a predisposition to tuberculosis. His parents are elderly people, unable to work, and the husband of his sister, with dependents of his own, is trying also to provide for Matthew and the old folks, with little success.

Out of 1,540 children in the school, a large proportion are from families that had purchased their own homes and owned them for the last several years previous to the depression. Now with the breadwinners out of work, and completely unaccustomed to charity, the neighborhood is overrun with needy persons whose plight is the harder because they have had no experience in coping with it.

Appeal to Tribune Fund.

When it was found that nearly a hundred children were going without food at noon, the Oddfellows of the district took charge of the situation and opened a temporary lunchroom to handle this emergency. Their hall, half a block from the school, up to now has been utilized with its equipment; members of the organization became volunteer workers, preparing and serving the food as well as soliciting it from the merchants of the vicinity. But they gave notice the other day that they could no longer carry it under the present plan, and appealed to the Hungry School Children's fund to finance the free lunches in the future.

In the face of such conditions as outlined above, the principal of another, nearby school said of the Gallistel institution, "Why, after all, that's the silk stocking school of this district."

Yesterday's receipts to help feed the needy youngsters were:

C. L. Schneider, branch manager of the Fruehauf Trailer company of Detroit, wrote inclosing a check for $100 with this explanation: "We have some new men in our organization and in order to stimulate interest and enthusiasm our factory set up a quota contest for October, the winning sales division to take a prize of $100, to be used for a party for the individual salesmen and their wives. In spite of the fact that our boys were mostly new men and were competing with territories throughout the country, they came out on top, and the inclosed check is the result. They unanimously decided they would prefer, instead of having a party, to send the money to this fund."

SECRETARY HURLEY PLEDGES SPEEDING OF WATERWAY WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley today conveyed to Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] his and the administration's pledge to bend every effort toward speeding up the completion of the Illinois waterway.

SENATOR OTIS F. GLENN.

Speaking for himself and for a group of Chicagoans interested in seeing the waterway completed by the fall of 1932, Senator Glenn recently called on President Hoover and Secretary Hurley to urge an acceleration of the work, not only in order that water traffic might be inaugurated the sooner, but particularly as a means of furnishing employment to the jobless during the coming winter.

Mr. Hurley's answer today followed a study of means for rushing the project along and was an assurance that the war department, in whose sphere federal work on all waterways belongs, would do its utmost to push the project.

One objection which has been raised against a faster schedule has been that of costs. At the present rate of work, which calls for the project to be finished in the spring of 1933, the $7,500,000 appropriated by congress probably would be exhausted. It is thought that extending the work to be done this winter may somewhat increase the cost. Should investigation reveal that this will do so, Secretary Hurley said, the war department will recommend an additional appropriation to congress.

U. S. RESCUE SHIP REACHES COLON WITH CASTAWAYS

COLON, Panama, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Eleven haggard survivors of the schooner Baden Baden, who were alternately drenched by rain and baked by the sun while their open lifeboat tossed on the stormy Caribbean for three days, arrived here tonight on the U. S. S. Swan.

Capt. Hewitt Walters of Mobile, Ala., who was badly injured by a falling timber as he sought to escape from the sinking schooner, came off on a stretcher and was carried to Colon hospital. His back was bruised from neck to waist, two ribs were broken and it was feared he might be suffering from internal injuries. The rest of the castaways, wearing uniforms of the United States navy given to them by their rescuers, herded on the deck, smoking sailors' cigarets and chatting among themselves.

When the Swan was sighted beyond the Colon breakwater tonight the members of the crew were even more tired than the men they had rescued. They had had a hard trip. From the time they departed Wednesday until their return, they had no accurate bearings because of the murky weather. The return voyage was through heavy seas and the Swan steamed slowly into the harbor, with her searchlight playing through the rain and mist.

CONFER TODAY ON WINKLER OFFER TO RETURN LOOT

County Attorney Max Towle of Lincoln, Neb., will arrive in Chicago this morning to confer with Alexander G. Jamie, chief investigator for the Secret Six, on the offer of Gus Winkler, indicted for bank robbery, who has offered to return $100,000 in stolen securities in exchange for dismissal of the charges against him. Winkler also offers to supply proof that the remainder of $2,500,000 securities, stolen from a Lincoln bank, have been destroyed.

Dispatches from Lincoln yesterday quoted Towle as saying that he would not bargain with Winkler, now believed in Chicago, but would go to a New York state village to investigate Winkler's claims that he was there on the day of the robbery. If the alibi stands, said Towle, he will dismiss the charges against Winkler.

MACDONALD ASKS INDIANS TO LET HIM SETTLE ROW

Urges Quarreling Factions to Make Him Arbiter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The success or failure of the round table conference on India still hangs in the balance. Which way the scales will go is to be determined at least by the end of next week, for by that time the conference will be over.

Prime Minister MacDonald, at today's meeting of the minorities committee, did not lay down the law to the Indians, as had been forecast, but announced he would do so at the final plenary session, arranged for next Wednesday. He took a bold course, however, by asking the delegates to sign a document urging him to act as arbitrator in the racial and religious quarrel and agreeing to abide by the decision. Several delegates agreed immediately, while others were silent.

MacDonald Suits Gandhi.

Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, said nothing, but it is understood that he is willing to accept Mr. MacDonald as an arbitrator. Gandhi has also gone a step further. In an interview with the prime minister he urged him to establish provincial autonomy at once, leaving the federal constitution to be settled later.

Gandhi's plan is to have the provincial councils elect delegates to the constitutional convention which would frame the constitution of India. In this way Gandhi believes that he can secure the framing of the Indian constitution by Indians alone, and thereby dodge the troublesome communal question.

There was a sharp clash at today's session, and when Mr. McDonald announced that he had been told that the signatories to the communal agreement between the Moslems and the depressed classes, arrived at last night, represented 46 per cent of the inhabitants of India, Gandhi declared this was absurd because the All-India congress, which he represented, contained 85 per cent of the Indian masses.

Self-Rule Pledge Still Holds.

Mr. MacDonald opened his speech by stating that he regretted the committee had failed to reach a full agreement on the question of minorities, but declared that the British government is still determined to carry out the promise of granting self-government to India. He said he proposed to make a full statement of the government's intention at the final plenary session.

Gandhi appealed against any special safeguards for the "untouchables," who would thus be declared "frozen by perpetual bar sinister." He declared that he was the real leader of the "untouchables" and repudiated the right of any one else to speak for them.

Their future, he declared, was an integral part of the Hindu community. The minorities' scheme, he added, was not a democracy but a bureaucracy.

Negotiations are now going on between the different groups to prevent a complete breakdown, and to gain time so that the Indians may reach an agreement and thus win the right to frame their own constitution. If they do not, it will be imposed upon them by the British government.

REPORTS INCOME OF SIX MILLIONS TO WORLD'S FAIR

Dawes Tells of Demand for Rental Space.

Income of $6,322,234.14 for the 1933 World's Fair, a Century of Progress, and expenditures of $4,611,092.53 since the association was organized nearly four years ago, were itemized in a financial statement submitted to the trustees yesterday.

The statement set forth that efforts to rent space for the exposition began in May, 1931, and that nearly 50 per cent of the renters have paid in advance, to secure a discount. In addition to the space rented, several large concerns have contracted to erect separate buildings, in harmony with the general architectural plans, and these call for expenditures of more than $1,250,000, the statement said. A total of $3,000,000 is expected from rented space.

Gives Plans for Buildings.

"The sum remaining in our hands," said the statement, "is about $1,000,000, which is sufficient to meet our contractual obligations. When these contracts are completed, we shall have our administration building, Fort Dearborn, the Travel and Transport building, the Hall of Science, the Electrical building, the Radio building and the Communications building, and, as a result of other agreements, the General Motors building and several other buildings of private corporations."

The statement, issued by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the association, discloses that only $2,750,000 of the $10,000,000 issue of guaranteed gold notes, secured by 40 per cent of the gate receipts, remain to be sold, the others having been paid or subscribed for.

List Sources of Income.

Sources of income are itemized in the statement as follows:

Sale of founder memberships..$	770,000.00
Sale of sustaining memberships	1,750.00
Sale of $5 certificates to World's Fair Legion............	392,421.50
Interest and miscellaneous........	51,810.29
Fort Dearborn admissions......	71,162.61
Cash in adv. for space rentals	372,110.00
Sale of gold notes...............	4,712,000.00
Total	$6,322,234.14

"The guaranteed gold note issue, secured by 40 per cent of the gate receipts in the authorized amount of $10,000,000," said the statement, "was guaranteed as to its payment by $12,178,000 in individual guarantees. Of the $10,000,000 gold notes, $4,525,000 have been subscribed to by the guarantors themselves, and the calls for payment as made from time to time have been promptly met. The balance remaining to be paid on these subscriptions amounts to about $1,000,000. Subscriptions by non-guarantors amounting to $725,000 have also been received."

The statement said that a total of $2,525,000 had been subscribed to, but not called for payment, and that $2,750,000 were unsold.

GENERAL UNREST IN CHILE CAUSES CABINET SHAKEUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 13.—A cabinet shakeup took place today as a result of student riots, the lack of funds to pay salaries of public employés, and a general attack against the government's bill to check free expressions of public opinion regarding governmental proceedings. Santiago Wilson, social welfare minister, and Finance Minister Arturo Prat have resigned. It is understood the entire cabinet will resign tomorrow.

KEEPS BIRTHDAY THAT NOVELIST SHARED WITH HER

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Forty years ago Robert Louis Stevenson heard of a little girl who had the misfortune to be born on Christmas, and so found two celebrations inextricably bound up as one. Very formally, with legal phrases, a seal and two duly certified witnesses, he turned over his own birthday to her, to be enjoyed "in the customary manner." Today, which would have been Stevenson's eighty-first, she was doing so, just as she has ever since he made the gift.

She is Mrs. Annie Ide Cockran, the widow of Representative W. Bourke Cockran. Tonight she held a small birthday dinner party at her home at 1136 Fifth avenue.

When he transferred his day to her on Nov. 13, 1891, Stevenson insisted that it be duly celebrated. Since then, when Nov. 13 of each year came around, Mrs. Cockran has always held a party of some sort.

BULK

to gently promote normal elimination

IRON

to tone the intestinal tract

All of these are brought to you in one serving of Kellogg's All-Bran

IF YOU suffer from temporary or recurring constipation, you need Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Millions of people in the past ten years have found it the safe, pleasant way to promote natural elimination. Thousands of physicians have prescribed it.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is valuable because it helps you to get just the right quantity and quality of bulk to exercise the intestines and eliminate waste.

That is only one of the benefits of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Recent scientific tests also show that it contains Vitamin B, which tones up the intestinal tract; and is rich in the iron that helps to build rich, red blood. It has been established that there is twice as much iron in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as in a similar amount by weight of beef liver.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has a shredded appearance when you see it in the package, but it does not remain that way in the system. It absorbs a great quantity of moisture and becomes a soft mass which clears out the wastes in the intestines. Its "bulk" is much like the fiber in lettuce, spinach and other leafy vegetables—only it is concentrated in a more convenient form to relieve constipation.

Get a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN today and eat it regularly for a week. It is better for you than violent, habit-forming drugs or pills because it does its work in a gentle, natural way. That is why it helps to keep you fit.

Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily is usually all you need to relieve and prevent temporary and recurring constipation . . . for more stubborn cases, eat it with each meal. If you have serious intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your physician.

Be sure you get Kellogg's because it is the original cooked, krumbled ALL-BRAN. By looking for the name Kellogg's on the red-and-green package you know you are getting bran in exactly the right form . . . the bran that gives bulk enriched with iron and Vitamin B. Use it as a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream or in cooking. Delicious recipes are printed on the package.

Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sun Chasing Autos Bring Welcome Business.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—This city in a mountain pass, as Gen. Grant well knew, is a vital link in the union of the central west with the south. It was thus in colonial times when civilization was migrating westward from the Atlantic coast, it was thus in the civil war, the site of prolonged and costly campaigns, and it is thus today, when long distance automobile travel is making the Chicago carpenter acquainted with the Georgia cotton picker.

Chattanooga is on the recommended motor route between Chicagoland and Florida, and the annual trek southward has begun. The Yankees are arriving in battered old models, overloaded with luggage, and but few expensive cars were seen being chauffeured over the mountain pass.

Hospitality Less Expensive.

The invaders are not meeting the resistance that General Grant encountered. Although this city of 120,000 population is an important manufacturing center, yet the tourist trade is rated as one of the community's largest industries, and the local business men, from bankers to garage hands, are welcoming the season revival of this trade, as shown by the number of foreign license plates on the streets.

Negro bell boys, on the curb in front of the hotels looking for customers, greeted the green and black license on THE TRIBUNE road car as if it were the Stars and Stripes come to set them free. There was service with a smile; the purchasing power of the customary tip has increased as the number of tips have decreased, following the general economic trend. And the famous southern hospitality is not as expensive as it was before the boom broke. An accommodating acquaintance, for example, reported that $4 a quart is the present price of what cost $6 a quart a year ago.

Tourist Showplace.

Lookout mountain, of military importance in civil war history, is now a tourist showplace. The Chickamauga battlefield is a national park with tablets, monuments and labeled cannon telling of this costly engagement. Missionary Ridge, to the south of the city, likewise has many markers of details in its important conflict. Highway U. S. 41, which can be picked up at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard, 656 miles from here, passes through the ridge in a vehicular tunnel.

Most of the vanguard of the snow dodging motorists, however, are finding that the natural scenery, the wooded mountains in late fall colors, is a far greater attraction than historical reminiscence and tradesman ballyhoo the scenery in preference to the battlefields. Gorges and precipices present splashes of color like a Titan garden of variegated chrysanthemums. Those who wait for the fashionable social season before coming south will find these trees naked of leaves.

It's a two day drive here from Chicago. Through a corner of Georgia to Lake City, Fla., is another day, 437 miles. From Lake City to Palm Beach, for example, is 350 miles.

Victor Berard, French Senator, Dies at Age of 67

C. C. DAVIS PAST HIGH PRIEST OF ROYAL ARCH MASONS DIES AT 76

Centralia, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Charles Clarke Davis, 76, past general grand high priest of the Royal Arch Masons of North America, will be conducted here at 2:30 p. m. Monday. He also was an Elk and a Rotarian.

Mr. Davis, who died at 7:30 p. m. yesterday was born in Belleville, Ill., April 2, 1855 and had been a resident of Centralia for 75 years. He formerly was an alderman and had been identified with the business life of the city since early manhood. He was interested in coal mining and a director and officer of the old National Bank of Centralia. Before becoming identified with the coal and banking industries, he was for many years an Illinois Central railroad passenger conductor, but retired in 1893.

Mr. Davis made several trips to Mexico and Canada in the interest of masonry during his terms of office.

Besides his residence here he maintained a summer home in Sturgeon, Wis., and a winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla.

RADICAL CHOICE TAKES LEAD IN ARGENTINE VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 13.—An outstanding feature as the counting of votes in Sunday's presidential election began today is the fact that the radical electorate paid no heed to their party leaders' instructions to abstain entirely from the election, in which the radicals had no candidates.

Figures after the first day's count—the entire count will occupy more than 20 days—show that the radicals polled solidly in favor of Lisandro de la Torre. This, observers declare, was not because they have much use for the man, who always bitterly opposed Hipolito Yrigoyen, former radical president, but because they viewed Augustin P. Justo, the other presidential candidate, as José Uriburu's henchman. Uriburu is Argentina's provisional president.

De La Torre is expected to carry the federal capital. The final result, however, will be determined in the provinces.

GEORGIA PASTOR, FOE OF CANNON, SUSPENDED 1 YEAR

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Rev. Rembert G. Smith, D. D., of Sparta, Ga., tonight was found guilty on two counts of an undetermined number of charges on which he had been tried before the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and was suspended from the ministry for one year.

The two counts upon which Dr. Smith was found guilty charged him with "gross imprudence and unministerial conduct."

He was acquitted of other charges described as "very serious." The list of charges will not be made public.

Dr. Smith, in May, 1930, at the general conference at Dallas, Tex., preferred charges against Bishop James Cannon Jr. for political activity in the presidential campaign of 1928. The conference, however, declined to punish the bishop. More recently Dr. Smith again criticized the bishop for his activities outside of church work.

BOMB DAMAGES TRUCK; ARREST BUSINESS RIVAL

A bomb was exploded last night beneath a truck in the rear yard of the home of Charles Knapp at 916 Forest avenue, Waukegan, damaging the vehicle and windows in the home. Knapp is a garbage collector and told police the attack was prompted by business rivalry.

Early this morning he obtained two warrants, one charging intimidation and the other destruction of property by explosives, against William E. Larson, operator of the North Shore Garbage company of Waukegan, a rival concern. The intimidation warrant was later served on Larson, the other being withheld. Larson denied having threatened Knapp and also denied the bombing. Knapp asserted Larson had told him yesterday he would get into trouble if he took any more customers away.

CHICAGO PAYS HIGH PRICE FOR TRAFFIC SIGNS

Cost Is Much Lower in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee is installing stop signs, stop and go lights, safety islands and street car loading platforms for a fraction of what this equipment is costing Chicago, according to a comparison of the figures.

Just before Mayor Cermak took office, Chicago contracted with the Welsbach Signal corporation to buy 600 battery flashing traffic signs at $148.75 each with an additional charge of $32.94 a piece per year for inspection, service, and replacements.

Milwaukee Cost Averages $20.

In Milwaukee, Howard F. Ilgner, superintendent of electrical service, estimated that the average cost of that city's stop signs is $20 a piece and their maintenance virtually nothing. This is the cost installed of a 24 inch octagonal yellow and black sign with the word "stop" illuminated at night by reflector buttons. The sign is mounted on a two inch pipe set in concrete.

As for the relative merits of the battery and reflector type of illumination for stop signs, the Milwaukee safety commission has made exhaustive studies with a conclusion that the reflected light of a headlight has better visibility than the battery lamps. Detroit also favors the reflector, but there are arguments on both sides of this question.

Complain of Island Lights.

The center islands on Lief Ericson drive, where a number of motorists have been killed in smashups and many cars have been wrecked, are being duplicated on North Ashland avenue at a cost ranging from $300 to $347.50. They consist of a substantial concrete buttress about knee high—substantial enough to suffer little damage when crushing an automobile. Above the buttress are red lights which, motorists complain, are easily confused at night with the tail lights of moving cars. Above this is a heavy concrete post with a glass bowl lamp on top.

Milwaukee is building additional safety islands, of a different type, at a cost of $135 when installed with new pavements and $175 when installed on existing pavement. The typical design is a concrete platform five feet wide and eighteen feet long elevated about five inches from the pavement and illuminated on the four corners. According to B. L. Corbett, secretary of the Milwaukee safety council, there has never been a pedestrian nor a motorist injured on one of these islands. They have been in use since 1929.

Safe Trolley Loading Platforms.

Chicago is building street car loading platforms, such as those being put in Chicago avenue, at an average cost of $420 each. They consist of concrete elevated platforms with the ends protected by buttresses described by Mr. Corbett as "murder traps" because of the result when one is accidentally struck by an automobile. There are flashing light signals at the ends and there is illumination from overhead.

Milwaukee installs elevated and illuminated street car loading platforms at a cost of $180 when built with new pavement and of $234 when built on old pavement. They do not have the overhead illumination nor the buttress ends but there has never been an injury to pedestrian nor to motorist on one of these islands, according to the safety commission.

Milwaukee Cost Lower.

In Chicago an intersection with four two-way red and green light signals, installed with control equipment, costs an average of $2,311.20. In Milwaukee, the city assembles its own equipment and the cost, according to the city electrician, is approximately $1,000 per intersection.

With the exception of the stop and go lights the purchase of this street equipment in Chicago comes out of the vehicle tax fund, a tax originally intended for street repairs only. A bond issue for stop and go lights was recently voted.

VETERAN OF I. H. C. AND WIFE DIE IN ELEVATOR CRASH

J. B. Moulton, 60 years old, retired European comptroller of the International Harvester company, and his wife, Frances, 54, were fatally injured yesterday in an elevator accident in the Fleur de Lis apartment building in Los Angeles, where they lived.

The accident followed a fire scare. The Moultons with other residents, abandoned their suites. The scare over, they entered the lift to return. At the fourth floor the elevator safety rope snapped, dropping the lift to the basement. The rope, investigation showed, had been burned through. Mr. Moulton died shortly after the accident, and his wife died an hour later.

Mr. Moulton was known to many Chicago industrial men. He was connected with the Harvester company for nearly forty years, a large share of that time as European comptroller, with offices at Hamburg and Brussels. He retired about five years ago. Early last month Mr. Moulton and his wife stopped in Chicago, and proceeded to the west coast to make their home. A son, Harold, said to be an actor, lives in New York.

FISHER TO SEEK MORE JUDGES FOR CRIMINAL CASES

Crowded Docket Delays Trials.

Inability of judges in the Criminal court to grant the speedy trials asked by prosecutors in two cases, together with the fact that he and two other judges of the court expect to be busy for weeks in hearing the sanitary district graft conspiracy case, led Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher to announce yesterday that he would request assignment of two or more additional judges to hear criminal calls.

JUDGE HARRY FISHER.

The extra judges will be necessary, he said, if the court is to give speedy hearings to a number of important indictments against officials of closed banks in Cook county.

Bank Trial Is Delayed.

One of the cases in which an immediate trial was asked and refused yesterday because of the crowded trial call of the judge involved was that of Charles J. Wolf, former president of the defunct Citizens' Trust and Savings bank of Melrose Park. Wolf, who was also formerly president of the village, is charged with embezzlement of $58,000 from the bank in the indictment, but prosecutors assert that the total of his defalcations was close to $200,000.

Judge Walter T. Stanton yesterday overruled a motion to quash the indictment. Prosecutor Henry Ayers asked an immediate trial. He gave as his reason the fact that the state's principal witness, Edmund H. Gloss, who succeeded Wolf as president of the bank, has been subjected to intimidation and for a time disappeared as a result of threats against his life.

Judge Stanton replied that his call is already so crowded that he would be unable to hear the case before Dec. 1, on which date he set it.

His crowded call also led Judge Stanton to refuse an early trial sought by prosecutors for Joseph Siegel and Leroy Rapp, arrested last week as they were in the act of placing a dynamite bomb on the roof of a bakery.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

IRMA HEARS THE TRUTH.

"You're unkind and damn frank, Bill. I don't rate all this yowling you're going to do just because you've been a good friend. I'll bother to answer you. Anything I've ever done to Martin gives you cause for this. I'm a good mother."

"The hell you are."

"What!" Irma was thunderstruck. Here was somebody who actually believed that she was a good mother. The idea shocked her. She listened to Bill, almost paralyzed, to his accusations.

"That kid of yours is a boy. He likes to climb and jump and play games. May be? O, no. That would worry mother. Mother places him on a bit of lawn in Central park or in the Bois and there he is perfectly safe with his very correct nurse. Is he having a good time? To hell with that. But mother's having a good time. As long as he's safe mother's in all the high spots. Let the kid grow up like a nance, a snob or an invert. What difference does it make so long as mother's mind has been at ease?

"Oh, don't be ridiculous."

"Ridiculous nothing. I've thought you over, Irma, and I've talked to you, to Wallace and to the baby so I know you—and how! You ought to be ashamed at the idea of how well I know you."

"Oh, no. I've been good to my child."

"Good, baby. That kid didn't know anything but girl's games when I got him on the boat. You don't love him enough to bear a moment's worry when he slides down a bannister, learns to ride a bike or do any of the things that help him find out whether he's a coward or not. You're just plain jealous."

"In your way of thinking, perhaps," she said stiffly. "My child has been nothing to me. If you remember I never cared about raising any of yours and I shouldn't be alarmed. Let's drop the subject, Bill."

"All right. I guess I better before I start on how you treated Mildred and Wallace just to prove that you're selfish."

Irma laughed weakly. "I wouldn't take from a state trooper what I've taken from you today. If you hadn't been a decent fellow in the old days I'd have cursed you after your first speech."

"But you didn't and what a licking you took, baby. It had to hurt more than it's all wool and a yard wide. The truth about Irma Graham in one easy lesson."

"Oh, Bill. I didn't want to fight with you. Let's talk about something else or other."

"What do you and Martin start being pent up in the pent house again?"

"We're going to New York tonight."

"O, then I won't see you again?"

"Guess not. You'll be glad probably. Somehow or other you've learned to hate me."

"No, Irma, but I've learned to like your kid."

Martin and Irma did not leave Thraoe that night. Wallace had left a note suggesting that Irma stay over one more day. He had promised to go with Martin to the new Chaplin picture. The next day would be Saturday. Wallace's only day to make good his promise."

"You know, Irma," the note read, "when you don't know how long it's going to be before fate permits you another look at your son, it's tough to see him leave, remembering that you broke a promise."

At this thought sudden tears in Irma's eyes. Nobody could help loving Martin. Certainly Wallace could have the child for the day. By the way where was the child?

At the question Mildred waved a vague hand toward the door. "He's out somewhere with the Tompkins' children," she said.

"How do you know? When did you see him last?"

"About an hour ago. He came in to get some redcurochrome on his nose. He stopped it." Mildred laughed at Irma's worried face and continued, "Oh, all right, madame, I have wash it first very thoroughly and do you think I'd call the doctor?"

Irma went outdoors. The shouts of children at play drew her through the grass and across a narrow little brook to a clearing spot surrounded by a circle of tall trees. There Martin stood in the middle of several children. He was not playing. He was watching them at their babyish imitation of a bigger boys' game of marbles. Fresh from Bill's nauseating discourse she understood at once why Martin stood by. He did not know how to play marbles. Also it was a shock to see how much smaller and slimmer he was than the others.

"Darling," she came toward him, "what did you do to your knee?"

A boy of five or six answered her, "I was putting him up in a tree and he cut himself."

"That was very naughty of you," Irma remonstrated. "Martin might have fallen and hurt himself badly."

"He could 'a' flung on," the little boy said.

"Why don't you show him how to play marbles?" Irma asked.

"O, I don't know." The little boy turned away. "Well, maybe." With a mother's wave of charitableness.

Irma left when Martin was smiling and happy. He was learning marbles. Irma had promised his instructor fifty marbles in payment. She walked briskly back toward the house with her chin up and her heart pounding. She didn't know boys' games, but on the other hand he didn't get measles and whit fever and what not all just because some other boy got it. That was something.

Mildred plainly was in a conversational mood when Irma returned, but it was impossible to stay in the house knowing that Martin was outdoors without adult care. Presently Irma walked back to the tree circled play space. Martin met her with annoyance. "Go 'way, mommy." He pushed her with his small hands.

"Mommy's got to watch you, dear."

The marble instructor looked up at her wonderingly. "Why?" he asked. "What does he do if you ain't here?"

She did not answer the little boy because she could think of no answer that would satisfy him—or that would satisfy Mildred or Bill Fitzroy.

Martin dressed in one of his nicest little French suits went out with Wallace next day. From an upstairs window Irma saw them depart. She was surprised to note that Wallace looked exactly the same. She had thought that he'd look older looking. Evidently nothing had worried or disturbed him in the absence. He had a new car, too. Well, why not? No one but himself to support for two years. Aunt Tessie cost practically nothing to keep.

It made her smile to see Martin pull the gear shift into first speed with the slightest aid from Wallace. She felt a sudden pang of regret that she must tear the baby from one who thought of such amusing little things as how to do. If Wallace had shown an interest in the baby in those other days perhaps things would have been different. But then the baby wouldn't have an exquisite nursery filled with toys nor would he have the other things that children must desire. Now he had them. She had gotten them for him. It made her proud to know that she had gone forth and gotten for her son everything that he wanted in life. Surely the fact that her kid had more than almost any other child alive proved the fallacy of Bill's argument that she was selfish.

When Wallace and Martin had passed beyond her vision she went to the empty bare nursery and began to pack Martin's belongings. It was a sort, easy task as Mildred had put all his things in one place. So soon as she finished that the afternoon seemed very long and empty. Mildred had gone to her charity work. The quietness of the large, old house was depressing. Irma fell to thinking disturbing thoughts. Certainly Martin had been gone a very long while. Had she let Wallace kidnap the child as a result of suspicion she had let Mildred slope on that day two years before?

Certainly Wallace wouldn't do such a thing. It was no comfort to recall that Bill Fitzroy would be Wallace's enthusiastic ally. Somehow she had lost Bill's support. Where was the baby?

When the car drove up at last she forgot all self-consciousness about meeting Wallace so eager was she to take Martin from him.

She flung open the door and met Wallace on the doorsteps.

Good morning!

"Where," you've been asking, "IS George Bancroft?" "Isn't George Bancroft going to make any more movies?" "If not, why not—" and so on ad infinitum.

Well, said she is reply, Mr. Bancroft has been right out in Hollywood where, having plenty of money, he greatly enjoys life. He IS going to make more pictures—but only two a year, I understand, insisting on giving his admirers quality rather than quantity.

Good idea?

"Rich Man's Folly" has quality. A fine, thoughtful story is faultlessly presented by a splendid cast, headed, of course, by Mr. Bancroft, who never did anything better than this characterization of hard, one-track-minded, lonely Trumbull, which is a decided departure from any rôle he has played before.

Brock Trumbull is an American shipbuilder, whose life is wrapped up in his business, and whose most passionate wish is for a son to work with him and carry on the Trumbull traditions after he is gone. His quiet wife dies shortly in giving birth to the boy, who, apparently is all her husband has ever really wanted from her. And Trumbull is left with this treasure and the silly, wistful little girl who had been his first born.

A wonderful child—Dawn O'Day—plays Anne when first you meet her. I think I have never seen such a sensitive performance by one so young. She pulls your heart to pieces—the thin, lonely, frightened, brave little thing! What CAN she have gone through in real life, you wonder, to give her such understanding of the character she portrays?

The children grow older—and the gentle Anne adores and cares for her fragile little brother, remaining always in the background of her father's life and affections.

There comes a day when Trumbull's cherished hopes and plans are mowed down by the Grim Reaper. Then——? See the photoplay.

It's a sad picture, but a beautiful, suspenseful, compelling one. Everybody in the cast enlists your sympathy. It's one of those productions where you feel you simply can't WAIT to see how things turn out.

The finale is preceded by a crashing, dramatic episode that makes your hair stand on end.

Direction is superfine. Dialogue is moving and believable, and there's some beautiful, beautiful photography!

Frances Dee, as Anne grown up, establishes herself as an actress of parts. David Durand is adorable as the little brother, and Robert Ames is nice in a sort of Daddy Long Legs rôle.

You should like "Rich Man's Folly" well enough to want to sit through it twice.

Handkerchiefs are being freely used over at the State-Lake as "Are These Our Children?" probably the best younger generation jazz picture to be produced, unreels.

Where ARE your children when they're not in school? Do you know?

Hard to believe that speakeasies, questionable flats, and all night cruising taxis may swallow them up to disgorge them in the wee sma' hours drunken, disheveled, irresponsible; the dewy freshness of youth forever dissipated. But we know that such places do exist, and that high school boys and girls have been known to frequent them. We know that under the influence of liquor murders have been committed by veritable babes in arms. This we know. So did Wesley Ruggles who wrote and directed this movie.

He takes a high school boy of good, middle class family, in love with a nice girl, and shows what CAN happen to such a lad in this age of ours.

Eric Linden does a nice job as Eddie, who loses an oratorical contest which he had banked on winning, cracks up, and, "to forget," starts living his "own life" with a fast school bunch with whom he'd never trained before. Eddie is foolish, ornery, smart, lovable, and possessed of a monstrous conceit that doesn't desert him till . . . ? The last reel of the picture springs a genuine surprise in the way of a courtroom scene.

There are several laughs in "Are These Our Children?"—if you can see anything funny about a drunken boy or girl. The entire cast, composed almost entirely of young folks, is an excellent one, lines are honest, and the film is technically splendid.

Mr. Ruggles sure stepped on the gas when he made this opus! It gets you.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Thousands of women flocked to THE TRIBUNE School of Cookery yesterday to make the most of the last hours of the north side session at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue.

Last night workmen packed the shining kitchen sink, the green and cream cabinets, the white refrigerators and porcelain topped table, the salmon and cream walls with their frilly curtains at the windows, and moved to Guyon's Paradise. The school for west side women will open there on Tuesday.

So eager were the women to attend the final class that many of them remained at the entrance throughout the afternoon hoping to gain admittance. The ballroom, however, had been filled early, extra chairs had been placed wherever the fire regulations permitted, but many were unable to find a place.

Well above 5,000 applauded Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, nationally known food expert, who conducts the school in coöperation with Mary Meade, TRIBUNE home economics editor.

The recipe that received probably the greatest acclaim of the women was the poinsettia sandwich loaf. With this recipe, Mrs. Chitwood's black-eyed susan salad and her special recipe for making coffee, the women were provided with attractive menu for a luncheon or bridge.

"This isn't an ordinary sandwich," Mrs. Chitwood began. "When you finish this sandwich, you have a work of art even to the poinsettia decoration, or daisies if you prefer.

"You remove the crusts from a loaf of unsliced bread, as we did yesterday for the chicken a la king toasted baskets. With a sharp knife cut lengthwise into slices a half inch thick. There should be at least four slices. Then mix a can a salmon, a teaspoon of finely chopped onion—or olives if you are having company—and two hard cooked eggs. Moisten this with salad dressing. Place a slice of bread on a tray and spread with butter or margarine, then a layer of salmon until all the slices have been used. Ice over with a mixture of cheese blended with cream or mayonnaise.

"Now for the decoration, which, class, is a most important item in sandwiches. All sandwiches should be attractive. So I'm going to use this nice red pimento. From the large end

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Call a lamb's tail a leg and how many legs has the lamb? "Five," answers the naïve lad. "O, no," says the smug fellow, "calling the lamb's tail a leg does not make it one. Call it anything you like, but the lamb still has four legs."

Call a one bid a heart, spade, diamond or club, or no-trump—in fact, you may call it anything you please, and the fact remains that if the bid is properly made it promises a minimum of four tricks.

Take yesterday's play-a-problem:

NORTH

WEST [Dealer]

EAST
♥—A,J,7
♦—K,10,4,3

♥—K,10,9,5,3,2
♦—None
♣—J,10,7,6,4,2

West dealt and bid a diamond. North passed. East's hand is obviously of the no-trump type and will unquestionably play better at that declaration unless his partner is long in either hearts or spades. Certainly West's bid of one diamond does not suggest any major possibility. East's hand counts 15, using the no-trump count.

Now, if West had bid one no-trump instead of one diamond East would have raised the one no-trump to three no-trump. However, West's bid of one diamond promises exactly the same number of tricks as would a bid of one no-trump. It simply shows a different type of distribution. Since East holds a no-trump distribution, and since any low cards that West may have figured on to take tricks with diamonds as trumps will unquestionably take at no-trump since East holds the ♦ K-10 and two small ones, East should bid exactly the same number of no-trump over West's one diamond as he would have bid had West bid one no-trump. Consequently East bid three no-trump. South, West and North passed.

There is very little to cause trouble in the play of the hand. Like the vast majority of game going hands it simply requires care rather than brilliance.

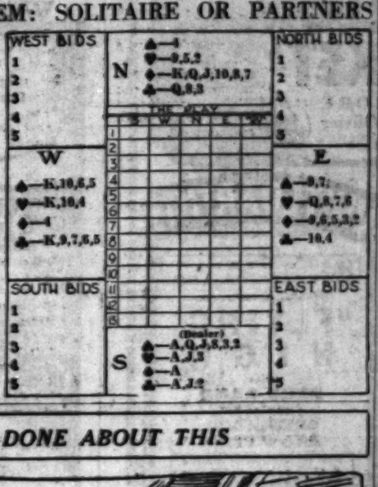

South opened the ♣ 6, dummy played the Q, North the 9 and East the 2. East thereupon set about establishing his one long suit. He led the ♦ Q from dummy, which immediately showed South void. So, on the next round, dummy played the ♦ 2, North the 8 and East the 10. East then led the ♦ K from his own hand and followed by leading the ♦ 4 to dummy's A, clearing the suit. Dummy then led the ♠ 4 toward East's K-J. North put up the A and East the 5 and South the 6. North returned the ♣ 9, which East perforce took in the dummy with the A, the K falling from his own hand. Dummy then led his good ♦ 6, since he never expected to be in again. The next lead was the ♠ 3, which East took with the J. East then led the ♠ K, the ♥ A and finally the ♥ 7. South took this trick with his K and also took the last trick with his good ♣ J.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 2, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

City to House Women Who Lack Homes

Relief Fund Total Now Nearly $6,000,000.

A free lodging house for homeless women will open soon, probably next week, at 5120 South Park way, under the supervision of the city department of public welfare, according to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey.

Mrs. Conkey, who is commissioner of the department, addressed the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's organizations yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. Henry W. Hardy presided.

"Chicago now has only one free lodging house for women and it is governed by religious restrictions," said Mrs. Conkey. "While any one is admitted, she must take part in the religious exercises, which is not acceptable to all women. Indications are that the new lodging home will be greatly in demand.

"The joint emergency relief committee is providing the funds for the city to run this home. All homeless women should apply to the woman's service bureau, just established on the second floor of the State-Lake building. This bureau was formed by the woman's housing committee of the Council of Social Agencies and will act as a clearing house for homeless women, just as that for homeless men operates at 216 South Green street."

The Chicago Woman's club donated $5,000 to maintain the Woman's Service bureau, Mrs. Conkey added. The bureau will send the women to whatever shelter is appropriate, the joint emergency relief committee paying for their board when necessary.

John Keane, superintendent of the Illinois Free Employment service, 114 North Dearborn street, told of the work of that organization in supplying as many jobs as possible to the unemployed. He urged the women to make jobs around their homes, the washing of windows, gardening, raking of leaves, etc., and give them to unemployed men through the Illinois Free Employment service.

The Rev. Johnston Meyers, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, spoke at the same meeting. He said his church was daily feeding 4,000 men, and suggested that still greater efforts be made to do away with hunger.

"A hundred thousand men in Chicago," he declared, "are almost dangerous because they are hungry. If President Hoover hasn't been able to connect our vast food supplies with our hungry people, he has fallen down on the job."

Meanwhile the joint emergency relief fund was swelled by contributions of $106,982, bringing the present total to $5,892,973.

Largest of the subscriptions was that of the Hawthorne race track, $55,852, representing the receipts from the benefit race day at the track on Oct. 22. The check was turned over to Mayor Cermak by John C. Schank, president of the Chicago Business Men's Racing association, and the mayor forwarded it to J. Russell Forgan, chairman of the benefits division of the fund.

Among other large pledges were those of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, $10,000; employes of Clayton Mark & Co., $4,000; Hammond Clock company, $2,750; Construction Materials company, $2,500; employes of J. T. Ryerson & Sons, $6,500; employes of General Electric X-ray corporation, $2,000, that corporation, $1,000; employes of General Electric company, $1,309; that company, $1,145; Nimmons, Carr, & Wright, $1,000; Rathborne, Hair & Ridgeway company and employes, $1,250, and Union Special Machine company, $1,000.

Charles S. Dewey, former financial adviser to the government of Poland, yesterday told President Hoover that Chicago's fund was nearing the $6,000,000 mark, and added his belief that the whole $6,300,000 would be raised before Thanksgiving.

Students of the Versatil Art school in the Woods building have announced they will give a "catnip ball," otherwise an artists' masked ball, in the Chelsea hotel at 920 Wilson avenue, on Nov. 21, the proceeds to go to the emergency relief fund.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Ben Lyon will take the place of the late Robert Williams in the film, "Lady with a Past," for which Williams was rehearsing with Constance Bennett when stricken with his fatal illness. Williams died of peritonitis last week. The picture has been held up at Pathé studio since his death. Lyon will start his part at once. David Manners is the other male lead and E. H. Griffith is the director.

Tom O'Brien was painfully injured in Universal's sound remake of Reginald Denny's old silent picture, "His Lucky Day." O'Brien played in the original picture and successfully made a sequence requiring a motorcycle dash. He didn't do so well in the sound version this week. The gas steed scooted out from under him and O'Brien's 215 pounds landed with a thud.

Priscilla Dean, who was the original gun girl in movies, is playing with Rex Bell, Clara Bow's cowboy fiancé, Sally Blane and Eve Southern in a film, "Law of the Sea," for Monogram Pictures, an independent concern. All four at one time were starred or featured at the bigger studios.

Rosetta Duncan has joined her sister, Vivian, here, reuniting Topsy and Eva for the first time in three years. The sisters go on with a revamped revival of their old act at El Capitan theater here, in a week.

Paintings Seen at Arts Club Part of Fete

BY THALIA

[The] entire Arts club membership seemed to be present at the tea yesterday afternoon given to open the club's exhibition season with a showing of the paintings of Berthe Morisot, Mary Cassatt, and Marie Laurencin.

The galleries fairly hummed and buzzed with animated and conversational gayety, and you could hardly get a glimpse of the paintings or the tea table decorated with a white lace cloth, and antique wire basket flower containers filled with laurel leaves and small white chrysanthemums through the crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and their daughter, Miss Genevieve Carpenter, were there, Mrs. Carpenter in black with a fur edged velvet coat, a Roman striped scarf of black, red, yellow and white, and a yellow felt hat with black and scarlet quills, and Miss "Ginny" in a black Oxford cloth suit and a little tip-tilted felt hat trimmed with a roll of twisted rose and black velvet.

Others included Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, Mrs. Thomas W. Smith, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux, Miss Nellie Carpenter, Miss Emily Larned, Miss Frida Foltz, Mr. and Mrs. William Kenneth Hunt, Mrs. Arthur Bissell and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Arthur J. Bissell; Mrs. Andrew R. Sheriff, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, Miss Harriet Stuart, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, and Mrs. Julie Manierre Mann.

Hans Christian Andersen Story Dramatized at Lake Forest.

"The Emperor's New Clothes," Mrs. Charlotte Chorpenning's dramatization of one of Hans Andersen's stories, was presented last evening at the Lake Forest Country Day school, with parents of the school children in the cast. Needless to say, the most critical members of the audience were those older youngsters who thoroughly enjoyed the privilege of staying up beyond their bedtime to watch their fathers and mothers perform in the puzzle play.

Mr. G. Corson Ellis and Gilbert Seyer had the leading roles of a pair of villainous weavers. The other amateur actors included Lawrence Williams as the pompous Emperor, Mrs. Ernest Kilroe as the Empress, Owen Ellis as Han, another villain; William E. Casselberry as the General, and Austin Graves, Miss Marion Russell, and Ernest Kilroe, who played a trio of weavers. Francis Archer is the only child in the play.

The performance will be repeated this afternoon for the smaller children who couldn't attend last night.

Lighthouse Volunteer Aids Will Give Tea on Tuesday.

The Lighthouse Volunteer Aids will give a tea for provisional members next Tuesday at the Chicago Lighthouse on West 23d street. All of the season's debutantes will be asked to come, an invitation being the equivalent of a bid to join the organization.

Mrs. Franklin G. Clement, president of the Aids, and Mrs. Stanley Morrill, president of the Chicago Lighthouse, will be hostesses, and officiating at the tea table will be Mrs. Taylor Strawn, Mrs. Clifford Templeton, Miss Elizabeth Drake, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin, Jr., Jeanette Peterkin, Mrs. V. Calhoun Smith, Mrs. Bennet Harvey, Robert Harvey, and Mrs. James B. Addington. Miss Edith Swift, director of the Lighthouse, will give a talk before the tea on the institution's work for the blind, and afterwards the visitors will be taken on an inspection tour of the building.

The Aids will maintain a Christmas toy shop in Lake Forest for a week, opening next Wednesday in the quarters formerly occupied by Marshall Field's branch in that suburb. Members are being enlisted to act as saleswomen.

Mary Garden Gives Russian Cigaret Case for Charity.

Mary Garden presented Mrs. Perry E. Kealy with a lovely old Russian cigaret case for the rummage table at the St. James annual bazaar a week from next Tuesday, a choice addition to the collection of things Mrs. Maurice Preston, who is in charge of the rummage table, is accumulating. Miss Garden is godmother to Mr. and Mrs. Kealy's son, Peter, and wanted to do a bit for the bazaar.

Mrs. Howard Linn is giving a party on Monday evening for Miss Ruth St. Denis, who is to dance in the Olivet Institute benefit at Orchestra hall on Tuesday evening. All the participants in the tableaux vivants are to be present, as well as Cecil Beaton, whose "Book on Beauty" inspired the tableaux.

Mrs. Charles H. Swift, chairman of the music committee of the Friends of Opera, announces that Herbert Witherspoon, vice president in charge of opera, is to speak at the first meeting of the season on Tuesday afternoon and he will present the singers, Mme. Hall Radio, Jan Kiepura, and John Charles Thomas.

Miss Grace Fitzmorris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fitzmorris of 1200 Lake Shore drive, will make her formal bow to society this afternoon at a tea at her parents' residence.

As far as we know, Miss Eleanor McNelly is setting a precedent by having her debut tea on a Sunday. The party is to be given tomorrow afternoon by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McNelly, at their residence in Evanston. The assisting hosts will include Florence Carr, Jane Ayer, Eleanor Jerrems, Louise Clarke, Chloe Watson, Virginia Wiley, Jane Hopkins, Edith Behr, Mary Ellen Prindiville, Eleanor Wheeler, Barbara Bird, Peggy Glidden, Alice May Dickinson, Gwendolyn Juergens, and Myra Ellis. After the tea there will be a supper for the debutante and her assistants and later they'll all go to the opening hockey match at the Chicago Stadium.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine says: "Nobody else in Chicago ever seems to stay at home, but I do." She has begun having her "Saturday afternoons"—today's will be the second this season. She doesn't send invitations for them; just tells people when she sees them on the street that she is receiving her friends informally at a quarter to 5. Mrs. Valentine is opening her apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive next Wednesday for a lecture by Mrs. Victoria Booth Demarest on "The Challenge of the New." Mrs. Valentine's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Philip D. Armour III., had several of the lectures at her house, and is very much interested in Mrs. Demarest's purpose, which is to arouse interest in having sacred dramas produced during the World's Fair.

Box Parties Planned for Coming Game of Hockey.

There'll be lots of other box parties at the hockey game, among them the one that Miss Margaret Conover is giving for a group of young people. Other hosts will be the James C. Hutchinses, the Frederic McLaughlins, the J. Russell Forgans, the Thorne Donnelleys, the Robert A. Gardners and the Kenneth Carpenters.

The Alliance Française received notification from Aristide Briand, the French minister of foreign affairs, yesterday that a distinguished guest, Capt. Saussy of the general staff, would be in Chicago next week, and they are to give a reception for him on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Some of the paintings done in the art class that met every week this summer in Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis' Lake Forest studio are to be exhibited at a tea to be given by Hubert Ropp, Gladys Wright Ropp, and Mr. and Mrs. Aldis to open the studio of the Hubert Ropp School of Art next Tuesday afternoon, at 100 East Chicago avenue.

Mrs. Knight Cowles and Mrs. Phelps Kelley are making the arrangements for an exhibit and sale of articles from Princess Alexis Obolensky's shop in New York, to be held at the Kelleys' Lake Forest residence, beginning next Wednesday. More Than Petting Needed to Hold Boy Friend, Says 1931

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"It takes more than petting to hold the boy friend, these days."

Out of the mouth of a babe, 17, we gather the above bit of wisdom. Also, that if you have a good line, know how to dance, wear your clothes well—the petting can be left to the girls who haven't anything else to offer.

Which would indicate that the oncoming generation looks upon petting as an outmoded talent, O. K. for the leftovers of a post-war generation, but not quite up to date enough for this bright young galaxy represented by the late 'teens.

"I have a son, 22," Mrs. Ida E. tells, "and he often brings boys of his age home. I like to question them about girls and their love affairs. I discover the boys are pretty fed up on the petting stuff. That, to quote one of them, "it got pretty sour when you were expected to do it.'

"I find that beauty isn't nearly so important to these young men as girls fancy. Good looks, yes. But the sort of good looks that any young woman can have today. A good dresser seems to be more in demand, a girl the boys like to feel proud of when out together.

"But the thing that amused me was the consensus of opinion that the best liked girl had to have a ready flow of small talk at her command. 'Deliver us from the one who gets serious,' was the unanimous plea. Pressed for an explanation of small talk, the best that could be gathered was 'anything but getting serious,' 'not trying to show off all they knew,' 'not trying to impress with their learning.'

"Maybe you could pass the tip along, Miss Blake, for your girl readers."

So consider it passed along.

But the one about petting being left to the girl who hasn't any other talent to offer pleases this scribe more.

Evening Fashions Button Up the Back

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—As has been announced by THE TRIBUNE before, Paris fashions are all buttoned up this winter. Even the fashions for evening are given a quota of buttons. Some of the smartest evening coats in France button frankly in front, and now come evening dresses that button up the back. This buttoning process is a life saver for the new mermaid type of evening gown that hasn't a half inch leeway in its fitting, so that wriggling in by the neck is a physical impossibility.

The buttoned frock for formal evening wear this winter is illustrated. This frock comes from Yvonne Carette and is made of pale blue crêpe plaided with silver. It has the smartest décolleté of the season—square necked and high in front, and V necked and very cutout in back.

At the bottom of this V in back the buttoning begins, silver buttons and regular buttonholes. Clusters of tiny tucks flank this closing so that there is a slight, redeeming drapery, but you must be slim to wear this frock, just the same. The buttons extend half way to the knees down the center back, and where they end there is a sash of the blue and silver plaid crêpe, with loops and trailing ends.

This sash can be left off and without it the dress is just instep length with a skirt that is flared in its seams from the knees in front and from the end of the buttons in back. The dress has no belt but a pin of pearls and rhinestones is placed at the waistline in the center front.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Rubber Stocking Offered.

"Do you know of any one who can make use of a rubber stocking? I have one to give to some man. It is size 9. M. B."

The invalid whose particular ailment calls for this type of stocking will do well to write me for the one M. B. offers. Please do not telephone.

Widow Seeks Help.

"I am a widow, out of work, and have three children to support. I am renting rooms to try to pay my rent so I will not be a burden to charity. I need a full size mattress just now and other household accessories which I cannot buy. Do you think your readers would have any to give? L. S."

If you are planning to invest in a new bed, perhaps you'll have a mattress to dispose of. Here's a widow who could put it to good use.

Stop and Go Seems Baby's System in Learning to Talk

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Perhaps your worry isn't that your baby is a late walker, but a late talker. There are so many things a young mother can find to worry about, if she is looking for them. Perhaps you are afraid your baby isn't mentally as bright as some others because he is slow in talking. That does not follow, any more than it follows because of his slowness in learning to walk.

When all the mechanism is ready that is necessary in that most delicate function known as speech—then your baby will talk. When there is an alarming delay in speech, and the organs of speech are absolutely normal, it is advisable to have a test of the hearing. A child doesn't speak readily if he doesn't hear well.

Incidentally, I am sure it will be interesting to many mothers whose babies are going through these absorbing days of not yet walking and not yet talking to watch them and see whether their talking shows the same start and stop system as the babies that were studied in Minneapolis, referred to in this column several days ago. It will be briefer to use the author's words than mine. How does your baby check up with this:

"In the very early weeks it was noted that many babies began to coo and babble shortly before they began to reach. While the reaching act was being perfected their vocal play was much diminished. It reappeared just after reaching was well established, and was again discontinued while the baby was perfecting his skill at sitting.

"Another increase in jabbering took place before the baby walked."

And check up on this: "A few babies who were slow at walking were great 'talkers,' to judge by the quantity rather than quality of speech.

"The baby who cannot act effectively takes it out in talking, it would seem, much as the adult does."

One of the advantages in caring for your babies yourself is that you can watch day by day the unfolding of their powers—a panorama of absorbing interest.

Mothers who are struggling with their babies' habits of elimination will find both reassurance and help in our leaflet on the subject, which will be sent on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover will attend the laying of the corner stone of the Phoebe Hearst kindergarten school tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The school is situated on a portion of ground which formerly was part of the estate of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson and is opposite Friendship, the suburban home of Edward Beale McLean.

Secretary of the Navy Adams went to Chicago today and will be absent until the first of next week. Mrs. Adams was among the guests at dinner tonight of the chief of naval operations, Rear Admiral William V. Pratt, and Mrs. Pratt, who entertained in compliment to Vice Admiral Sir Vernon Haggard, R. N., commander of the British West Indies squadron.

Food Talk.

Since Sunday dinner is, with most of us, the most important meal of the week, we try to have all its components as nearly perfect as possible. In the case of the meat it is necessary to cook it on Sunday. Salad, if a moulded one, may be made beforehand, and so may rolls. Vegetables, again, are Sunday work. Dessert, however, is one thing that may be pretty consistently prepared on Saturday, thereby saving last minute preparation and putting the cook's mind at ease as to the success of the climax of Sunday dinner.

Pies and cakes, tarts and pastries, tapioca and gelatin desserts, so easy to make and so satisfying, suggest themselves. If one is so fortunate as to have a mechanical refrigerator, the choice of desserts is vastly widened. There are all sorts of things to be made in the ice trays.

Of all the recipes for frozen desserts known to me, I think those calling for marshmallows are the most alluring because they are so easy. The marshmallows combine sweetening and binder. In some recipes no other sugar is called for besides that contained in the candy.

When recipes for refrigerator desserts call for strong coffee infusion I have found that the liquid coffee preparations, whether or not you like to use them for beverage coffee, are fine. I believe this is because it is possible, with the liquid, to attain a degree of strength that is not reached with ground coffee, unaccompanied by bitterness, even with the best brands.

If you want to make your desserts particularly festive, pour them into paper cups and freeze them, instead of directly into the tray. Garnish with maraschino or candied cherries.

The easiest frozen dessert of all takes no preparation. Just put a can of fruit in the freezing compartment and when it is frozen solid remove the top of the can with one of those openers that cut the whole thing off in a neat round, and slice the cylinder of congealed fruit.

STUFFED CABBAGE.

1 cup bread crumbs.
2 tablespoons minced parsley.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup cooked meat, chopped fine.
1 cup white sauce.
1 teaspoon thyme.
Pepper to taste.

Wash the cabbage and cook till partially tender in salted water. Drain. Add the meat and crumbs to the white sauce. Season. Turn back the cabbage leaves and insert the dressing. Wrap the cabbage in cheesecloth and cook slowly until tender. This serves six. A red cabbage looks particularly appetizing cooked in this way.

BAKED PORK TENDERLOIN.

In baking pork tenderloin, the addition of a sprinkling of sage adds a great deal to the flavor.

HONEY DRESSING.

In dressing fruit salads with honey, the best plan is just to pour the honey over the fruit. It is absorbed to a certain extent. Since salad dressings are more or less a matter of personal preference, there is no one recipe for honey dressing that pleases every one. For endives, the addition of honey to olive oil, with a trace of lemon juice and seasoning, is excellent.

I'll cut incisions or petals. Then I'll take a sweet green pepper and cut a stem and leaves."

"You can take the best brand of coffee and spoil it in a percolator," the food expert continued. "I take a tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water, and percolate it four and a half minutes, using fresh boiled water. That's easy, and the coffee is good."

Another recipe that attracted much attention was the Christmas ginger ale flip, and when the red drink was poured in the tall glasses, the entire audience voiced their pleasure.

Mrs. Chitwood told how to boil two cups of cranberries in a pint of water until the berries burst open. This she put through a sieve, after having added a cup of sugar. The juice of two lemons and of two oranges were added and finally a bottle of ginger ale. This was well mixed, and ice cubes added.

At the close of the class came the moment that many women had been anticipating all week—the award of the grand prizes. The first, an electric refrigerator, went to Mrs. Martha Sanders, 2021 Crystal street.

"I was so pleased to get the electric refrigerator," she said following the award. "I didn't have an electric one before. Now I can have lots of frozen desserts and the milk for my little boy will always be kept fresh."

The electric washing machine was given to Mrs. Edward Meacham, 3760 Ellis avenue; the electric mixer to Mrs. Lillian Kretschmar, 3419 Elaine place; percolator, Mrs. John O'Gara, 4736 North Winchester avenue; iron, Mrs. B. Strauss, 3007 North Mason street, and the toaster to Mrs. W. O. Barker, 4634 North Racine avenue.

Yesterday's class was opened with community singing led by Edward Clissold, and Mrs. Fleda C. Jackson. Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies, then invited the women to attend the final classes of the school on Nov. 23 and 24 at the Coliseum. Among the entertainers were Barbara Schiappacasse, soprano, from the Donna Parker concert management; Alexander Corado, baritone, from the Chicago Conservatory, and dance novelties by Joan Marie Wolf, Joyce Bennett, Betty Olds and Phyliss Kron from the Ned Wayburn dance studios. Cathryn Bennett was at the piano.

Keep Your Hands as Youthful Looking as Your Complexion

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Said a woman who converted her hard years of toil into a fascinating and highly remunerative biography: "What a pity that our virtues can leave uglier marks than our sins." She was looking at her hands, whose reddened skin and enlarged knuckles bore out her tale of years at the sink, over the washboard and scrub pail.

Well, the virtues do not have to leave behind them knuckle prints on the hands for all time. You'd be surprised if you knew how many women are gaining culture with their semi-weekly professional treatments. The size of the joints may not be reduced, but the flesh is built up between and around them so that they are successfully lost to view.

It's not a quick process, understand. It takes a lot of patience. It isn't one that has to be entrusted to professional treatment, although 'em as can afford it are lucky. But so are 'em lucky as can have their yachts. The rest of us don't seem to feel the deprivation much.

There's always that about the professional treatments that runs into money. There are home treatments that serve marvelously, if one can only school herself to be as conscientious about her her self-appointments as she is with the ones she must pay for.

Hands can be massaged with a gentle, rotary movement from the wrists to the finger tips, using a good hand tissue cream while you work. Your sturdy cold cream jar may be dipped into with reasonable success, too. But when you massage, work from wrists to finger tips and pay particular attention to the knuckle area. It may take six months to do any noticeable rebuilding, but in the meantime the skin will have improved greatly and that lends hand confidence.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Vegetable growers through their state association in Indiana have awarded the state onion growing championship for 1931 to two Noble county farmers, Dingfelder and Balish, whose measured tract near the town of Kimmell produced at the rate of 993 bushels per acre. These two men came within 77 bushels of equaling the state mark of 1,070 bushels, recorded last year by Henry Murray of Garrett.

Excessive heat during the active growing season curtailed the onion production of those who had entered a contest for membership in the 1,000 bushel onion club of the state.

In spite of adverse weather, the average of all contestants was 505 bushels per acre, which received praise from W. B. Ward of the Purdue horticultural extension staff.

A silver medal goes to each of the Noble county champions. Second place was won by Frank Ott, Albion, Ind., on a yield of 719 bushels per acre; third, Thomas Kimmell of Kimmell, 705 bushels; fourth, Paul Swihart of Albion, 684 bushels. The state as a whole is estimated to have produced a total crop of 1,600,000 bushels of this vegetable, or about one-seventh of the

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

While I was out of work I was told to go to a certain place, ask for Mr. B. and mention the friend's name who had sent me there. When I entered the office I found my girl friend was working for that firm. I was telling her what brought me there, when a short, stout, man came hurrying out of the inner office. When I thought he had left I said to my girl friend, "Who's the funny looking pill? He looks like he's sick."

Imagine my embarrassment when a voice behind me said "I happen to be the boss of this firm." R. W.

Rifle, Ill., Nov. 13.—Jack Dempsey, making his first appearance in a ring since the battle of the long count at Soldiers' field four years ago, whipped two opponents in the second of his comeback tour at Rifle field house tonight. George Nick, a Chicago Greek, was the first victim and Pete Wistort, another Chicagoan, was the second.

Both bouts went the scheduled distance of two rounds. The crowd of 4,000, the largest boxing turnout in Rifle's history, obviously was disappointed by Dempsey's failure to dispose of either man. They were booing lustily as Jack left the ring.

Here are the type of people who will delight in seeing Nero toss Christians to the lions.

No Thrill in Point Victory.

Nobody gets a thrill out of watching Babe Ruth bunt or Pug Rentner get up a yard or two off tackle. It's not war with Dempsey. If he is to regain his old popularity, he must win with one of those "clear the track, here comes Casey Jones" finishes. Nobody came to see him win on points.

Neither exhibition was soul stirring, nerve heart thrilling. They lacked the elemental savageness you expect in a Dempsey fight. Neron, a burly fellow with a penchant for clinching, opened a cut over Dempsey's left eye, but it was not serious. Jerry Louvaris, the trainer who worked with Jack during his heyday, stopped the flow of blood before the bout with Wistort started.

There was no knockdowns. At no time was either of Dempsey's foemen in grave jeopardy. Wistort took more punishment than Neron because he was willing occasionally to stand and slug with the former champion. He caught two left hooks and a right cross in the second round that shook him up, but time was too short for Jack to capitalize the opportunity.

Strong for Man of 36.

While Dempsey no longer stands in the magic halls of youth and lacks its suppleness and spring of his earlier days he was as strong, sturdy, enduring and hard hitting as you could expect of a man 36 who has been away from ring warfare four years. Imagine Paderewski forsaking the piano for four years and then attempting to play before a group of critics looking for mistakes. Dempsey, in his line, was once a Paderewski.

Jack still has some of that old power left. Not much but some. He has to use it sparingly. He couldn't travel at top speed long, probably not more than four or five rounds. But a lot of fighters have been ruined in less time than that.

It would be stretching the truth to say there has been no slackening of Dempsey's fighting powers. The old Dempsey was essentially a killer. He used every advantage, letting loose unleashed demons in himself whenever he jarred or jolted an opponent. Twice he several times failed to follow up. Although he always was shooting, he did not blaze away with both hands as he used to.

Fighting Heart Remains.

The principal way in which he portrayed the old Dempsey was his constant shuffling in and forcing the fighting. He crouched and weaved as he did when that action meant something to Willard and Firpo. But the snap was gone from the punches tonight. In the clinches where he once worked such havoc he did little damage. Only the heart to carry on fight and the ability to shake off blows with fortitude remained.

Dempsey's showing may be likened to that of an old man reminiscing on the glorious, golden exploits of youth. His movements, his poses, his ring mannerisms were touchingly reminiscent until results were demanded of them.

An extenuating circumstance it might be mentioned that Dempsey wore 16 ounce gloves instead of the twelve ounce and that he still was suffering from a recent attack of influenza. He chose to go through with his engagement here rather than disappoint the promoters although he needed another week of rest to put him in shape.

Needs More Work.

Dempsey himself is not convinced that he can reach condition warranting a bout with Schmeling, Sharkey or one of the other topnotchers.

"I feel I have improved 50 per cent since I started my comeback tour, but I need a lot more work before I can say I am ready for all comers," he said tonight. "My judgment of distance is bad. I haven't got the co-ordination between body and mind. I frequently see openings for knockout wallops, but by the time my muscles respond the opportunity has passed. I am not going to attempt a real comeback unless I feel I have an even chance to make good."

Two members of the Illinois Athletic commission, Gen. John V. Clinnin and Fred Gardner, and Capt. Tom Trozell, secretary of the board, were among the 100 Chicagoans who attended the show.

With this sustaining hope Indiana's football team meets the undefeated Northwestern eleven at Dyche stadium today. A Dad's day crowd of 30,000 is expected to witness the Purple's final home appearance of the year.

Indiana, by long odds the underdog in today's game, can take courage from those three stunning defeats administered Northwestern in '27, '28, and '29. In each of these games the Hoosiers were accorded but slight hope for victory.

But it will require a hard riding jinx to deny the Wildcats in their farewell performance today. They will be fighting to retain their lead in the conference race and keep untarnished a perfect record.

Eleven Cats Bow Out.

Eleven Wildcats will play their last game in Dyche stadium today. Heading this group are Capt. Dal Marvil and Jack Riley, tackles, and Jimmy Evans, guard. This trio has formed the bulwark of the Purple line for three years. The other seniors are Reb Russell, full back; Will Lewis, quarter back; Al Moore, Sid Burnstein, Luke Fenier and Jimmie O'Mara, half back, and Ralph Dylan, end.

For the first time this year Coach Dick Hanley will have the services of all his regulars. In previous games one or another of the Wildcat varsity has not been available because of injuries. The foremost member of this ailing brigade has been Reb Russell, who has not played since the opening game against Nebraska.

Russell, who last year won nationwide acclaim for his line smashing, has been on the bench all fall nursing an injured back. Not until this week was he able to participate in practice. Now, however, he is pronounced fit to resume play.

Olson Benched.

With Russell back in the lineup, Coach Hanley will temporarily shelve Ollie Olson, the sophomore kicking star who so successfully filled the gap in Reb's absence. With Olson benched, the kicking will be done by George Potter. However, if the Wildcats need a good long punt to get them out of difficulties today, Olson will be pressed into action.

Other members of Northwestern's starting backfield today include Pug Rentner and Jakie Sullivan, halfbacks, who played a prominent part in the Wildcats' victory over Minnesota last Saturday. The Purple line will be the same that started against the Gophers. It includes Fenel and Manske, ends; Marvil and Riley, tackles; Evans and Dilley, guards, and McDonald, center.

Hoosier Cripples Return.

Against this victory flushed aggregation, Indiana will pit an eleven which has likewise been strengthened by the addition of several injured players. Opasik, star passer, has recovered from injuries which kept him out of the Michigan game last Saturday.

This passing attack, which has come to the aid of the Crimson in all of their games to date, is no idle threat and it will be counted on heavily today since the lighter Hoosier backs are not expected to have much of a chance to penetrate the sturdy Purple line.

High school students in the Chicago area will be admitted to today's game for $1, and grade school children for 50 cents.

BULLETIN.

In a jam during the 12:30 sprints this morning the team of Stockholm and Horan went into the lead of the six day bike race on points, tied with Georgetti-Debaets and Letourner-Guimbretiere.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those jolly form players who attend sports events just to observe that class will tell had a great time last night at the six day bicycle carnival in the Chicago Stadium. The night, next to the last in the race, witnessed the best riding to date and the best of the good stuff was pedaled by the gents of long established class.

Franco Georgetti and Gerard Debaets entered the evening's endeavor in a lead they had guarded well for 22 hours. And as the race turned past midnight to its final day Franco and Gerard still were in the lead, but they were tied in mileage with those other class performers, Al Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere, who won the race here a year ago.

In and Out of Lead.

The maintenance of the Georgetti-Debaets advantage was by no means routine or constant. Letourner-Guimbretiere first tied them early in the evening; at 9:05 they were tied with three other teams; at 9:15 they were trailing Carls Stockholm and Harry Horan by a lap; at 10 o'clock they were tied with two other teams, but in the most prolonged jam of the race, between 10 o'clock and 10:25 o'clock, they were able to scoot away from all rivals with the exception of the little French Red Devils.

Both the leading teams gained their success despite some physical and mental handicaps. Letourner, No. 13, had refused to wear his number because it was Friday the 13th, and during one of the big jams after he had been prevailed upon to restore the number he lost a shoe, but kept on jamming until the loss was discovered by Referee Frank L. Kramer, who stopped the race until little Al could get himself a new boot. The suspension caused the bike bugs to boo the Frenchman like he was a mayor trying to make a political speech, and all because a jam had been halted without a spill.

10,000 View Show.

The adversity suffered by Georgetti-Debaets befell Debaets when he became violently ill shortly after 11 o'clock. He was rushed to emergency treatment and was able to resume after his throat and chest had been heavily painted with antiseptics.

More than 10,000 viewed the show, the second largest crowd of the week, and many of the big gathering were rooting for Stockholm, the lone Chicagoan left in the race. When Carl and his partner, Horan, jumped into the lead for a while, beginning at 9:15 o'clock, the pair got a swell whoop.

Four Tie After Sprints.

The Italian-Belgian combination sought to prolong the solo tenancy of first place all right, but there were able cyclists to say them nay. Letourner and Guimbretiere stole three laps in a rapid series of three jams

35th Maroon, Illini Game for Cellar Crown

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 13.—The onetime mighty have fallen, but a Maroon-Illini meeting on the gridiron still remains something of importance between themselves. They'll be at it again tomorrow for the thirty-fifth time and, while no championships are involved, there is a matter of one or the other winning its first conference decision of the season and thus escaping from the cellar position.

Bob Zuppke, the Illini coach, who, like A. A. Stagg, has known better days, prefers to look at the struggle in a different light. In his own words, he pictures the battle as an argument which is to determine who is the year's worst coach in the Big Ten. And while Zuppke has had so many disappointments this fall that one more jolt wouldn't make much difference in the aggregate, he doesn't want that doubtful distinction appended to his name. Tonight he was fearing in all his oldtime splendor. Adversity has improved him as a blues singer.

Big Hospital List.

Even if the Illini were the same fighting mob as when Red Grange's immortal "77" was flashing across collegiate gridirons, there still would be reasons for local mourning. So many of the Orange and Blue regulars are injured that Zuppke's lineup must be a haphazard arrangement.

"If I blindfolded myself and started the first eleven players I touched, I couldn't be far wrong," was Zuppke's doleful reply when asked if he knew just how he would arrange things for 2 o'clock tomorrow.

End to Call Signals.

Zuppke's two quarter backs are out with physical complaints. Schultz, the regular full back, who hasn't played since the Purdue game, suffered a recurrence of a leg injury when he began to practice for the Maroon affair. May, a tackle, also is hors de combat. And there are so many others in the same class that Zuppke can hardly restrain himself from laughing hysterically over his luck.

The absence of a quarter back is

Cadets Parade, Battle Today to Aid Charity

Surrounded by pageantry and playing in an atmosphere purely military, the football teams of St. Johns and Culver Military academies clash in their second annual service contest at Soldiers' field this afternoon.

St. Johns still was a slight favorite to win on the eve of battle, but the conviction was growing that Culver eleven may repeat its feat of last year when it ran to a 19 to 0 victory over a St. Johns team that had not lost a game.

The academy boys arrived yesterday. Culver was first to report at Soldiers' field for practice, and for nearly an hour the Indiana players tossed passes and ran through signals. The ease with which receivers pulled in tosses, and the skill with which the spirals were hurled impressed spectators.

St. Johns Offers Contrast.

When St. Johns worked out later there was marked contrast in the

Middies Take Lesson from Irish Today

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Notre Dame's No. 1 company will engage in light scrimmage with the Navy in Baltimore tomorrow, their first appearance of the season on the eastern seaboard, while Harvard plays Holy Cross and Yale lays off.

Some one apparently slipped something over on some one in the arrangement of the Yale-Harvard affair this year, for the Yale team will come up to the Harvard date at the end of a three weeks' rest broken only by some gentle exercise against St. John's of Baltimore last Saturday. While Yale was romping with St. John's and using unimportant characters for the duty, Harvard was engaged in a hard fight with Dartmouth and, this week, while the Yales are relaxing completely, the Harvard boys will be moved into another serious bout with a team of resentful social inferiors.

Hangers-On Are Distasteful.

Holy Cross alumni and students will be annoyed at being so described, but the fact is nevertheless that Holy Cross, although neighbor to Harvard, never has been recognized by Harvard as a rival. The Holy Cross boys for this reason have taken special delight in pasting Harvard when they could. Moreover, this resentment was taken up by the professional Irishmen of Boston, who constitute a sort of Ku Klux of their own, and, like Notre Dame in New York, the school was embarrassed by the partisanship of synthetic alumni who had no conception of football manners.

Knute Rockne and Maj. Phil Fleming, the Army's graduate manager, two years ago were discussing the removal of the Army-Notre Dame game to New Haven, or perhaps to Philadelphia so as to elude some of the friends of Notre Dame. Last year the game was played in Chicago and it remains to be seen when the Army plays Notre Dame in New York again this fall whether the hint was of any effect. It may be news that Rockne disliked some of his most vociferous adherents, but he did nevertheless.

Navy Game Formality.

Until this year Harvard always enjoyed the advantage of an extra week's rest or comparative rest when the team went into the game with Yale, for this was always the final game of the season for both, and Yale always played a hard game with Princeton the week before. This year Yale meets Princeton a week after the Harvard game and it is Yale's good luck to mend up and drill in formations while Harvard plays through like a defending champion in a hard tournament.

The Navy-Notre Dame game is a

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—Wisconsin's battered Badgers completed preparation this afternoon for their homecoming game with Ohio State tomorrow at Camp Randall. Langdon street, the Michigan avenue of Wisconsin's campus, tonight was ablaze with light. Hundreds of old grads visited fraternity houses or held impromptu celebrations in hotels.

"Will Wisconsin win?" This was the question of the thousands of visitors, who tomorrow will form the majority of the 34,000 at the gridiron. Only a few perennial boosters, to whom Wisconsin must always be superior to all opposition, affirmed their belief in victory over the Buckeyes.

The long list of injured players will decrease the effectiveness of the Badgers.

Goldenberg, Schiller Out.

Buckets Goldenberg and Bobby Schiller, backs, are definitely out of the game. Donald Cuthbert, regular tackle, may be able to start, but he has been a hospital case for two days because of a cold.

Capt. Harold Smith, tackle, has been playing all season with injuries which would have kept a less determined man on the bench. Walter McGuire, the starting left half back, who will direct the Badger attack, and Clair Strain, a substitute whose passing ability is needed, may not be able to continue in the lineup for any length of time. Neither is in best condition because of injuries and each has been excused from most of the drills this week.

Such is Wisconsin's plight on the eve of its fight for second place in the Western conference race.

Ohio State, too, can name several regulars who are incapacitated, but the Buckeyes possess greater reserve strength. At least, that is the story in Madison.

Welever Better Plunger.

Much has been made of Watson Welever's promotion to full back in place of Mike Vuchinich. Vuchinich has done remarkably well this season, but reports have it Welever is a better plunger and a more efficient defensive man. Coupled with this threat to the center of Wisconsin's line are the wide end runs which brought Michigan's defeat, and the all around ability of Carl Cramer. Against Michigan and Indiana, Cramer appeared at his best. Fast, an excellent open field runner, Cramer also is the best quarter back Ohio has had in several seasons.

Tomorrow's game is the tenth between the universities which did not meet until Ohio State entered the Western conference in 1913. Each has won four games. Last year, the first game since relations were suspended in 1920, the teams played a scoreless tie.

While the rivalry is not of long duration, it has been closely waged except for the Badgers' 21 to 0 victory in 1915. In 1920, the year of the breach in friendship, Ohio scored in the closing minutes to win, 13 to 7. That triumph prevented Wisconsin from winning the championship. The previous scores follow:

1913—Wisconsin, 12; Ohio State, 0.
1914—Wisconsin, 7; Ohio State, 6.
1915—Wisconsin, 21; Ohio State, 0.

Field Goals.

Dear Harve: I don't go back to 5 points or at least 4 points for field goals and encourage this branch of football, now more difficult than when the goal posts were at the goal line. Under present scoring, it takes three field goals to surpass one touchdown with point after touchdown. No wonder so few field goals are tried unless the teams are tied. J. M. M.

33 HOOSIERS MAKE TRIP

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Thirty-three Indiana football players left here at noon today for Evanston where they meet Northwestern tomorrow.

The Hoosiers were in fine spirits and hoped to repeat their upsets of 1927, 1928, and 1929. The squad was crippled by injuries, however, with Lyons, star end, and Oren, promising full back, left at home. The players making the trip are:

Dickey, Hansen, Kuchins, Martich, Tieman, and Jackson, ends; Anglemyer, Kuss, Rascher, Behm, and Stevenson, tackles; Adams, Hockich, McDonald, Myles, Zellers, and Vollva, guards; Benson, Spanuth, Williams, and Johnson, centers; and Babb, Bass, Banks, Vic and Ray Dauer, Edmonds, Jones, Opasik, Sabuski, Sawicki, Fuqua, and Last drum, backfield men.

The Crimson B team will meet Northwestern's reserves here tomorrow and the Indiana-Ohio State game is at Ohio State.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 13.—University of Michigan and Michigan State college, which have been conducting a back fence football war for a quarter century, will have at each other with their usual ferocity in the Wolverines' big back yard tomorrow afternoon.

This twenty-sixth battle between the old state enemies promises to be an interesting one from several angles. For one thing, there is confusion in the Michigan box office, where Harry Tillotson, the old ticket maestro, earlier in the day set the probable house for the argument at 30,000. This was something in itself, for the annual battle never has attracted more than 35,000. Three Michigan State ticket allotments totaling 8,500 have been sold out and at a late hour tonight Mr. Tillotson was trying to sell late comers on the idea of looking at the game from back of the goal posts. The seats between the goal lines here approximate 50,000.

Writers Prepare for Chill.

And speaking of that perfect weather, there hasn't been a better football climate in these parts since the day four years ago when Louis Gilbert and Bennie Oosterbaan dedicated the big yard by beating Ohio State by themselves.

Among the visiting authors, however, particularly those veterans of former Antarctic expeditions to Michigan's open air press box, there is much skepticism, and all are prepared for nothing less than a zero blast. Reports that the literary section would be enclosed for the game were stoutly denied by University authorities today.

Michigan holds the edge in the series between the two teams, winning 21 of the 25 games played. State won in 1913 and 1915, and achieved scoreless ties in 1908 and last year. But this year is something else again, if you give ear to advices from East Lansing, where the citizenry is in such a fever that some have been known to give 2 to 1 odds on their club. Here in Ann Arbor, you can find few Wolverines supporters to spot you any points, the majority willing to go at even money.

State Team Restrained.

On the other hand, when Coach Jimmy Crowley and his 28 players rolled up in a big bus for a workout at the stadium before going over to Ypsilanti for the night, a more restrained spirit was evident. The former Notre Dame star is confident that his kids will play their heads off, but pointed out that the Wolverines have always been tough people for the Spartans to convince.

There was one matter which all the Spartan fans appeared willing to talk about, and that was that one Robert Monnett of Bucyrus, O., will play a lot of football for State tomorrow. Bob was the leader of the Michigan State typhoon which destroyed Ripon last week, 100 to 0. In seven games this year he has scored 126 points, and his people look for him to improve that figure considerably against Michigan. He has able support in Abe Eliowitz, State's full back and punter, who is no slouch as a scorer himself. This Monnett looked to be a very fast party in today's workout. He's a junior, a basketball player and was a varsity rassler last year.

Shifts Hudson to Quarter.

In the line State's best are Art Buss, end; Capt. Milton Gross, guard, and Bud Dekker, center. George Handy, guard, and Jake Fase, end, probably will start, but are not in the best of shape. They likely will be replaced by Rube Dill and Roger Keast.

The Spartans have a very wholesome respect for Michigan's passing game, and are expected to concentrate on a running attack despite the Wolverines' highly improved defense. Coach Harry Kipke has named a back field which, while suited to power plays, also boasts four competent passers. Power was injected by shifting Capt. Roy Hudson to quarter back. It will be his first appearance in the rôle, having spent most of his career at full back. This does not mean the elimination of Harry Newman, regular quarter, who is expected to play a good portion of the contest.

Among the absentees will be Omer La Jeunesse, guard, who suffered a badly sprained ankle in the Princeton game, and Estill Tessmer, quarter back, who is out with a chipped shoulder bone.

State's 100 to 0 victory over Ripon may have encouraged the Spartans to a record enthusiasm, but Coach Kipke could tell you a thing or two about that himself, and it happened in 1928, when he was coaching State. One week State stepped all over Alma college, 102 to 0, and the next the Spartans were embarrassed by a 2 to 0 defeat at the hands of Albion.

Harvard Bars Ted Husing from Stadium

Boston, Mass., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—William J. Bingham, director of Harvard athletics, announced today that Ted Husing, nationally known radio announcer of the Columbia broadcasting system, will not be admitted to the Harvard stadium in the capacity of announcer for any future games as a result of the manner in which he handled the Harvard-Dartmouth game last Saturday.

The statement follows close on the heels of a storm of protests from Harvard alumni all over the country on Mr. Husing's reported use of the word "putrid" in describing the play of Capt. Barry Wood of the Crimson and his critical remarks on the entire Harvard team.

First Announcer Barred.

Mr. Bingham today sent a letter, the contents of which were not disclosed, to William Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, protesting against Mr. Husing's broadcast of the game. He did give out the following statement:

"No announcer can come into the Harvard stadium and refer to any play made by any boy on the Harvard team or any other team as putrid. Mr. Husing will not be admitted to the Harvard stadium in the capacity of announcer for any future Harvard game."

This is the first time that any college in the country has taken steps to bar a radio announcer from its stadium.

In the past Harvard has admitted the major broadcasting chains to handle its home games and Mr. Husing has been at the "mike" at some of Harvard's major contests. Last Saturday his remarks regarding the Harvard players were alleged to have been sarcastic and supercritical. The one word which drew the wrath of Harvard undergraduates and Harvard alumni was "putrid," which Mr. Husing is reported to have used to describe the play of Capt. Wood.

Had Trouble with Casey.

All week letters and telegrams have poured into the Harvard athletic association protesting against Mr. Husing's broadcast and suggesting that he be barred from handling any more of Harvard's major contests. Mr. Husing will not broadcast the Harvard-Yale game a week from tomorrow, for the Columbia system will not handle the game.

Mr. Husing first ran into trouble with Harvard at the West Point game played at Michie stadium. The day before the game he came to Briar Cliff Lodge where Harvard was staying and asked that he be given the plays by Coach Eddie Casey. Coach Casey refused. Husing's broadcast of the game on the following afternoon was considered more than a little off color from a Harvard viewpoint.

"HARD TO BELIEVE"—PALEY

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 13.—(AP)—William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting company, in commenting on the ban placed on Ted Husing by Harvard authorities today, said he had not been officially notified, but as far as he knew "Harvard has a perfect right to bar Ted Husing from football broadcasts."

"I will not comment on the merits of the case," Mr. Paley said, "until it has been brought officially to my attention. Husing is one of our best men and I find it hard to believe that any complaint has been made about him."

Mr. Paley is in Buffalo as a witness in a lawsuit against his company.

Husing had been assigned to no more broadcasts from Soldier field, Cambridge, this year, as on Nov. 21—the date of the Yale-Harvard game—he will be in South Bend broadcasting the Southern California-Notre Dame game.

GOPHERS START SECOND ELEVEN AGAINST CORNELL

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Coach Fritz Crisler has decided to start the Minnesota second team against Cornell here tomorrow afternoon in a nonconference breather for the Michigan contest at Ann Arbor, Nov. 21.

But Crisler also will have the first team on the field for at least one full quarter. He wants the regulars to see some action because they have had little hard work all week and need a stiff scrimmage to perfect their new plays.

In the starting lineup against Cornell, Dillner and Krezowski will be at ends; Kroll and Williaman at tackles, Harpole and Koski at guards with Stein at center. Swartz, Champlin, Hribar and Griffin will be in the back field.

Kenny MacDougall will not play at all and may not be available for the last scheduled game against Michigan. He injured his knee in scrimmage again and will not be able to don a uniform for several days.

Viator Scores Twice in Last Half to Win, 12-0

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—St. Viator college defeated Illinois college tonight, 12 to 0. Harding scored in the third quarter on a 20 yard run and Pete Laffey, former Chicago prep star, ran 45 yards in the last 30 seconds to clinch victory. Dexter was star of the Viator defense.

style it employed. Even in signal practice, it was obvious that Coach Wilhelm leans heavily toward power plays. St. Johns has imposing weight and strength, and for that reason has been ranked the favorite.

In 1930 a situation similar to this year's existed between the teams. Both were undefeated up to the big game, but the heavier St. Johns outfit was the choice to win. The Wisconsin school has been aiming for this game ever since that 19 to 0 defeat of last year and today will be its big day.

Leonard Cherry, 128 pounds and the smallest man on either squad, is the key man of the Culver attack. He kicks, passes and runs. Charley Wilkerson, the other Culver back is almost as fast as Cherry.

Bender Leads St. Johns.

Cuno Bender, playing his third year of varsity football, is the chief offensive threat of St. Johns. He weighs 165, and, like Cherry, can run, pass or kick. In addition to being a good man in the open, Bender is a line plunger.

John Conrad, St. Johns' star kicker, has averaged 55 yards on punts all season. Mike Calvano, as tough a full back as ever wore a St. Johns' uniform, perhaps is a better defensive player than any back on the Culver squad.

The St. Johns' cadet corps will arrive at the Northwestern station at 10:40 o'clock this morning and that of Culver at Union station at 11:15 a. m. At noon they will assemble and at 12:15 parade through the loop to the field.

Planes to Drop Colors.

During the progress of the parade and the review, two squadrons of planes from St. Johns' flying school will soar overhead and release hundreds of small parachutes carrying national and school colors. The South Shore post of the American Legion will have a 150 piece band in the stand.

Among the throng will be 17,000 boys, including 8,000 Boy Scouts and 2,000 members of the Chicago high school R. O. T. C. unit. In the official boxes will be Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Rear Admiral Roy Crosley, commandant at the Great Lakes Naval Training station; Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area; Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, Mayor Cermak and many others.

The event is being sponsored by the American Legion and the Joint Emergency Relief Fund of Cook County. Profits will be used for hospitalization work and the relief of the unemployed and former service men and their families in distress.

Two Chicago Teams Win in Field Hockey

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Marilouise Silbeck yesterday scored four of the five goals which gave the Chicago first team a 5-3 victory over the North Shore first team in the opening day's play in the annual Midwest Women's field hockey tournament at Jackson park.

Frances Jordan made the other score for Chicago in the second half, with a perfect angle shot. Miss Silbeck's goals came in pairs in each half. Margaret De Lay, Jay Purves and Elizabeth Thorne scored for North Shore.

Regular Players Out.

Both teams were handicapped by the lack of regular players. Iris Boulton, center half of the North Shore team, suffered a broken nose in scrimmage before the meet and could not compete. Gladys Miller substituted for Ruth Lyman, center half of the Chicago team, and played an excellent game.

The field was slippery and the teams had many penalties.

In the second team competition, Chicago defeated the North Shore, 1 and 0. Isabel Gorgas, captain of the Chicago players, made the only score. Marie Kubik, Vic Vacha and Dorothy Johnstone, backs, shone for the victorious team, and Catherine Greeley and Jessica Nixson of North Shore were strong on defense.

Wetomachek first team defeated St. Louis, 4 and 0. Marjorie Harrowell, left wing, scored a goal in the first half and helped to shut out the visiting team. Alice Beaman, center forward, made two goals in the second half, and aided her teammate, Carie Louise Douglas, to score.

Pairings for Today.

This morning the Milwaukee team will play Central Illinois and Et Cetera will oppose the Chicago second team at 9 o'clock. An hour later St. Louis plays Chicago first team and Wetomachek meets Madison.

In the afternoon Wetomachek second team will play Central Illinois and North Shore second team faces Et Cetera girls at 1 o'clock. North Shore meets Madison and St. Louis will play Milwaukee at 3 p. m.

Tomorrow morning, the final day of the tourney, the first Midwest team will play the second Midwest team at 10 o'clock.

Kieckhefer Signs for Match with Allen Hall

mere formality in the observance of a tradition and certain legal contracts between the schools. The Navy has been second rate in football ever since some of the officers on the Annapolis station decided to go collegiate, restricting their school to the eligibility code of the civilian schools regardless of the Naval academy's special character. That administration has been moved along to other duties now and the Naval academy may return to normalcy in a few years, but the upturn has not begun yet.

Not in Pools.

Thus far, the midshipmen, forbearing to use their full strength on the varsity out of respect for rules which should not apply to them, have been hampered like a man trying to whistle while holding his breath. They have beaten William and Mary, Delaware, and Princeton, they tied West Virginia Wesleyan, and lost to Maryland and Ohio State. This week, with half a dozen midshipmen ailing and out of the starting lineup, the navy meets the best team in the country and one of the best teams ever put together. The only doubt concerns the spelling of the names in the Notre Dame lineup which always looks like a grab from the roster of the Kosciusko society.

This game probably will not be quoted in the weekly football pools which are now taking the place of the stock exchange as a popular gamble. The football pools, which are in effect, six horse parlays, generally are made up of games between rather obscure schools on which the ordinary subscriber is not likely to have any information. A prominent official in amateur football marked a sheet for a friend a few weeks ago and the friend went among his friends, finally collecting $1,900 which he wagered against the pool on these selections at odds of twenty to one. His selections all won, the proprietor of the pool then took the fence and the friend and his friends finally compromised their claim at even money, winning $1,900 instead of $38,000. They told the man he was a mucker and no sportsman, but all he would say was "sue me."

KENNEY TAKES NORTH SECTION 3 RAIL CROWN

Len Kenney of Chicago won the northern sectional three cushion championship billiard tournament by defeating Joseph Moriarty of Chicago, 50 to 24, in 63 innings, at the Kieckhefer Recreation last night. As a result of this triumph Kenney qualified to be the fourth Chicago representative in the world three cushion championship tournament, which will be held next January or February. The other Chicago entries are Arthur Thurnblad, Augie Kieckhefer, and Allen Hall. Kenney's high run was 4, Moriarty's was two.

Kenney and Moriarty were tied at four games won and one lost as they started the final contest. Moriarty gained the tie by defeating Jack Henley of Des Moines, 50 to 27, in 51 innings, yesterday afternoon just after Kenney turned back Charles McCourt of Cleveland, 50 to 27, in 53 innings.

Kenney dominated the play from the star against Moriarty. He gained a commanding lead and never was in danger. The final standings:

	Won.	Lost.	High Run.	Best Game.	Tot. Pts.
Len Kenney	5	1	6	51	289
Joseph Moriarty	4	2	9	43	261
Charles McCourt	3	3	9	52	238
Jack Henley	1	5	7	54	229

LAKE FOREST, ELGIN PLAY FOR ACADEMY TITLE

The middle western academy football title will be decided today when Lake Forest and Elgin academies clash today on Farwell field, Lake Forest, in a charity benefit and homecoming game.

Lake Forest is the favorite, by virture of an early season 13 to 0 victory over Morgan Park Military academy. Last week Elgin played Morgan Park to a 7 to 7 tie. Pike, Lake Forest's star 200 pound center, will be out of the game because of a cracked collar bone. The Lake Forest-Elgin series, renewed this year after a lapse of a decade was begun in 1894.

Floyd Harper Jr., nephew of Notre Dame's athletic director, Jesse Harper; Russell Buddington, Herbert Flack, Ed Hutchinson, Raymond Murphy, Ed Shaffner, and Tim Smithies are the Chicago boys who will be in Lake Forest's lineup today.

Western Maryland Wins Over Johns Hopkins, 40-0

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Western Maryland tonight knocked Johns Hopkins university from its position among the undefeated football teams in the east, winning the game, 40 to 0. The Green Terrors scored in every quarter, registering a touchdown in the first period, and led at the end of the half, 13 to 0. Fourteen more points were added in the third period and seven in the final quarter.

going to necessitate the starting of Berry at that position. Evans will try to take care of Berry's regular half back berth. And Frink, an end, and supposedly a good one, will be intrusted with the calling of the signals.

Another bit of juggling had to be done to find a full back. Clark Root, ordinarily a half back, is going to assume the rôle of a plunger. He's a tiny Urbana boy with whom the Maroons have had trouble in other years. With four half backs in action it is a pretty fair bet that Zuppke's plan of attack is to be of the running variety in which his good teams always specialized.

There appears to be some difference of opinion as to how the age old rivals stand in their grid arguments. The Maroon count is sixteen wins for themselves, fifteen for Illinois, and three ties. The Urbana count is sixteen victories for the Orange and Blue, fifteen for Chicago, and four ties. The Illini custodians of past records suspect the Maroons have taken credit for a game in which they walked off the field, giving Illinois the decision by forfeit.

MAROONS LEAVE TODAY

Twenty-eight University of Chicago football players will board a special train at 9 o'clock this morning for Champaign and the last place squabble with the Illini.

Keith Parsons is in the hospital with a serious cold. Raymond Zenner will start in his place, with Reneker, a sophomore, ready to substitute. Pompeo Toigo, who was put out for the season last Saturday with a knee injury, will be replaced at end by Bob Walsh. Paul Stagg, who was damaged by a tackler in scrimmage, probably will be forced to forego this week's competition entirely. More or less frail are Stanley Hamberg, Pete Zimmer, and Bert Cassels.

About 500 Chicago undergraduates will follow the team and the band to Champaign. Harold Swift, president of the university board of trustees, will take a party which will include Claire Dux, opera singer, and Thornton Wilder, novelist now teaching at the university.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Hopeful of retaining its share of second place in the race for the Big Ten title, Purdue's football squad, with only one defeat against its record, will tackle the desperate Iowa eleven here tomorrow in the annual homecoming game for Boilermaker alumni.

Although it boasts one of the most powerful running offenses in the middlewest, with two complete back field groups, the Boilermakers are apt to find difficulty with the rejuvenated Iowa line that held Nebraska to one touchdown last Saturday.

Iowa Scents Victory.

Iowa arrived here this afternoon, and it was evident that the Hawkeyes, at their full strength for the first time this season after being beset by injuries in early games, scent their first Big Ten victory of the year.

Against Purdue's interchangeable back field system, that has James Peelle, Ed Risk, Alex Yunevich and Jim Purvis as one ball carrying foursome, and Paul Pardonner, Fred Hecker, Roy Horstmann and Doxie Moore as the other, the Hawkeyes will throw their veteran trio of Capt. Sansen, Hickman and Kriz.

Hawks Aim at Line.

While the Boilermakers have two outstanding performers in the line in Capt. Charles Miller, center, and Paul Moss, end, the Hawkeyes are basing their hopes for victory on slashing through the forward wall.

Coach Noble Kizer of Purdue indicated tonight that he would start the most experienced combination, containing six seniors, Capt. Miller, Voinoff, Eugene Boswell, Ed Risk, Alex Yunevich and Jim Purvis, who will be playing their last home game for the old Gold and Black.

EX-SOX PLAYER STEALS CLOCK; GETS LENIENCY

Frank Hemphill, a player on the White Sox teams of 1904, 1905 and 1906, appeared in the South State street court yesterday on a charge of stealing an electric clock from a loop department store.

The defendant's stalwart figure and face brought back to Judge Donald S. McKinlay a recollection of the Frank Hemphill of professional ball. Hemphill admitted his identity. He is 47 years old and lives at the Mills hotel, 817 West Monroe street.

Judge McKinlay imposed a fine of $1 and a sentence of one day in the Bridewell, then said, "No commitment."

This meant that Hemphill did not have to pay the fine, which he could not have done, or serve the day in jail.

LAKE FOREST IN SEARCH OF 11TH WIN OVER BELOIT

With several hundred members of the student body making the trip with it to Beloit today, the Lake Forest college varsity football squad will seek its eleventh victory over the Wisconsin school in the 40 years of rivalry between the two colleges. Since 1891, the schools have played 31 games, Lake Forest winning ten, Beloit nine, while six games were tied. Last season the Foresters won their first game in eight years, 19 to 6.

Although the injuries to Ashton, guard, and Goodman, tackle, have healed, so they may see action in the Beloit game, Orr, veteran end, is out for the remainder of the season. Capt. Stralko and Hammond, back field men, who received injuries recently, may play.

[DE] PAUL DEFEATS [AG]GIES, 34 TO 20, [FOR] 6TH VICTORY

[St]effen Leads Attack Before 15,000.

[Judge] Steffen continued to pace De [Paul] university's drive for the most [successful] season in its history last [night when] the Blue Demons scored [their] sixth victory, defeating the [South] Dakota Aggies, 34 to 20, before a homecoming crowd of 15,000 at [Mills] stadium.

[After] South Dakota had scored [early] in the first quarter, Steffen [went] through right guard and ran [... yards] for a touchdown. He then [kicked] the extra point to tie the score. [He] added two more touchdowns, one [on a] 25 yard run and the other [through] tackle from the Aggies' seven [yard] line before leaving the game in [the] third quarter.

[With] the ball on the Aggies' 38 [yard] line in the first period Rishol [passed] to Butcher of De Paul, who [fumbled] on the Demons' 18 yard line. [The] ball was recovered by Tollefson, [South] Dakota right end. On the next [play], Hladky, with tacklers already [pulling] him down, threw a pass to [Pofahl] for a touchdown. Rishol [kicked] the extra point to give South [Dakota] a 7 to 0 lead.

Steffen Ties Score.

[The] score was tied a few minutes [later when] McGivern carried the ball [... yards] to the South Dakota 37 [yard line]. A 5 yard penalty put the [ball on the] ?? yard line. Then Steffen [scored] his first touchdown by [going through] guard to the goal line. [In] the third quarter De Paul paraded down the field to complete three [consecutive] first downs. Steffen [plunged] for a 2 yard gain and on the [next play] raced around right end for [... yards] and a score. He kicked the [extra] point and De Paul led, 14 to 7. [The] Blue Demons began another [drive] shortly after the kickoff and [with] Butcher and Jablonski carrying [the] ball, reached the South Dakota 13 [yard] line. Steffen made six yards and [then] crashed through tackle for seven [yards and] his third touchdown. His [kick] for the extra point again was [good].

Both Score Twice.

[Both] teams counted twice in the [final] quarter. South Dakota scored a [few] minutes after the period opened [on] a pass, Carr to Pofahl. The Aggies [scored] again when Hladky plunged [over] the De Paul 1 yard line. Butcher [and] McGivern scored De Paul's touchdowns on short plunges. Lineup:

Harrison and Parker Open Title Series

CITY LEAGUE
[Semi-finals.]
Harrison vs. Parker at Mills stadium.
Tilden vs. Schurz at Logan Square park.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE.
Oak Park vs. Proviso at Maywood.
Deerfield vs. New Trier at Winnetka.
Waukegan vs. Evanston at Evanston field.

WEST SUBURBAN CONFERENCE.
York vs. Glenbard at Glen Ellyn.
Maine vs. Riverside at Riverside field.
West Chicago vs. Hinsdale at Hinsdale field.

Kankakee vs. Thornton at Harvey.

Harrison and Parker, both undefeated, will meet this afternoon in one of the semi-final contests for the Chicago Public High School Football league championship at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick avenue and Lake street. In the other semi-final game Tilden plays Schurz at Logan Square park, Kedzie and Elston avenues.

In Parker, Harrison faces its strongest opponent of the season. Harrison has rolled up eight consecutive victories, handing Crane Tech a 39 to 0 defeat last week to retain its west section title. Pre-season victims include Lindblom, 1930 league champion, and Mooseheart, Ill.

Tilden Is Strong.

Parker, boasting one of the most powerful lines in the league, has won seven straight games. It captured its eighth south section championship by defeating Fenger last week and is considered the only squad in the semi-finals as strong as Harrison.

Despite a surprising defeat last Saturday, Tilden is the favorite against Schurz, north section titleholder. Tilden, which represents the central division because of its victory over Lindblom two weeks ago, suffered its only sectional setback at the hands of Hyde Park, 7 to 6.

Three suburban championships will be decided as the league races end this afternoon. Oak Park will invade Maywood to meet Proviso, the last hurdle in its path to the Suburban league title. The other Surburban league contest pits Deerfield against New Trier at Winnetka.

Glenbard Favored.

Glenbard is expected to regain the West Suburban conference title when it faces York, its conqueror in last season's game at Glen Ellyn. Maine, holder of second place, will meet Riverside on the latter's field, while West Chicago and Hinsdale conclude their league seasons at Hinsdale's field.

A victory over Kankakee will give Thornton its second straight South Suburban league championship at Harvey and also will gain the right to represent the league in a charity game against the Suburban league champions at Oak Park field next Saturday.

Hyde Park of the City league will travel to La Grange to meet the powerful La Grange High school squad in a nonleague contest. Proceeds of the game will be turned over to charity.

Hoppe Sets 2 Cue Records, Keeps Lead Over Cochran

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe, challenger for the world's 18.1 balkline billiard title, set two world records in maintaining a lead over Welker Cochran, the champion, in the ninth and tenth blocks of their 3,600 point match today. Hoppe had 3,000 points and Cochran 2,166 at the end of the day. A new mark for consecutive caroms was made by the challenger when he ran 243 in the first inning in the afternoon. The previous record for tournament play was 196.

It's Going to Be Hard Winter for Michigan Deer

BY BOB BECKER.

With Michigan's annual deer hunting season starting this year on Sunday, Nov. 15, conservation authorities in that state are expecting one of the largest rifle squads in recent years to be roaming through the timber in search of male deer with antlers at least three inches long. Even though at this date, with complete returns on license sales not available, the state estimates that more than 70,000 sportsmen will hit for the tall timber in order to get a buck.

With Sunday a "free" day for the majority of hunters, the Michigan woods on the opening day will undoubtedly sound like the scene of a sham battle between United States army units, and in spite of red hats, red coats, and other safety first hunting clothes, there will be plenty of calls for the ambulance before the day is over.

The prevailing opinion in Michigan is that the deer will be hunted harder than ever this year, because, with many of the hunters, it is a question of meat, rather than too much emphasis upon the sport. A fat 175 pound buck will keep a family in fresh meat for a number of weeks. Inasmuch as a resident has to pay but $3.50 for a license to hunt deer he has a chance to get food cheaply—providing, of course, that he has any luck.

One of the problems facing Michigan this fall is the possibility of many hunters going out to get a deer without a residence license. Heretofore the price of this license was fixed at $2.50. This year it is $3.50, and the protests from northern residents have been loud and long, because this extra dollar "hurts."

Michigan's season runs from Nov. 15 to Nov. 30. This period also may bring grief to the black bears, because nearly every deer hunter goes into the woods in the hope that he can run across a member of the bruin family.

After ten years of operation under the "you can kill just one buck" law Michigan appears to have a good crop of deer evry year. At least there has been no appreciable decrease in the number of bucks and the number of does does not seem to have increased. The animals this year are reported to be in fine condition and well distributed througout the hunting territory.

In view of the number of counties allowing no deer hunting this fall nonresident hunters should familiarize themselves with the complete list of open and closed counties before unlimbering the big guns.

Cards Stake Reputation on Packer Game

The hardest test of their 1931 schedule confronts the Chicago Cardinals tomorrow when they meet the champion Green Bay Packers at Wrigley field. The contest will determine whether the Cards are a great club, or just another football team. If they can trip the Green Bay club, they will accomplish what seven other National league teams have been unable to do this year, and what only two clubs besides themselves were able to do in 1930.

The Cardinals are keyed to their highest pitch of the year and promise a rough reception for the Packers. Ernie Nevers, the playing coach, will sacrifice every ounce of man power and use every strategem he can devise in an effort to halt the title march of the 1930 champions.

Watch Visiting Stars.

There will be several marked men on the field tomorrow. The Cards have been drilled all week in pass defense and hope to spoil that passing combination, Dunn to Blood. Another back the Cardinals will concentrate on is Russ Saunders, star plunger an open field runner. Wuert Englemann, former South Dakota half back, cannot be overlooked either. His specialty is end runs.

The Packers are bent on smothering the thrusts of Nevers. They believe he is the Cards' chief threat, and if they can prevent him from plunging through their line, they think they will continue their winning ways.

Then There's Mr. Glasgow.

Willis Glasgow is certain to be a target. He is the open field star of the Cards. The defensive secondary will keep a sharp lookout for the heralded attack, Nevers to Kassell and Nevers to Creighton. Both Kassell and Creighton have an uncanny way of breaking into the open and grabbing passes for long gains.

Three of the high scoring stars of the league will see action. Nevers, third high scorer of the circuit, has an opportunity to narrow the gap between himself and Algie Clark of Portsmouth, the leader. Clark is reported out for the remainder of the season with a fracture.

MIDWEST CAGERS MEET.

The Midwest Professional Basketball league will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at 102 South Dearborn street.

Big 10 Alumni of Coast Urge Game for N.U.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Alumni of all Western conference universities in and around Los Angeles have banded in an effort to obtain Northwestern university's participation in the annual Jan. 1 intersectional football game in the Pasadena Rose bowl.

Inspired by the possibility of Northwestern's team being invited by Southern California, the west coast representative, to play in the Tournament of Roses game, officials of the alumni clubs representing all the midwest conference colleges have sent out a summons for a luncheon meeting at University club next Wednesday. Robert J. Miller of the University of Michigan alumni headed the list of officers issuing the call. George A. Judson, president of the Minnesota alumni, also signed the call.

Big Ten alumni on the Pacific coast for years have been active in trying to bring representative conference elevens to California. The only time that a conference eleven played in the Rose bowl was when Ohio State appeared in 1921 and was beaten by California, 28 to 0.

Steffen's Resignation Shocks Tech

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Carnegie Tech sport officials were stunned today and as unable as those on the outside to explain the decision of Advisory Football Coach Walter Steffen to resign his position at the end of the season. Clarence Overend, graduate manager of athletics, in Philadelphia with the Plaid football eleven for the game with Temple tomorrow, also expressed surprise, as did the members of the team, over Steffen's announced intention to quit.

Judge Steffen, the country's only "commuting coach," who spends the month of September and week-ends with his team, announced his retirement in a speech at the annual University of Chicago football banquet in Chicago last night.

Assistant Graduate Manager Al Irwin declared that the school was entirely uninformed in advance of Judge Steffen's intention.

"The first I knew of it was when I picked up the newspaper this morning," Irwin said. "Naturally it would be impossible at this time to hazard a guess as to who will succeed him.

LOUGHRAN WINS CLOSE BATTLE FROM PAULINO

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Tommy Loughran limped through to victory tonight over Paulino Uscudun of Spain in their ten round bout in Madison Square Garden, and saved his position among the country's leading contenders for Max Schmeling's heavyweight title.

The veteran Philadelphian probably never will come nearer defeat and escape, for he had to call upon all the boxing skill at his command to stave off the bull-like fighting man that sought his downfall.

Three boxing officials voting on the decision disagreed on the award, and the crowd of 10,000 which paid receipts of $26,500, shared this disagreement in more violent manner. As a consequence victor and vanquished left the ring in a mingled din. Referee Jed Gahan and Marty Monroe, one of the judges, voted for Loughran, while Tommy Shortell the other judge, voted for Paulino. The verdict might have been unanimous, in full justice to Loughran for a masterful exhibition in which he won five rounds to Paulino's four, with one even. But the crowd didn't think Loughran was entitled to the award.

Loughran's victory was scored under the handicap of an injured right leg which overtook him half way through the fight.

Hillsdale Clinches Title; Beats Albion, 13 to 0

Albion, Mich., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Hillsdale college clinched the M. I. A. A. football championship by defeating the Albion college eleven, 13 to 0, here today.

Introduced by Allan of Edinburgh
Reproduced by Regal

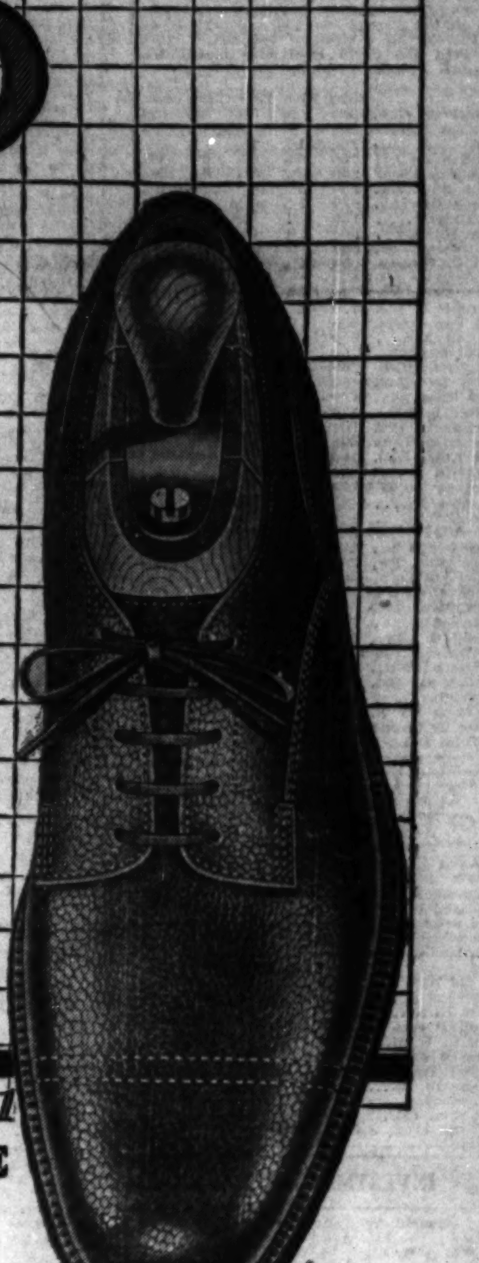

We don't believe you ever saw or heard of a shoe made with a full Double Upper before we introduced it in America, by reproducing Allan's of Edinburgh famous Original Scotch Blucher Brogue.

This shoe has an outside upper made of Martin's of Glasgow Genuine Scotch Grain Leather—but that isn't half of it. This Double Upper Brogue has a Solid Leather Toe Box—Solid Leather Counter—Solid Leather Heel—Solid Leather Inner Sole and a Double Solid Leather Outer Sole. As a matter of fact, there is just about twice as much leather in this Double Upper Scotch Brogue as in an ordinary shoe.

BUYERS TIMID SO STOCKS HERE GIVE UP GROUND

Chicago Market Activity at Low Ebb.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Timidity of buyers generally and absence of nearby supporting bids, particularly in some of the preferred stocks, conspired to cause breaks yesterday in several of the less active shares on the Chicago exchange. Recessions in some instances approached 6 points and resulted from unusually light trade.

Speculators were restricting operations pending developments in the commodity markets, with the result that total transactions fell to the lowest levels in weeks. Sales amounted to slightly more than 50,000 shares.

Preferred Issues Slip.

The preferred shares which gave under the weight of moderate liquidation included Central and Southwest preferred, down 2¼ points; Middle West Utilities 6 per cent preferred, off 4 points; Middle West prior lien, 1¾. Insull Utility second preferred was comparatively steady, closing a point lower at 46½.

Losses among the common shares were nominal, in only a few instances exceeding a point. In the higher priced bracket Commonwealth Edison and Public Service no par sustained larger losses.

Effect Dividend Saving.

Interest continued in Continental Chicago common. It is understood that the company has retired from circulation 123,994 shares of the preferred stock through open market purchases. The preferred, which is now selling around 25, is entitled to $55 a share in the event of liquidation. The reduction in the stock outstanding effects a saving of $286,647 in the annual dividend requirements.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Steady trading in the recently listed Insull rights and a well distributed interest through the rest of the list swelled Chicago curb sales up to the 15,000 share mark yesterday. Public Service rights met selling throughout the day and were a point lower in their final quotations of 4⅝, while the Edison options wound up unchanged at $4.00. Hammond Clock slipped a point to 13 in the general list and Greenebaum on a turnover of a block of 540 shares eased through the $1.00 level into record low ground.

OPTIMISM RIFE ON ANNIVERSARY OF "BIG CRASH"

Depression Is Over, Business Feels.

BY O. A. MATHER.

[illegible] was not only "Friday, [illegible]" but it was the second an[illegible] of that "black Friday" in [illegible] securities reached the final [illegible] of collapse. It should have [illegible] a fine occasion for the gloomy [illegible] but nobody in LaSalle street [illegible] in spite of declines in [illegible] and grains.

[illegible] this ideal "hangman's day" [illegible] matter for jest and cheerful [illegible]. The opinion was generally [illegible] that now the country is [illegible] out of depression, whereas [illegible] ago it was entering one. [illegible] admittedly created a lot [illegible] but they also have cleared [illegible] considerable of the debris. Now [illegible] foundation is being laid.

Trade Reviews Cheerful.

[illegible] weekly trade reviews epitomize [illegible] general view by stating that [illegible] improvement in sentiment has [illegible] accompanied by concrete evi[illegible] of a turn for the better, al[illegible] the recent access of cheerful[illegible] has not yet been translated into [illegible] proportionate increase in trade and [illegible] activity.

"[illegible] sentiment has been fur[illegible] improved with increased sales [illegible] an enlarged movement of fall [illegible] winter goods," Dun's Review [illegible] "Department store sales are [illegible] and merchants are stocking [illegible] for the Christmas season with [illegible] hopes and a feeling of greater [illegible] as to the future.

"Almost complete uniformity marks [illegible] of a change for the better as [illegible] money is coming into circulation [illegible] the marketing of staple crops, [illegible] stock, and dairy products at higher [illegible].

Aid for Farmers.

"The advance in the price of grains [illegible] the removal of severe credit re[illegible] in certain sections have en[illegible] bank credits available for legiti[illegible] transactions and the higher [illegible] for wheat have benefited thou[illegible] of farmers and helped hundreds [illegible] of rural banks.

"The increase of 15 cents a barrel [illegible] crude oils in the southwest has [illegible] approximately $300,000 a day of [illegible] purchasing power to oil produc[illegible] and royalty owners, and bankers [illegible] industrialists state that the [illegible]chological effect of the price in[illegible] is worth millions to the peo[illegible] of several states."

Sees Optimism.

"The more pronounced optimism [illegible] week still remains in evidence," [illegible]street's Review says "that this [illegible] sentiment has been translated [illegible] proportionate activity, however, [illegible] be said. Retail and wholesale [illegible] has not yet felt, to any appre[illegible] degree, the effect of the higher [illegible] of grains and other com[illegible].

"On the other hand, no sudden [illegible] business recovery on a sound [illegible] can be expected. The adjust[illegible] of business is a gradual, if [illegible] painful, process and the gaining of a [illegible] cheerful outlook is a real step [illegible]. It is still generally felt that [illegible] will probably show more [illegible] activity than October.

"The heavy industries, particularly [illegible], are sharing to some extent in [illegible] show of optimism."

Expects Better Business.

[illegible] now indicate that the [illegible] States is laying the founda[illegible] for better business next year and [illegible] gradual return to prosperity, ac[illegible] to Leroy D. Peavey, president [illegible] the Babson statistical organization, [illegible] spoke at a business conference [illegible] Chicago yesterday.

"Stocks of goods have been pulled [illegible] to levels that cannot last," he [illegible]. "Before 1932 is over, [illegible] in some lines should be un[illegible] better. You cannot keep [illegible] United States on a basis of 25 [illegible] per cent below normal. Just as [illegible] had its ceiling, so 1931 must [illegible] its floor. Many good stocks are [illegible] the bargain basement today. Bonds [illegible] sold back to 1923-'24 levels. [illegible] great opportunities exist today."

[illegible] week has shown a large gain [illegible] total expenditures involved in [illegible] engineering construction, ac[illegible] to the Engineering News-[illegible]. The total outlay has been [illegible], compared with $20,823,000 [illegible] week. Thus far this year such [illegible] have totaled $2,248,246,-[illegible], compared with $2,923,097,000 for [illegible] same period in 1930.

Central Republic Bank Aids Eitel Bondholders

[illegible] of the Central Republic [illegible] and Trust company explained [illegible] that that bank merely acted [illegible] trustee for the bondholders in the [illegible] of the Eitel block at Ran[illegible] and Wells streets.

[illegible] foreclosure resulted from fail[illegible] of the Randolph Hotel company, [illegible] of the property, to meet inter[illegible] on a $7,250,000 bond issue. The [illegible] were marketed by the Greene-[illegible] Sons Investment, affiliate of [illegible] Sons Bank and Trust [illegible], which was absorbed by the [illegible] Republic several years ago. [illegible] this way, the Central Republic [illegible] succeeded as trustee for the bond [illegible]. The bank has no financial in[illegible] in the property.

Stockholders' Committee to Oppose Radio Keith Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Within a few hours after announcement had been made of a plan of capital reorganization of Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation today, an announcement was made of the formation of a stockholders' committee to oppose the plan.

The plan calls for subscriptions from stockholders to debentures, to be issued with which a premium of a new common stock is given. The plan was characterized by Emerson and Sperling, attorneys, who announced the stockholders' committee, as "an involuntary assessment of $5 a share on each share of class A stock, with the alternative to the stockholder of losing three-quarters of his equity in the company."

The plan of reorganization of the capital stock, as contained in a letter to stockholders mailed today, is that the present class A and class B shares of the company be converted into a common stock in the ratio of one share of the new stock for each four shares of the stock now held.

Right to Subscribe.

Prior to the exchange of the shares, however, the present class A stockholders are given the right to subscribe $5 for each share of 10 year six per cent debentures to be issued by the corporation, and receive with each $5 subscription three-fourths of one share of the new stock. Radio Corporation of America, parent company of Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, has agreed to accept all debentures unsubscribed for by stockholders on the same terms as they are offered to the stockholders.

Accompanying the letter was a call for a special meeting of stockholders for Dec. 10 to pass upon the plan and also a proxy to be mailed into the company by stockholders who do not plan to attend the meeting. The right to subscribe to the debentures accrues to stockholders of record on Nov. 23.

There are approximately 2,300,000 shares of the class A stock outstanding, some of which was subscribed to by the public for $30 a share. The remainder was issued in exchange for the common stocks of the companies which were merged to form the present corporation. In addition to the A stock there are 500,000 shares of class B stock outstanding all which is owned by Radio Corporation of America.

Number of Shares.

At the conclusion of the exchange of the present classes of stock for the new common stock and the issuance of the new common as a premium with the debentures, there will be approximately the same number of common shares outstanding as there are now class A shares plus 125,000 shares, which will be issued in exchange for the class B shares. It is estimated that 1,740,000 of the new common shares will be required to be issued with the debentures, approximately 600,000 shares in exchange for the present class A shares, and 125,000 shares in exchange for the present class B shares.

Attorneys for the stockholders said that they had written to the corporation to learn the number of shares controlled by Radio Corporation of America, and until an answer had been received no course of action for the committee would be decided upon.

SWOPE REPLIES TO CRITICS OF INDUSTRY PLAN

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, today answered some criticisms of his plan for the mitigation of industrial depressions. Before the Academy of Political Science he emphasized the "voluntary action" element of his plan as opposed to compulsion, and reaffirmed his belief that stabilization of industry, particularly of employment, is possible by the procedure he has suggested.

Whether his plan is meritorious or not, he pointed out, the experience gained in endeavoring to put it into practice would of itself tend to correct its weaknesses. To believe, as some do, that industry cannot be stabilized, he said, is to adopt what Senator La Follette has termed the "counsel of despair," which would be a negation of all effort toward progress.

"No doubt," Mrs. Swope said, "the plan for stabilization of industry along lines that I have suggested would have to be modified as we have more experience, but such experience can be had only by one scheme or another to solve the problem, which, unsolved, leaves us with all the present chaotic, unhappy and finally unendurable consequences."

BOOM IN SILVER GETS SETBACK; TRADE SLOWER

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The boom in bar silver received a setback today that entirely wiped out yesterday's gain of seven-eighths of a cent an ounce.

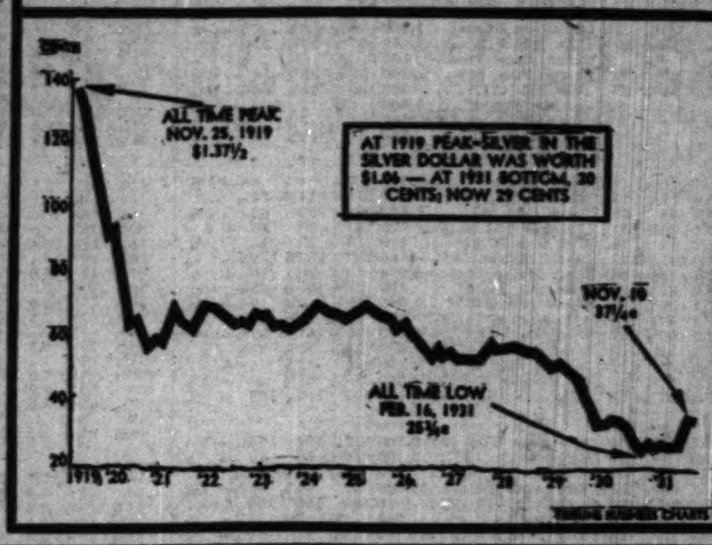

In sympathy with declines in London, the market in New York was weak and traders displayed a disposition to hold off commitments in the spot market. A delay of more than an hour in posting a price resulted. The decline brought the spot price back to 25⅝ cents an ounce, the figure to which the metal dropped two days ago when the recent rise first was halted.

Prices for silver futures also were lower and trading was at a much slower pace than during recent days when successive new records for volume were recorded. The close on the National Metal exchange showed prices one to nearly two cents lower, with the total volume 5,275,000 ounces, compared with yesterday's new high record of 9,175,000 ounces.

American Gold Stock Decreased by $240,000

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The daily gold statement of the federal reserve today showed a net decrease of $240,000 in stocks of the metal. Gold under earmark for foreign account increased $1,200,000, and metal received by import amounted to $960,000 from India. There were no exports.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company reports sales for the five-week period ending October 31 at $95,497,921, compared with $100,965,024 for the same period in 1930, a decrease of $5,467,103, or 5.41 per cent.

October sales, expressed in tons, were 524,746 this year, compared with 481,703 in October, 1930. This is a gain in quantity of merchandise sold of 43,040 tons, or 8.93 per cent.

Average weekly sales in October were $19,099,584, compared with $20,193,005 in 1930, a decrease of $1,093,421. Average weekly tonnage sales were 104,949, compared with 96,341 in October, 1930, an increase of 8,608.

N. Y. CENTRAL'S 3D QUARTER INCOME DROPS TO $225,366

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The New York Central Railroad company today reported third quarter net income of $225,366 against $8,813,757 for the same period last year. The report included all leased lines. Net railway operating income for the three months was $7,874,515, a decrease of $6,604,952. For the first nine months of this year the company had net income of $4,472,663 against $31,926,457 in 1930. Operating revenues during that period fell $72,103,754 to $296,329,639.

T. R. Loyall, president of the Norfolk & Southern Railroad, said the road so far this year has incurred a deficit after charges of approximately $300,000. "We expect to break even on the balance of the year," he added, "and therefore will not add to the deficit shown so far. We have not had to go to the banks and there is nothing pressing us at the moment."

Samuel Ungerleider & Co., Fenner & Beane to Merge

Fenner & Beane, affiliated with the New York Stock exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade and other exchanges, and Samuel Ungerleider & Co., also members of the New York Stock exchange, will consolidate in the near future. Negotiations for the consolidation have been completed and the actual merger is expected to take place Dec. 1. The new combined organization will operate under the name of Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider, and will continue all of the offices at present maintained by the two organizations, with the exception of two New York City uptown branches now operated by Samuel Ungerleider & Co.

R. H. GRANT OF GENERAL MOTORS FORECASTS GOOD AUTO BUSINESS

R. H. Grant, vice president of General Motors corporation, was in Chicago yesterday and said the books of the automotive industry are 12,000,000 year miles shy of normal in market depreciation at present, and that automobile sales are expected to reflect this deficit in increased sales next year.

He pointed out that statisticians had estimated about 2,000,000 pleasure cars would be sold this year, and that present indications are that that figure will be reached.

Mr. Grant said the statisticians look for the sale of another 2,000,000 automobiles during the coming year 1932. He prophesied that General Motors will increase its goal to 45 per cent of the total automobile production. More cars were junked last year than were sold, and that factor combined with the tendency of the automobile industry to reach peak sales every third year argues well for next year's business, he said.

Signs of general business improvement in the rise of wheat, other grains, silver and cotton prices, were referred to by Mr. Grant, who remarked he believed business was about to start on the upward trend again. He forecast that the automobile industry would far exceed previous peak volumes of sales in a new era of prosperity.

BRING CHECKS AS EVIDENCE IN EWALD TRIAL

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A sheaf of checks drawn on the account of Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., in favor of "K. Rossemann," a fictitious person, according to the prosecution, was introduced today at the mail fraud and conspiracy trial of Former Magistrate George F. Ewald.

On trial with Ewald are Harry C. Cotter, Frank E. Mitterlechner and Francis M. Schirp, president, vice-president and a director, respectively, of the corporation.

The checks were introduced during the evidence of Emerich J. Boczor, Ewald's former confidential secretary, in an attempt to show how Ewald and Cotter diverted money from the company's treasury into their own pockets under the guise of commissions.

Bull Hold on Wheat Slips; Prices Drop

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The extreme bullish sentiment which prevailed in the wheat market early in the week is giving way to a feeling of pessimism owing to the failure of the grain to show sustained strength. Further liquidation by scattered longs was under way yesterday and there was also some pressure from the local element as the result of rains in parts of the dry districts in the southwest. At the low point May was down to 64c, or 9c under the high of Monday and the finish was at the bottom, with net losses of 1⅞@2¼c, December being 59 to 59⅛c; March, 62c; May, 64 to 64⅛c, and July, 64 to 64⅛c, the latter leading the decline.

Numerous stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down in wheat. Buying against daily and weekly bids and by houses with stock exchange connections in small lots checked the break. Rumors were current that President Hoover was out with a denouncement of short selling of wheat which served to undermine confidence on the part of the local element, and they were less disposed to support the market than of late.

Canadian Report Bearish.

A bearish construction was placed on the Canadian government crop estimate of 298,000,000 bu wheat for all provinces, or 33,000,000 bu in excess of the previous figures, and the feeling prevailed in some quarters that the gain in that country more than offset the prospective frost damage in Argentine. A private cable received from Buenos Aires yesterday indicated that the loss from frost might materially excede estimates, but no figures were given.

The Buenos Aires wheat market showed considerable resistance to pressure and closed ⅝@¼c lower for the day, with December at 52⅛c, being 1⅛c higher than Saturday's finish, while the same delivery in Chicago declined 7⅝c during the same period. It was claimed at the seaboard American, hard winter wheat was about in line with offerings to Europe from Argentina during the day.

Hedging Pressure.

Hedging pressure from Australia was given as the main reason for a decline of 1@1⅛d in Liverpool, where the December closed at about 62⅝c per bu; sterling being figured at $3.73. Winnipeg was 2⅛@2½c lower for the day, with selling by Chicago and New York interests a factor. December there closed at 63c in Canadian currency.

European demand for North American cash wheat was rather slow, with sales of 400,000 bu estimated in all positions, mainly Manitobas. There were unconfirmed reports that Japan had bought some American hard winters. Harvesting is progressing in the early districts in Australia with the quality reported as excellent.

Corn Market Weakens.

Corn futures have declined from 6⅝@7⅛c from the high of last Monday, and the aggressive buying so much in evidence when the market was on the way up was absent, support yesterday coming mainly from locals and commission houses on resting orders. The break in wheat was the main depressing influence, and the close was at net losses of 1⅛@1⅝c, with December at 41⅛c to 41⅜c; March, 44⅝c; May, 46⅝c, and July, 48⅛c to 48⅝c.

Shipping demand for corn was again fairly good, with sales of 108,000 bu, while only 3,000 bu were booked to arrive from the country, and the trade has to some extent been forced to revise its ideas as to how much grain would come forward in November. Included in the exports from Argentina the past week were 354,000 bu to Japan.

Cash houses were on the buying side of oats, but the weakness in other grains and liquidation by scattered longs carried prices lower, and the close was at losses of ⅝@⅝c, with December finishing at 25⅝c; May, 23⅝c, and July, 28⅛c.

Rye Shows Strength.

Rye showed independent strength, and advanced rather sharply in the early trading only to ease later and closed ⅝@1c lower in sympathy with wheat. December was 48⅝c; May, 54⅛c to 54⅝c, and July, 55c at the last. Reports that Rotterdam had bought a fair amount of Canadian rye, with reports that numerous continental countries were in the market for supplies, and a bullish construction placed on the Canadian government report were factors in advancing the market early.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—As if to observe the second anniversary of the "bottom of the 1929 crash" in a manner befitting the occasion, the share market today put on its most doleful performance in weeks. Prices slumped 1 to 5 points in all departments with never an attempt at a rally to relieve the gloom. Most of the selling carried the earmarks of real liquidation.

Maybe the fact that it was Friday the 13th had something to do with it. Your stock speculator is not known for a fondness for passing under ladders and seeing black cats dart across his pathway en route home from work, and it is traditional in the street that nobody wants to buy stocks when the calendar jinx is on. Uneasiness over pending railroad dividend actions, weakness in grains and talk of selling ahead to the end of income tax accounts contributed to the feeling that the times were somehow out of joint.

Rails Point Way Down.

The rails again pointed the way down. Selling in New York Central went on in heavy scale all day, driving that carrier blue chip down to new low levels for the year. At its worst the stock showed a loss of more than 4 points and over 8 points from yesterday's high. The closing sale was at 45⅝, which compares with the 1929 high of 256⅛.

Trading in general was so heavy as to virtually monopolize the tape during the greater part of the day. The unrelenting pressure exerted against it gave rise to reports that an early offering of debentures to provide funds for liquidation of large floating debt is in prospect. The street has long since become resigned to a downward revision of the road's dividend.

Other rails which have been featured in the effort to "bull" the group as market leaders were also freely sold, some of them scoring even sharper losses on much smaller volume. Thus Atchison dropped 5⅝ points, Union Pacific 5, Missouri Pacific preferred 6⅛, New Haven 3⅛, Southern Pacific 3⅛, Rock Island 3⅛, and Illinois Central 2⅛ points.

Real Liquidation.

Efforts to fasten the blame for the selling in this department on the "bears" were put forward with some vigor during the early dealings, but the persistence of the movement soon put a quietus to them, showing beyond the peradventure of a doubt that the bulk of the offerings were taking the form of real liquidation. Much of it was supposed to emanate from sources which had loaded up recently on the theory that the rails, having suffered so dreadfully, were due to do really important things on the upside, what with the interstate commerce commission's freight ruling and the movement for a reduction in the wages of their employés brightening

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 600; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 6,000.

For the first time in many weeks light hogs are outselling all other weights. They showed the least weakness when prices broke yesterday and many held fully steady, while stock exceeding 210 lbs in weight was pounded down 10@25c near the close. The extreme top moved down 10c at $5.00, paid mostly for $170@210 lb light hogs. Few hogs weighing 225@300 lbs passed $4.90 and the bulk of these weights sold later in the day at $4.80@4.85.

The general average for the whole day was off 10c at $4.80. The hog market has been slipping during the last two days and prevailing quotations are only 15@25c above the low spot of the season, established early last week. Receipts are on the increase, which is seasonal at this time, and arrivals at Chicago yesterday at 33,000 were large for Friday. Outside demand continues broad and shippers yesterday bought 35 per cent of the fresh receipts.

Hog Futures Steady.

Buyers are displaying little interest in December and January contracts for hogs except at prices under the $5.00 line. Some heavy grades for December were offered at the latter price, but all bids remained unchanged at $4.80. March light were bid $5.35 and mediums $5.50, with offers at $6.20 in mediums and at $6.00 in the heavy class.

It was clean up day in the cattle yards and offerings consisted largely of common to medium grades of steers that sold at $5@7.25, with only occasional lots selling above $7.60. However, two carloads of prime 1,446 lb Iowa yearlings went to Swift for eastern shipment at $11.50, the only highly finished stock on the market.

This week's cattle trade has been very erratic, but sharp losses were recorded on most days and the closing level was far below the recently high point of the season, even some of the top grades showing losses of 25@50c for the week. However, all visible factors are in favor of the man feeding cattle and traders are confident that the break is the temporary reaction that follows a big advance in any market. All reports indicate that supplies of fat cattle in the country are below average. Beef has been moving freely into consumptive channels and prices on the wholesale trade have worked slightly higher since a week ago. Holdings of beef in cold storage houses are far below the five year average.

Fed Lambs Bring $6.50.

Fed western lambs comprised a bigger share of offerings yesterday and took their position at the head of the price list for the first time this season. The improvement in quality of "fed" lambs justifies their outselling natives and range offerings, and traders expect this class to maintain their superiority the rest of the season. Choice 89 lb averages went to packers at $6.50, while most natives were sold at $6@6.35. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Feeding lambs met fair demand at the previous day's quotations.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 600 cattle, 20,000 hogs and 6,000 sheep, against 588 cattle, 15,709 hogs and 7,769 sheep the previous Saturday and 252 cattle, 12,023 hogs and 1,043 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 48,000 to 66,000. F. Knutzen marked 66,000, W. T. Raneker, 65,000; L. Vining, 64,000; R. Trullinger, S. Lund and J. T. Brown, 62,000; G. Southwick, 61,000; J. M. Waters, M. J. Berkery and H. Wolfe, 60,000; G. W. Chandler, H. Pattison and W. Garrett, 58,000; F. M. Sherwood, 57,000; F. S. Waterbury, P. Allen, H. S. Turner, R. B. Ellis and A. G. Weihener, 55,000; O. Dwight, 50,000, and J. A. Bunyan, 48,000.

WALL ST. PUTS ON MOST SORRY SHOW IN WEEKS

Industrials held up fairly well during the first half the session, but mid-afternoon found them in headlong retreat with the rails.

American Can hit the toboggan for a loss of nearly two points in spite of the much touted news that the 1931 corn pack would be substantially in excess of that of 1930. United States Steel suffered a similar loss after keeping its back up until well along toward the last. Western Union continued it downward movement with a fresh decline of about 5 points to the lowest level since 1915.

Mining shares were about the best acting group of the list, the coppers in particular showing stout resistance throughout the session to pressure. Reports of brightening chances of a curtailment agreement, with the Belgians postponing their departure slated for Saturday, helped the red metal.

Trading was again light, the volume coming to about 1,500,000 shares.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw advanced 2 points today to the basis of 3.40c for spots. The only sale confirmed was 21,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to an outport refiner, although it was rumored that additional quantities were sold at the same level.

Futures were steadier early on covering and trade buying, but reacted later, closing at net declines of 1 to 2 points. The market opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher and at one time was 2 points net higher on most of the active positions. Approximate sales, 13,600 tons. Prices follow:

SCALE BUYING IN COTTON CLOSE AT LOW PRICES

Buying of cotton was largely on a scale downward by trade interests, who found offerings moderate. Southern selling increased somewhat and prices dropped to the 6.50c point level in Chicago. This has been the pivotal point of late. Aside from this trading there was little in the market, prices holding within a narrow range and closing at the low point of the day, with losses on futures in Chicago 7@13 points and in other markets 4@10 points, New Orleans being the strongest. Spots lost 5 points in New York to 6.55c and 10 points in New Orleans to 6.45c, with Galveston 6.35c and Houston 6.30c. Liverpool closed unchanged to 1 point net higher, with spot sales 13,000 bales.

Movement and hedge sales in the south are given fair attention and have a moderate influence on market operations. Spot sales are said to continue heavy. Dry goods trade is quiet. There were rains in parts of Texas which restricted picking. British exports of cotton goods for October are larger to India, China, and Switzerland, but smaller to all other countries, the total being 143,000,000 square yards, against 150,000,000 in October last year. Spinners' takings were about 100,000 bales larger than last year.
